RENEW RED DRIVE IN ARCTIC

BUYERS' UNITS SET UP BY REDS, DIES GROUP SAYS

Charges Soviets Aim to Stir Unrest.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—A number of so-called consumers' organizations have been set up in this country by the communist party of Soviet Russia in an endeavor to stimulate discontent among the purchasers of food, clothing, and other necessaries of life, the Dies committee on un-American activities charged today.

Mrs. Alice Belester.

The committee made public a report on these organizations by J. B. Matthews, its research director. The Consumers' union was singled out in the report as the principal agent in America for spreading the communistic doctrine. Arthur Kallet, director of the Consumers' union, was named as the chief exploiter of the consumer movement on behalf of the communist party.

Consumers' organizations issue monthly reports to their members which purport to inform them concerning the best purchases they can make of various articles on the basis of price and quality.

Directors Called Fellow Travelers.

The report named several of the members of the board of directors of the Consumers' union as communist fellow travelers. The organization has used as a principal advertising medium the Daily Worker, official organ of the communist party in America, and other communist publications, Matthews wrote.

Other consumers' organizations listed as being controled by communists were the following: New York Consumers council; Greenwich Village High Cost of Living conference, New York; Central Action Committee Against High Cost of Living, Detroit; United Conference Against the High Cost of Living, Chicago; City Action Committee Against High Cost of Living, New York; United Conference Against High Cost of Living, Los Angeles.

"In Chicago Mrs. Alice Belester is executive secretary of the United Conference Against the High Cost of Living," the report declared. "According to the Daily Worker, Dec. 13, 1933, Mrs. Belester was a financial contributor to that communist party publication. According to the Daily Worker Aug. 9, 1937, Mrs. Belester led a picket line thru the loop district with signs protesting an increase in the price of milk."

Says Reds Are Foe of Advertising.

"Precisely as the communist party professes an interest in collective bargaining for the purpose of expanding its influence and control into trade unions, and precisely as it professes an interest in peace and democracy for the purpose of bringing members of the middle class under its influence," Matthews' report stated, "so the party professes concern over consumers for the purpose of tearing down the institutions of capitalist society and erecting in their place the institutions of proletarian dictatorship.

"Communists understand that advertising performs an indispensable function in a mass production economy, and that advertising as an economic process, wholly apart from questions which have to do with good or bad advertising copy, is as essential a part of the distributive mechanism as are railroads and retail outlets.

"Therefore, communists believe that to sabotage and destroy advertising, and thru its destruction to undermine and help destroy the capitalist system of free enterprise is a revolutionary tactic worthy of a great deal of attention. The special committee on un-American activities is in possession of evidence which shows that a great part of the current popular and official attack upon advertising is the direct result of communist propaganda in the field of consumer organizations."

SMITH REBELS AT BEING FRONT FOR SLUSH LEVY

Tired of Criticism, Says Horner Aid.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

F. Lynden Smith of Springfield, a member of Gov. Horner's cabinet and the governor's downstate campaign manager in 1936, said last night that he is tired of being called the front man for the Illinoisans, an unincorporated group which is collecting 2 per cent a month of the salaries of state employés.

The Illinoisans—and Smith as president—has been under criticism for eight weeks. The Illinoisans admits it is trying to fill Horner's 1940 campaign chest. A week ago the governor's civil service commission, under pressure of the Civil Service Protective association, charged that Smith's collectors were violating the law which forbids the assessment of civil service employés for political purposes.

In answer collectors moved their desks out of state institutions, but continued to take payments from state employés. Last week H. A. Stone, one collector, had headquarters in a Joliet hotel. State's Attorney James E. Burke of Will county questioned Stone, who defied the prosecutor and said the collecting would continue. State's Attorney Charles O'Connor of Kane county said he was investigating solicitation of employés at the St. Charles School for Boys.

Tired of Criticism, Says Smith.

"I've taken about all I'm going to take in criticism," Smith said in a telephone interview.

"I'm loyal to the people I started with—that is, I'm trying to be. The governor told me I owed everything that I am to the state. Well, I've paid it all back, and then some."

Smith, who is head of the state department of public works, asserted that he does not actually control the Illinoisans. He refused to say who does.

He was asked how much money remained unspent after the 1938 campaign, in which Scott W. Lucas was elected United States senator.

Takes Job on Horner Plea.

"The governor asked me to take charge two years ago," he said. "I did so because I didn't want the Democratic county chairmen or any one else threatening the jobs of state employés to get campaign contributions. I wanted to keep their jobs safe.

"Most of these employés are on family budgets. To pay $50 or $100 in a lump throws their budgets off. But if a fellow knows he is going to pay 2 per cent, it's different.

"I can't run a campaign on hot air. Everybody knows we've got to have money, and the Democratic party represents the common people."

"I've told our collectors, who are under bond in handling this money, to stay away from civil service employés. There is no pressure on anybody. And I don't give a darn whether or not they contribute."

Collects from Road Builders.

During the Horner campaign in 1936 Smith also was charged with money raising duties. He admitted at that time that he was asking donations from contractors doing state road building. He defended his solicitations by saying they were voluntary.

Smith was interviewed after unsuccessful efforts had been made to reach Gov. Horner.

The governor did not reply to a telegram seeking his comment on the demand of 42 members of the legislature that he stop the 2 per cent collections at once. This demand was made Saturday thru A. K. Stiles, chairman of the Republican state central committee.

Stiles Pledges Fight.

"I pledge that as long as I am chairman of the G. O. P.'s governing body I shall fight with all the means at my command to prevent the Democratic party filling its war chest at taxpayers' expense," Stiles said yesterday.

"This sordid 2 per cent which they are shaking down from salaries of state employés was appropriated for wages to be earned by service to the state. The moral stench of the Illinoisans is rivaled only by Paul McNutt's 2 per cent club in Indiana."

Additional legislators are expected to add their voices today to the demand that Gov. Horner make known his stand regarding the collections.

STALIN AND HIS GENERALS

Alfonso, Slain by Motorist, Buried Today

To the man who drove his heavy sedan past Princeton avenue and 33d street at 5:11 p. m. last Tuesday:

There will be a funeral this morning in the chapel at 2600 South Wentworth avenue.

It will be the funerl of Alfonso Calace, 5 years old. Alfonso's father, Nick, a wounded world war veteran who is striving to care for his family on his small pension and a part time job as a baker, will be there. Alfonso's mother, Louisa, and his seven brothers and sisters will be there.

Boy Taken to Hospital.

Alfonso was the little boy run down and injured fatally as he hurried home with his playmates from a nearby park. The motorist did not stop.

Neighbors took Alfonso to the People's hospital before his mother could be called from the Calace home at 3007 Princeton avenue. When she reached the hospital she waited for two hours while the doctors worked to save her son.

Dies Next Day.

But it was no use. Alfonso died at 4:50 p. m. Wednesday, 24 hours after the heavy car smashed him to the pavement. His mother was with him, and his father and his brothers and sisters.

This morning they will hold the services for Alfonso. Afterward they will take him to the Mount Carmel cemetery.

MEMBERS SLEEP IN CHURCH; SAVE IT FROM FIREBUG

Members of the Trinity Lutheran congregation in Waukegan took turns sleeping in shifts Saturday night in the church at Oak and Liberty streets in the suburb. As a result the church did not burn. A pyromaniac who has set 14 fires since Sept. 22 tried to destroy the church on Nov. 26. Previously he set a blaze which damaged the historic First Congregational church, built in 1861.

The church sleepers were members of the volunteer corps of 200 citizens who have taken it upon themselves to keep watch for the firebug. Losses totaling $45,000 resulted from the fires he set.

Volunteer workers also were keeping a special watch on abandoned houses which would prove easy prey for the pyromaniac, who usually operates on week-ends. Fire Chief Adolph Francke said police were on the lookout for him even during their off duty periods.

MEXICANS ACT TO OUST 'HARMFUL' REDS IN OFFICE

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 10 (AP).—A petition asking President Lazaro Cardenas to remove all "harmful" communists from public office was prepared tonight by a reported majority of the Mexican senate. The petitioners, it was said, were taking cognizance of growing attacks on the communist party in Mexico as a result of Russia's invasion of Finland.

1. Formal approval of President Cardenas' declaration condemning Russia's attack on Finland and praising Finnish resistance, and

2. A formal petition to the president to eliminate from public office all communists whose affiliation with the communist party is judged harmful to the administration.

The press published renewed declarations of various unions condemning the communist party's criticism of President Cardenas for his support of Finland.

3 Germans Who Escaped Elude Search by Britons

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Despite an intensive search, three of four German war prisoners who escaped from a camp in East England on Friday night are still at liberty. Kurt Peters, 20 year old German agent, was among the prisoners who were taken from German ships seized as prizes. The others are seamen. The fourth prisoner was recaptured on Saturday. The war office is investigating the comparative ease with which prisoners have been escaping from camps, which are guarded by elderly men of civil defense companies.

Has Same Store, Same Helper After 50 Years

Hopedale, Ill., Dec. 10 [Special].—On Dec. 9, 1889, Joseph Augsburger, with Joseph Naffziger as partner, opened a hardware store in Hopedale. Mr. Naffziger retired in 1898. Mr Augsburger yesterday celebrated his 50th year in the business at the original location. Joseph Eichelberger, who was employed when the business was founded, is still working for the same boss after half a century of service.

Finns Granted $10,000,000 in Credits by RFC

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10 (AP).—The granting of a $10,000,000 credit to Finland for the purchase in this country of agricultural surpluses and other civilian supplies was announced today by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, said the action was taken by the RFC and the Export-Import bank with the approval of the President and that similar credits to Norway are being considered.

The Finnish credits will be granted to the Finnish-American Trading corporation, described by the RFC as an American corporation organized by the Finnish minister with paid in capital stock of $1,000,000 and guaranteed by the Bank of Finland.

Entire Sum Needed.

Hjalmar Procope, Finnish minister, said he was unable to determine yet what supplies will be purchased, but that his country expects to use the entire $10,000,000 credit.

The RFC action was the second offer of financial assistance to be granted to Finland by this country since the start of the Russian hostilities. President Roosevelt said on Dec. 5 that he had asked Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. to place in a suspense account in the treasury the $234,693 instalment on Finland's debt, to be paid Dec. 15, and that congress might consider legislation enabling the money to be used to benefit the Finns.

Debt Nearly Half Paid.

Finland's debt to this country will amount to $7,998,464 after payment of the Dec. 15 installment, which will bring to $5,891,291 the amount paid on the debts Finland contracted starting in 1919 to finance purchases, mainly of foodstuffs, in this country.

By virtue of meeting every instalment of the debt as it came due, Finland became the only nation of those now engaged in the European hostilities to which such assistance could be given by this country. The Johnson act prohibits further loans to foreign countries which have defaulted on their obligations to the United States.

Banish Russia or Not? That's League Puzzle

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 10.—The seven million dollar palace of the league of nations was not occupied today, but in the corridors and smoke filled bedrooms of Geneva hotels diplomats from two score nations debated the question of throwing Russia out of the league for aggression against Finland.

The British changed their tune somewhat today by asserting that they would support a move to oust Russia if it came up. At the same time a spokesman for the London delegation expressed confidence that there was small chance of the ouster obtaining the unanimous vote of the council as required for passage.

Nations Against Expulsion.

Yesterday the British said they would do whatever the Finns wanted, but refused to say what their attitude would be if the expulsion issue were raised. R. A. Butler, British undersecretary for foreign affairs, who is London's delegate, had a long talk with Dr. V. Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate, this afternoon.

After this parley, British quarters asserted that China would not vote to expel Russia. The Scandinavian states and Turkey also are not likely to favor expulsion, according to the British.

South American diplomats, however, said the small neutral states were all set to vote to expel the soviets. Russian circles muttered of steps which might be taken against such states daring to vote to oust them. Just what reprisals were contemplated by the bolsheviks was left to the imagination.

Committee to Be Named.

The league assembly meets tomorrow morning to appoint a committee to discuss Finland's appeal. There is not likely to be any public debate before late Tuesday or Wednesday morning.

The least thing the league is expected to do, and many observers consider the only thing, is to announce moral condemnation of Russian aggression. A resolution may also be adopted directing member states to do whatever is possible to help Finland and at the same time withdraw support from Russia.

AN OLD DRAMA

This is the league of nations trial of Russia on charges of aggression against Finland. Finland asks Russia's conviction as an aggressor. The South American countries, led by Argentina, have urged Russia's expulsion from the league; if not, they threaten, they will withdraw.

The situation is one which has recurred frequently since Japan invaded Manchuria in 1932. Since then, the league has uttered many words of indignation, but it has ended no aggression and mediated no wars. Instead, it has lost three major powers, Japan, Germany, and Italy, all of whom withdrew when reprimanded.

Long Procedure in the Past.

The hearing against a league member in the past has been a long, arduous procedure, requiring from three months to two years, as the will of the league went.

The trial of Japan, on charges brought by China, was comparatively swift. It took only four months. A special committee drew up a report on the Manchurian situation, indicting Japan's activities there. Ordinarily, there is debate by the assembly on such a report. In this case, however, Japan rejected the report on Feb. 21, 1933, before awaiting debate, describing its action [in Manchuria] as self-defense.

Unanimous Condemnation.

Two days later the assembly unanimously condemned Japan. Forty-two voices supported the indictment; 13 nations were absent and Siam abstained from voting. Only Japan voted no. The Japanese delegation in protest immediately walked out, and sent its formal notice of withdrawal from the league on March 28, 1933. The resignation became effective two years later.

Germany's exit from the league came six months later as a result of a disarmament conference, in which the league sought to limit Germany's

Turn Back Big Wave of Soviet Tanks.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 10 (AP).—Violent fighting in knee deep snow on Finland's eastern frontier at the Arctic circle was reported from the front today where the Finns declared they had repulsed all soviet attacks.

The Russians battered at Finnish defenses in all sectors of the eastern front, but were particularly active near the Arctic circle.

Heavy fighting also was reported on the southern front, on the eastern side of the Karelian isthmus, where three brigades of soviet troops behind a tank corps attempted unsuccessfully to smash their way to the Mannerheim line.

Bombard Coastal Objectives.

A military communique said Russian war vessels bombarded various coastal objectives. These objectives were not specified.

[Reports received in Copenhagen and London said that Finnish planes bombed and destroyed a Russian armored train on the Karelian isthmus. It was said that Finnish planes bombarded Russian troops on the march and, assisted by field artillery, destroyed an enemy column of tanks and armored cars. Russian attacks in the vicinity of the Taipale river on the Karelian isthmus were repulsed and there was violent fighting at several points on the eastern frontier. A Norwegian radio report from Kirkenes also said the Russians were continuing to disembark troops at Liinahamari in the arctic sector. The temperature was 4 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.]

Two Air Raid Alarms.

A Russian air attack yesterday on the Baltic port of Hango [Hanko] was described in the communique as unsuccessful. There were two more raid alarms today but apparently no planes were sighted.

The Russian drive along the Arctic circle, if successful, would bring the Red army into the rich Tornio valley between Finland and Sweden and would directly threaten Sweden. The valley leads into the head of the Gulf of Bothnia.

Helsingfors correspondents, on a trip from the western Karelian front, found nearly every village east of Kotka in the hands of the Finns. The correspondents had to show their passes frequently to soldiers on guard at important points.

Shipping at Standstill.

In Kotka, an important Finnish shipping port, all harbor traffic was at a standstill. The first day of the war two persons were killed and six wounded by bombs there.

Residents told how the Russian fleet steamed up to Hogland Island, within sight of Kotka, and bombarded it for five days, despite the fact that it had been abandoned some time before by its 500 residents.

Islanders destroyed most of the buildings on Hogland before leaving, but the Russians, after they finally landed, set fire to the remaining wreckage and took everything of value.

It was assumed at Kotka that the Russians were already building fortifications on Hogland.

Kotka officials said Finnish antiaircraft batteries shot down two planes which participated in the bombing of the city.

Planes Deceived by Old Cannon.

It was learned from a reliable source today that only three Russian planes took part in the raid on Helsingfors on Dec. 1, altho 15 planes originally headed for the city.

At a small fishing village along the coast two elderly villagers—members of the civilian defense organization—who were reported to have seen the Russian squadron passing ran to an old cannon and fired a shell at the planes.

This resulted, the Finnish source said, in the planes' wheeling and furiously bombing the rocky shore where the cannon stood. A dozen of the Russian ships exhausted their bomb supply then and there, necessitating a return to their base.

Responsible informants reported the arrival today at Baltiski, Estonia, of 25 Russian seaplanes. Plans wondered whether new raids on Helsingfors were intended or whether the planes would be used to strengthen Appeal to Other Nations.

The Finnish parliament today unanimously adopted an appeal that "as the outpost of western civilization" Finland has "the right to expect active help from other civilized nations" to resist the soviet invasion.

The appeal declared the Finns were fighting not only for their fatherland but for "democratic institutions, religion, homes—everything which civilized peoples hold sacred."

Parliament said the Finns believed the rest of the world "cannot abandon us in the face of the enemy's overwhelming numbers."

Parliament approved a proposal to add 2,500,000,000 marks [about $43,000,000] to the 1939 budget to meet the crisis, and empowered the government to raise long term loans.

In addition to the proclamation to the world, the parliament called on the people and soldiers of Finland to carry forward the cause and said "we are one and all determined to join forces in the struggle to save our country and secure the liberty of our people."

Claim General Advance.

MOSCOW, Dec. 10 (AP).—The Russian army, apparently attempting to drive a wedge thru central Finland to Sweden, reported tonight it had reached a point about 35 miles from the Finnish-Russian border in fighting which saw advances on all fronts.

The communique said soviet troops occupied the town of Kuolojaervi—one of four reported seized in today's onward march. The advances on all fronts were reported at between three and five miles.

[The town of Kuolojaervi is about 150 miles east of the rich Tornio valley on the Swedish border. In yesterday's communique Russian troops were reported at Suomussalmi, south of Kuolojaervi and 20 miles from the border. Soumussalmi is 145 miles southeast of the city of Tornio, at the head of the Tornio valley.]

Air Activity Restricted.

The Red air force was restricted to scouting activity by unfavorable weather, the communique said.

"Soviet troops advanced in all directions five to seven kilometers [from about three to nearly five miles].

"In the Ukhta direction soviet troops occupied the town of Kuolojarvi; in the Porosozero direction, the village of Johonala; on the Karelian isthmus, the towns of Boboshino and Kirkamuolaa."

The seaport of Leningrad, largest Russian city adjacent to the Finnish war zone, has been blacked out nightly since the fighting started. Papers report "many wounded" arriving there by train. Most of the city's hospitals have been converted into military hospitals. During the blackouts robberies and thefts have increased.

Bomb Kirov Railway.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 10 (AP).—The newspaper National Tidende reported today the Finns had bombed Russia's Kirov railway connecting Leningrad and Murmansk. The railway is vital for transport of troops northward for the campaign about Petsamo.

Reindeer herds, numbering 200,000 head, have been driven westward from Finland into Sweden, presumably to prevent the Russians from using them for food supply.

HANGS HIMSELF IN HOME.

Finnish War Developments

Captions on this map indicate some of the principal developments in yesterday's fighting between Finland and Russia. The Russian drive at the Arctic circle was believed to be aimed at the fertile Tornio valley on the Swedish border. Other reports indicated Russian troops were using Kem, on the White sea, as a base of operations. Some villages mentioned in news dispatches do not appear on this map because they are not shown on available maps.

BRITAIN TO SELL FINLAND NEEDED WAR MATERIALS

Relaxes Ban on Exports of Munitions.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP).—Reliable sources tonight said Great Britain has agreed to allow Finland to purchase war supplies despite a previous rule against export of war goods.

Relaxation of the ruling, which refused manufacturers permission to sell munitions which Britain and France need in their own war, took on a special significance in view of the league of nations meeting tomorrow to hear Finland's demand that Russia be declared an aggressor.

The most pressing need of Finland, observers said, is pursuit planes to fight off Russian bombing attacks.

On Saturday, reliable sources said British firms had agreed to furnish the Finns with 60,000 gas masks. [Finnish quarters already have reported the delivery of 30 British bombing planes in Helsingfors.]

Protest British Blockade.

MOSCOW, Dec. 10 (AP).—The soviet Russian government said today it had protested against Great Britain's sea blockade of German exports. However, it made no mention of the soviet union's own blockade of Finland.

A Moscow radio broadcast contended that Britain's decision to block German exports, in retaliation for Germany's mine warfare, was "without precedent in history and a violation of international law."

The soviet note, altho modeled after that sent to Great Britain by the United States, was described as "much stronger." It asserted that Britain's plans acted against international law and the interests of neutral countries.

Will Demand Indemnities.

In the broadcast, Britain's move was considered as a "completely arbitrary act" and Russia reserved the right to demand compensation if any soviet ship suffered a loss.

Russia argued that Britain's methods of economic warfare were "unprecedented in the history of international relations."

It was recalled that Russia had registered a previous protest on Oct. 25 against British measures to stop contraband from reaching Germany.

In today's action, Russia said "the government of the U. S. S. R. reserves the right to demand compensation for losses if a state merchant ship of the U. S. S. R. is forcibly escorted to a British or French port, or if application of the order of Nov. 28 causes some other loss to the foreign trade of the U. S. S. R."

At the same time the Moscow radio claimed that "American bankers are hastening to help the bankrupt rulers of Finland."

WOUNDED CLEANING REVOLVER.

Warren Strover, 19 years old, a student at Wright Junior college, was slightly wounded on the right hand and right leg yesterday when a cartridge exploded as he was cleaning a revolver in his home at 5332 Windsor avenue.

INDIAN MOSLEM APPEAL 'ANGERS GANDHI FACTION

BOMBAY, Dec. 10 (AP).—Indian Nationalists thruout the country were angered today by an appeal of Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the All-India Moslem league, exhorting Moslems to observe Dec. 22 as Deliverance day.

He called for the observance to mark the resignations of the eight provincial ministries dominated by the Nationalist All-India congress party. The governments quit in protest against Great Britain's refusal to discuss Indian independence until the end of the European war.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, Hindu Nationalist leader, held the exhortation by the leader of a Moslem population of 80,000,000 of India's 350,000,000 was untimely.

FINNS BATTLE RED DRIVE AIMED TO CUT LAND IN TWO

Flyers Bomb Railroads Leading to Frontier.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 10.—Finnish aviation is strongly attacking Russian military railroads over which the Red army is attempting to win its way into central Finland, aiming at cutting the country in half and destroying Finland's rail communications with Sweden and Norway.

The most serious inroad which the Russians have made comes from the town of Kem, on the White sea. Kem for 18 years has been the central point for lumbering operations and for distribution of political prisoners, as well as those sentenced to serve terms on the Solovetski Islands in the White sea. Few return alive from there.

Important Garrison Town.

Kem now is an important garrison town and one of those points which have been frequently bombed by Finnish flyers. From Kem a railroad runs westward almost to the Finnish frontier. The railroad has been bombed a number of times. This road transported the large forces of Russians who succeeded in capturing the Swedish village of Suomussalmi.

Two other branch railroads also are under attack by the Finns.

The main Finnish defenses in east central Finland take advantage of a chain of lakes. The defenses run northward from Impilahti on Lake Ladoga thru the towns of Harlu, Palkjaervi, Vartsila, Korpiselka, Ilomantsi, Nurmes, Kuhmoniemi, Sumussalmi, and Kuusamo. Important battles are expected at some of these points. The Finnish general staff reports that the soviet army is extending its line of attack steadily northward.

Attempt No Mass Flights.

Thus far the Russian air force has not attempted any mass flights over the front.

The Finnish staff refused to confirm reports that Finnish planes had flown over Kronstadt, the soviet naval base in the Gulf of Finland, and Leningrad, dropping leaflets giving warning that should the Reds bomb Helsingfors and other Finnish cities again, Finland would retaliate by bombing Kronstadt and Leningrad, whose 3,500,000 residents cannot be removed to safety. In Leningrad are situated many of Russia's most important armament, rubber, electrical, textile, and industrial plants.

The Finnish general staff has not published any casualty list to date, but reports circulating in the Mannerheim line today asserted the total Russian losses were 28,000 against only 180 Finns in this sector. The Finns have been fighting on the defensive from extraordinarily strong positions.

Fear Being Captured.

The desperation of the Russian attacks, says the general staff, is due to the intensive propaganda carried on among the soviet troops telling them that the Finns are not taking prisoners. As a result there is unmistakeable terror among the men who surrender. "During the fight north of Lake Ladoga," said one communique, "more than a quarter of a Russian company of over 100 men were wounded but only four surrendered."

Taking advantage of the total darkness which begins at 4 p. m. and continues until after 9 a. m., Finnish patrols on the Karelian isthmus have been penetrating Russian lines each night, tossing hand grenades, and creating panic among the soviet troops.

Many soviet machine guns and much ammunition captured are being used against the Russians. Four planes shot down, two of which were only slightly damaged, provided additional machine guns to shoot captured Russian ammunition.

One plane also carried 400 small incendiary bombs which already have been dropped behind the Russian lines by Finnish planes.

Sleep in Daytime.

Life in Viipuri [Viborg] now is in reverse, the inhabitants remaining in the city sleeping during the day. The stores are open at night. Strongly protected by Finnish artillery, few Russian planes have attempted to bomb the town.

On the isthmus bicycle troops donned skis today. The frost has hardened 12 inches of snow and has permitted "ghost" fighters, who are garbed in white, to get into action. Soviet troops, having no protective colored clothing, are suffering even greater losses from Finnish marksmanship.

Finns were amused by a broadcast from the Leningrad radio station which asserted an election was held in Terijoki, where "enthusiastic townsmen, freed by the Red troops, elected a new local government."

Terijoki, say the Finns, does not contain a single habitable house for all were burned when this seaside village was evacuated.

FINNS' MINISTER, BOUND FOR HOME, REACHES BERLIN

BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP).—Baron Aarno Yrjo-Koskinen, Finnish minister to Russia, arrived today en route to Helsingfors with his wife, daughter, and the legation staff.

He was greeted by the Finnish minister to Germany, Aarme Wuorimaa, and the Berlin legation staff. The German government was not represented at the railroad station. Maron Yrjo-Koskinen planned to remain in Berlin three days.

The Finnish legation was detained in Russia for several days until the Russian consular staffs in Finland reached home soil.

December Dandelions

Carol Hutton of Midlothian with blossoms she picked yesterday.

The continent's refrigerating plant is out of order. And that explains Chicago's unseasonable warm spell. Gordon E. Dunn, assistant weather forecaster, said yesterday that there normally is an almost constant high pressure area, producing cold weather, in the Pacific ocean just south of Alaska.

For some reason America's icebox lately has been the center of low pressure conditions that result in warmth. It may be due to sun spots, Dunn said, or it may be a result of tidal action of the moon and planets. These are matters for the meteorologists to argue thru the balmy winter nights.

Yesterday's high reading was 53 degrees, 17 degrees above normal. Altho it will be slightly cooler today, a maximum temperature of 45 degrees can be expected, the forecaster said. Daily excess temperature for the first 10 days of December has averaged seven degrees.

DANISH WOMEN STRIP OFF COATS TO AID FINLAND

Handbills Urge King to Act for Peace Appeal.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 10 (AP).—Finland's battle for freedom has inspired a deep emotional reaction even in Denmark, calmest of the Scandinavian countries.

Altho the government proclaimed its absolute neutrality early in the Finnish-Russian conflict, an increasing number of Danes are urging active aid for their invaded neighbor.

They believe Finland should be given something more tangible in the way of assistance than sympathy, food shipments, and clothing.

Women Give Up Warm Coats.

The depth of Danish citizens' feelings was shown during the collection today of warm clothing for Finnish refugees. Typical was the spectacle of two Danish women stopping in a cold Copenhagen street, stripping off their winter coats, and then hurrying home weeping. Their gifts made up part of the 16 tons of clothing collected by relief trucks in Copenhagen alone.

Crowds gathered around distributors of handbills that read: "The international [comintern] has unleashed the Red pest against Europe." "It is the northern countries' time to act," many of the citizens said. "The time demands united action."

Peace Appeal Urged.

The handbills did not appeal, however, for military aid to Finland, but asked King Christian to "summon a new three-kings conference to address a peace appeal to Europe's great powers."

Copenhagen newspapers continue to stress Finn heroism against the Russians. The efforts of the Russian army to penetrate Finland were watched, nevertheless, with much anxiety.

Observers said it appeared the Russian military objectives are fourfold: [1] To sever communications between the northern and southern parts of Finland; [2] to cut southern Finland's railway connection with Sweden; [3] To take possession of Finland's richest agricultural section, and [4] to established submarine bases in the northern gulf of Bothnia.

REVEAL ITALIAN ARMY REGULARS PILOTED 50 PLANES TO FINLAND

GENEVA, Dec. 10 (AP). — Italian sources here today said that Italian army pilots and ground crews had accompanied 50 Italian planes to Finland and that Premier Mussolini probably would give the Finns "all aid within reason." These sources said Il Duce took the same view of the Russian-Finnish conflict that he did of the Spanish civil war.

The Finns' contract with an Italian firm for planes, it was said, called for a certain number of training experts for Finnish student pilots and mechanics to accompany the planes to Helsingfors, but the regular army men who actually went far exceeded in number the civil experts who were provided for in the agreement.

These sources said that the more evidence the Finns gave of their powers of resistance the more Italian aid was likely to increase.

Jugo-Slav Police Shoot 2 as Reds Cheer Moscow

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 10 (AP).—Two workmen were wounded today when police fired a salvo to disperse communist demonstrators cheering Moscow. Order was restored, with semimilitary guards of the Croat Peasant party patroling the streets.

TORPEDO BREAKS AN ENGLISH OIL TANKER IN TWO

Report German Ship Sunk by British U-Boat.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Dec. 11, Monday (AP).—The British naval vessel, Ray of Hope, has been sunk by a mine, it was announced officially today. Four of the ship's crew were killed, and five were missing. The admiralty announced the sinking occurred yesterday afternoon, but did not give the tonnage or the number of the crew. The vessel was one of several requisitioned by the navy for mine sweeping and other auxiliary duties. The vessel is not listed in shipping registers.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Dec. 11, Monday (AP).—The German supreme command announced today two British tankers of a total tonnage of 18,000 had been sunk in the western exit of the English channel yesterday. They were not identified.

New York, Dec. 10 (AP).—A message picked up by Mackay radio reported that the 7,397 ton British oil tanker San Alberto was broken in two today by a torpedo off Land's End, England, and that a ship standing by needed assistance for rescue work.

[Official quarters in London said they had no knowledge of such an attack.]

Mackay was unable to determine whether the message was sent by the San Alberto or the Belgian tanker Alexandre Andre, the ship standing by. The message said the crew of the San Alberto still was aboard. The Alexandre Andre figured in an earlier rescue, having picked up 32 members of the crew of the British freighter Sneaton, torpedoed on Oct. 14.

British Submarine Activity.

First word of activity of British submarines against German shipping was disclosed today in a brief report from Rotterdam, the Netherlands, in the current issue of the New York Maritime Register. Among the shipping casualties listed was the 5,042 ton German motorship Togo, which, the publication said, was reported sunk by a submarine off Lobito, Portuguese West Africa, on Nov. 1. The Togo had sailed from Boma, Belgian Congo seaport, on Oct. 26.

The area in which the attack occurred is within easy striking distance of Cape Town, where, it is assumed, there are British naval concentrations.

More Sinkings.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP).—Sea warfare today claimed two more ships and reports were received of German airplane flights over Suffolk, eastern coast county. Both ships destroyed today belonged to neutrals.

Reuters [British news agency] said in a Stockholm dispatch that the 1,928 ton Swedish steamer Vinga sank following an explosion. The crew was rescued.

The 398 ton Netherlands motorship Immingham struck a mine off north Holland. The Netherlands navy rescued the crew of seven. The two sinkings brought to 210 the number of ships sunk in the war.

Grounded Ship Breaks Back.

The 5,182 ton Belgian freighter Kabinda, which grounded on Goodwin Sands Friday, broke her back early this morning despite efforts of the crew of 41 to save the craft. She was bound for Antwerp from Pernambuco with a cargo of grain, cotton and linseed oil.

The British steamer Fire King, 758 tons, was damaged in a collision with the 3,814 ton British freighter Duke of Lancaster in the Irish sea.

Besides the reports of two German planes over Suffolk, gunfire was heard off the south coast of England shortly after British pursuit planes flew over the sea.

Find Three German Lifeboats.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 10 (AP).—The Argentine freighter Maneco brought to port today three lifeboats from the 7,834 ton German East Africa liner Ussukuma, which were found drifting in the Atlantic off Mar del Plata with only the ship's cat aboard. Discovery of the lifeboats caused Argentine shipping circles to speculate that the crew may have been successful after all in scuttling the vessel.

A Reuters [British news agency] dispatch from Capetown, South Africa, on Dec. 6 said the ship had been captured and the crew put aboard a British ship which was bringing the Ussukuma to port as a prize of war. The dispatch said efforts of the crew to scuttle the Ussukuma were foiled.

The Ussukuma, en route from Hamburg to India with passengers and cargo, put in at Bahia Blanca, Argentina, on Nov. 10, reporting she had eluded British warships near the Cape of Good Hope. She sailed again from Bahia Blanca Dec. 4.

Ships Are Sunk

(Story in adjoining column.)

Air and sea news yesterday included reports that a British tanker was sunk by torpedo (1); German airplane flights over Suffolk (2); a Dutch motorship struck a mine (3); a Belgian freighter grounded (4) Friday broke up; gunfire on England's southern coast (5) shortly after British pursuit planes flew over the sea.

U. S. LINES MAKE NEW MOVE TO TRANSFER SHIPS

New York, Dec. 10 (AP).—John M. Franklin, president of the United States Lines, tonight suggested the transfer of eight of the company's ships to a British, Belgian, or Irish company and demanded a statement of policy from the federal administration. The company yesterday withdrew its application to transfer nine ships to the Panamanian flag. The line ends operations on the north Atlantic tomorrow Franklin said.

Franklin pointed out in a letter to Emory S. Land, chairman of the United States maritime commission, that the government has spent about $75,000,000 in building up American trade routes in the north Atlantic and asked what arrangements could be made "to maintain American interests in these berths and the good will on which the American merchant marine must rely when peace finally is made."

By flying a foreign flag the ships could operate to the French and British ports they served before the neutrality act barred them from the war zone.

WAR MAY OBLIGE SWEDEN TO ALTER CABINET MAKEUP

Premier Holds Talks with Political Leaders.

BY MARTIN MARTELIUS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 10.—While all of Sweden is stiffening its spirits as a result of events in Finland, political circles here are discussing the possible results of Premier Per Albin Hansson's talks with party leaders.

Premier Hansson.

One result of these talks has a deep connection with military developments in Finland, because a sudden success by the Russians probably would give King Gustav of Sweden occasion to demand a new national government uniting all classes and parties.

Maybe Only a Few Changes.

If Finland is successful in its defense against the Russian invasion, probably only a few changes would be made in the Swedish cabinet.

But everybody, knowing the feelings of the Swedish people, from worker to capitalist, believes that sudden Russian successes could cause dramatic changes.

The 7th Russian army, which opened operations, was calculated to number 500,000 men, but a new army of the same size now is said to have been brought forward for a strong offensive across the Finnish "bottleneck" against Tornio and Oulu [Uleaborg] on the Gulf of Bothnia.

Would Split North and South.

If the Russians sacrifice some 100,000 more men for the purpose of gaining control of the railway from Kemijaervi to Tornio, which unites southern Finland with northern Finland and Scandinavia, the Swedish government will face the same alternative as Gustavus Adolphus, when, in 1629, during the 30 years' war, he decided to meet the onmarching troops of the emperor of Vienna and the pope of Rome on German soil instead of awaiting their arrival in Denmark and south Sweden.

As the Russian generals are guided by Finn communists who know the landscape, roads, and vital points, Swedish observers say such operations, if not stopped, could mean catastrophe for the heroic defenders of the Mannerheim line.

Occupation of the Swedish-Finnish frontier by the Russian army would mean the early surrender of Finnish troops near Petsamo and the creation of bases for operations against Norway's Arctic harbors and the Swedish iron ore districts.

2 NAZIS PICTURE PEACE ON EARTH; GERMANY ON TOP

One Declares the British Are Money Mad.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—"After the victorious end of the present great struggle a new century will start—a century of peaceful development of the white peoples under German leadership," Bernhard Rust, minister of education, declared today in an address at the Technical university in Munich.

"That this is our great future task must be understood especially by the young generation," he declared.

It is the duty of German science to help achieve this goal, he said

Another Claim on Leadership.

Baldur von Schirach, leader of German youth, speaking at Katowice, in former Poland, also filed a German claim on leadership of the white race. He decried what he called the English assertion that the "Germans are a nation of classical mediocrity." In reality, he said, "in the country of John Bull materialism prevails and weltanschauung, or philosophy of life, is lacking."

"The English," Von Schirach declared, "are satisfied with money. Money and gold and what one can buy with it, that is all the English upper class longs for. They constantly are being reinforced by the Jews and they must now be vanquished—that is the task of humanity. England's hatred against us is the hatred of mediocrity against genius."

Denies Aiding Finns.

Germany today issued an energetic denial of reports published in Scandinavia and Russia that she has been sending war materials to Finland.

The Finnish-Russian war presents several difficulties. Germany is the official ally of Russia, from which it hopes to get vast amounts of raw materials. If the soviets experience great difficulty in subduing Finland, Russia's prestige as a military power will suffer and indirectly, Germany will be affected.

Complain of Arrogance.

A military setback would reduce soviet ability to send raw materials to Germany. If Russia wins with ease, it probably will become more exacting in dealings with Germany.

One now can hear Nazis complain about alleged soviet arrogance and see the fear dawning among advocates of the alliance with Russia that Germany may have paid too big a price for what have been called mere soviet promises.

CHICAGO RED CROSS WORKER IS IN FINLAND TO STUDY RELIEF NEED

Wayne Chatfield-Taylor.

Wayne Chatfield-Taylor of Chicago has gone to Finland to survey war relief needs, the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross was notified yesterday. He is one of the three members of the American Red Cross delegation which has been in Europe since the outbreak of the war in Poland. He reported on the needs of Polish refugees, and has been cooperating with French and British Red Cross societies.

The Chicago chapter announced that James B. Forgan, chairman, and Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mrs. Irene Sidley, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, members of the board of directors, will represent the chapter at the annual meeting of the American Red Cross opening Wednesday in Washington, D. C.

PLOT TO BLOW UP 1,266 ON GERMAN LINER DISCLOSED

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 10 (AP).—A conspiracy to destroy the German liner Sierra Cordova with incendiary bombs was made known here today when the vessel, loaded with 1,266 German emigrants, unexpectedly returned to port. The German passengers, who found themselves back where they started, were told the return was made for "repairs to machinery." Later it was disclosed that incendiary bombs had been found concealed in the cargo.

Americans Make New Debt Agreement with Germans

New York, Dec. 10 [Special].—United States and German banking interests, according to an announcement today, have concluded a new "German-American standstill agreement of 1939" to cover the short term debt arrangements between the two countries previously subject to the 1939 standstill agreement. The latter was terminated on Sept. 3 by the participating United States, British, Dutch, French, Swiss, and Belgian banks. Americans hold $46,000,000 of the debt.

BRITISH TROOPS GET FIRST TASTE OF GERMAN FIRE

Move Into Active Sector; Inspected by King.

BY JOHN O'DONNELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Dec. 9 [Delayed by Censor.]—For the first time since the armistice 21 years ago, British riflemen and machine gunners are directing their fire against German infantrymen across No Man's land in an active sector on the Maginot line.

Seasoned English regiments went secretly into the line only a few days ago and their presence was revealed today when King George VI. of England, looking calm and youthful, inspected them within easy artillery range of the German guns.

From a post about two miles from England's front line, the king and a small group of companions studied the German fortifications thru field glasses. German shells have been exploding even behind the spot selected by King George to make his first inspection of the fighting front.

Armies' Chiefs in Party.

To make the party as inconspicuous as possible, the king's companions included only his soldier-brother, the duke of Gloucester; Gen. Gamelin, the French commander in chief; Viscount Gort, commander of the British expeditionary force; the British commander of the English regiments in the sector, and the French commander of the area.

Only seven correspondents were allowed to accompany the king on the tour. In the most advanced zone, reporters were instructed by the French to remain 200 yards from the king. The writers permitted to view the historic scene included three English correspondents, two French, one representative of the dominions, and one of the United States. This writer represented the United States.

The English regiments facing the Germans were not able to report any violent war action to their king. They have suffered no casualties as yet. Two nights ago, after a German patrol opened up with machine gun and rifle fire, they drove it away.

King George Back in England.

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP).—King George VI. returned today from a six day visit to France. He crossed the channel on a destroyer, landed at a southern port without pageantry, and motored to Buckingham palace.

French Battle German Patrols.

PARIS, Dec. 10 (AP).—French and German patrols clashed on the western front today, the French general staff announced.

The evening communique reported "patrol fights at various points on the front." A communique issued this morning said "nothing important to report."

An area of more than 20,500,000 square yards on the front has been covered recently with barbed wire entanglements.

Equals 2,500 Mile Belt.

The snares, strung over an area equivalent to a 2,500 mile belt nearly 14 feet wide, required 65,000 tons of wire and 4,000,000 posts. Entanglements between the Maginot line and a secondary defense line just completed were included in the project.

In building new fortifications since the war started, the empires have removed 5,850,000 cubic yards of dirt, the French said, and have used 910,000 cubic yards of concrete.

Military experts estimated that excavations for the original Maginot line totaled 14,400,000 cubic yards, indicating the new fortifications are approximately one-third as large. However, 1,800,000 cubic yards of concrete went into the Maginot line, about twice as much as was used in the new defenses.

Extensions on the Maginot line alone represented more than six years' work at the normal rate, the French said, but the task was finished in three months.

Berlin Reports Little Action.

BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP).—The German communique on activities yesterday on the western front today reported: "The day passed without special events and only slight local infantry and artillery activity."

DAHL, STILL WAR PRISONER, GETS SOME PRESENTS

MADRID, Dec. 9. [Delayed by Censor.]—Warm clothing and blankets, gifts of American Ambassador Alexander Weddell, were delivered by air today to Harold Dahl of Champaign, Ill., who has been imprisoned in the military hospital at Salamanca for more than two and a half years. In the service of the Republicans, he was taken prisoner when his plane was shot down over Nationalist territory.

The gifts were delivered by E. T. Crain, third secretary of the American embassy, who flew to Salamanca in a plane piloted by Commander Ben Wyatt, naval attaché. Dahl, once sentenced to die, was pardoned by Gen. Francisco Franco after his wife had enclosed a picture of herself in a letter asking mercy for her husband.

Commander Wyatt is flying Crain to Saragossa Monday to carry similar gifts to other American prisoners.

BANISH RUSSIA OR NOT? THAT'S LEAGUE PUZZLE

British Support Ouster; Don't Expect It.

In December, 1934, Haile Selassie, emperor of Ethiopia, telegraphed the league from Addis Ababa to report border clashes with Italy.

Experts at Postponement.

As months went by, Haile Selassie appealed formally under various articles, but little was done. By May, 1935, 30,000 Ethiopians had been reported killed. In August, with Ethiopia begging for immediate consideration, the assembly met less than an hour—and postponed the matter a month.

In the meantime a five nation committee, headed by Great Britain and France, studied the matter. At one point the committee considered giving Italy a mandate over Ethiopia. Finally, on Oct. 11, 1935, 50 out of 52 nations [Albania was absent and Hungary did not vote] declared for sanctions [penalties] against Italy, the first the league ever voted against any country.

The boycott was to go into effect on Nov. 18, and by the following June [1936] England wanted to remove it. In the intervening months the league said it could do nothing in Ethiopia, and on May 8 Italy annexed Ethiopia as a colony.

A Personal Indictment.

On June 30 Haile Selassie himself appeared before the league to deliver an indictment against the assembly. The indictment was so forceful that many nations indicated they would withdraw. They didn't, but Italy did, in December, 1937. The Italian estrangement from the league actually went back to May 11, 1936, when the Italian delegation walked out of the league council after it voted to continue sanctions against Italy.

After this the league did little. After Hitler t[o] Austria, Mexico protested. When he took Czecho-Slovakia, Russia protested. The league took no formal action, and Hitler kept what he took.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS TOOL OF BRITAIN, NAZIS TELL NEUTRALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—The meeting of the league of nations at Geneva is displeasing the Nazis. They consider it a scheme directed against Germany and Russia and an "attempt to compel neutrals, who to a certain degree have resisted Great Britain's pressure, to submit to British demands." Participation in the meeting, therefore, they say, shows partiality, and not neutrality.

Switzerland, classical land of neutrality, was warned by a Nazi official that to allow a "meeting organized by the British and French for their own purposes to take place in a neutral state is incompatible with neutrality."

Germans state they will make no compromise at any time with Britain, France, or neutral powers "who are taking orders from Britain and France in Geneva."

ONE KILLED AND 3 HURT.

Allegan, Mich. Dec. 10 [Special].—Mrs. Marie Bittenbender was killed three miles west of Allegan on M-89 this morning, when the car in which she was riding left the road and struck a tree. Miss Marie Strickfaden, Gerald Lamp, and Paul Ashley were injured.

APPOINTS HEAD OF NOTRE DAME TITULAR BISHOP

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11, Monday (AP).—The creation of two new bishops and the appointment of a bishop for the United States armed forces was announced today in connection with the consistory at Vatican City and made public here by the apostolic delegate.

Rev. John F. O'Hara.

The Very Rev. John F. O'Hara, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame university, was named titular bishop of Milasa, and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Albert Lewis Fletcher, vicar general of the Little Rock, Ark., diocese, was made titular bishop of Samo and auxiliary to the Most Rev. John B. Morris, bishop of Little Rock.

The Most Rev. Francis J. Spellman, archbishop of New York, was named bishop ordinary for the army and navy diocese, which has spiritual charge of Catholic chaplains, succeeding the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York.

SPEELTUIG

By CALEB

IF YOU know your Danish, then you know what we're talking about; but if, likewise, you shared the jolly hour I recently spent on our Wabash fourth floor, any other language would equally do. For laughter's refreshing in any dialect—fun a big thing to find in any tongue . . . and both are the very breath of our Toyland for 1939.

Each year, it would seem, the planners of playthings grow more versatile—with this year's infinite variety climaxing the lot. In an atmosphere filled with tinklings and whirrings, dazzles of color, a Babel of voices, rapt faces, mesmeric motions, and fascinations of every sort, orderly thinking goes overboard. One becomes a child again as easily as that—and from there on, Toyland is his very own, with everything in it.

And "everything" is just the word. Prods to educative curiosity are particularly evident in miniature printing outfits and complete equipments for chemical experimentation; for microscopic discovery; for mineralogy collecting; for map-making; for employing the "electric eye"; for costume jewel-crafting; for burning designs into wood; for aviation, military campaigning, railroading and building.

Wherever one wanders, the spell of speeltuig is upon him. Games represent every imaginable size, kind, and degree of mental concentration. Battalions of bicycles, tricycles and velocipedes—models of motor cars, trucks, freight-cars, flat-cars, tank-cars, fire engines, hook-and-ladder wagons—streamlined trains, and fully implemented systems to run them on—all the paraphernalia of athletics and gymnastics—musical instruments, flashlights, cameras, construction sets, dolls big and little, menageries, movie projectors, airplane assemblies . . . the whole gala gamut of Christmas expectancy continues where one's own recollections leave off!

Toyland, in short, has itself become an arena of Big Business, wherein modern science, invention, designing genius and craftsmanship have devoted to the play needs of youth as elaborate resources as they have to the life purposes of grownups. And the world is by that striking fact better to be an eager boy or girl in, than was the more prosaic world of a decade ago.

Santa Claus continues the same old genial Yuletide immortal that he was in our yesterdays. But his facilities have undergone a glorious advance—and in keeping with that spirit of progress we think we have done a remarkable job of supplying him a "Store of the Christmas Spirit" equal to his needs. . . . From the last syllable of speeltuig came our English word "toy"—and what a wonderful world that can be, pre-Holiday visitors to Field's are constantly discovering.

THE MUNICIPAL COURT! HOW IS IT CONDUCTED?

Once It Had 37 Rules, Now It Has 340.

Study Judges' Cases

The judiciary committee of the Chicago Bar association may decide within two weeks whether to recommend the disbarment of Municipal Judges Eugene L. McGarry and Eugene J. Holland. Oscar M. Wolff, chairman, announcing this yesterday, said the committee would give both judges an opportunity to be heard. Both judges were relieved of duty last Tuesday by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby. Judge Holland has been under investigation for business dealings with Edward J. O'Hare, slain Capone syndicate front man. Indictments charging Judge McGarry with malfeasance and conspiracy to accept false bail bond acknowledgements were quashed recently.

BY GEORGE MORGENSTERN.

Hear ye! hear ye! hear ye! The Municipal court is now in session, pursuant to adjournment.

It is a court that was established 33 years ago this month to end the abuses of the "justice shops."

It is a court in which one Chicagoan out of seven has business each year.

It is a court in which a judge was indicted, but was not tried when another judge ruled that the defendant's actions were a matter of judicial discretion.

It is a court in which another judge was called before the grand jury. He refused to speak. Another judge hearing his refusal decided it was because he feared his testimony might incriminate him.

All Kinds on Bench.

It is a court, too, of judges who are men of conscience and ability, working hard and diligently, and of others who know little law.

It started with 27 associate judges and a chief justice. It now has 36 associate judges and a chief justice—all members of one political party.

It started with 37 simple rules of procedure. It now has 340.

The Municipal court was organized to be the poor man's court. Its present chief justice says there is no such thing as a poor man's court: justice is the same price to all.

It is a court that cost the taxpayers of Chicago $2,500,000 this year; a court where the cost of disposing of a case has risen more than 50 per cent—from $2.65 to $3.13—in 10 years.

Rules Grow Complicated.

It is a court where originally a man could plead his own case, but which is so complicated by procedure now that sometimes even a judge will brush aside the rules and say, "Let's go by common sense."

It is a court where a defendant can be sentenced to jail for a year, but not to the penitentiary; where you can complain that the police beat you up, and the prosecutor may and has replied: "We all get rings under our eyes. I've got 'em myself."

It is a court where a mother can compel a shiftless husband to feed their children, where 12,000 gamblers can come to court in succession and walk out free.

Where Loafers Spit.

It is a court which has not heard a single violation of the antispitting ordinance in 17 years, but where a courtroom loafer will spit on the paneled wall. It is a court where a "dese" and "dem" judge will throw a case out of court, demanding, "Why listen to all this blattin'?"

In this court loafers stamp out their cigarets on the floor and shysters wear their hats. A member of the police vice squad can be heard remarking to the prostitute he has arrested, "I'm going to straighten you out like a new shirt." To every witness sworn, clerks unheedingly drone an oath invoking an ever living God.

Where Idlers Sit and Gossip.

Loungers have their shoes polished by the court building shine boy while waiting for court to convene. Young idlers sit in the rear and gossip how Jack Russell got the chair, and how in the case of Pal Joey the judge might just as easily have said, "Ten years," as "Probation."

This is the Municipal court. It now is in session.

Dr. W. C. Welch. [AP Wire Photo].

Port Arthur, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP).—Dr. W. C. Welch, a chiropractor, who insisted his arrest was a "frame-up," was held in jail today on a charge of kidnaping his friend's son, 11 year old Irwin Mingle, and demanding a $15,000 ransom. The boy was taken from his home by a masked gunman who held up and bound his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mingle. The captive slipped a gag and by his cries attracted neighbors who released him Friday from an attic hideout on the outskirts of the city. The kidnaping, which occurred Thursday, was not reported until yesterday.

After the arrest, the boy told Deputy Sheriff Claude Goldsmith the kidnaper's voice "sounded like Dr. Welch's."

Dr. Welch, heavy set and baldish, said he was visiting his son, Calvert Welch, at 7:15 the night the boy was kidnaped at 7 o'clock. Mingle, automobile dealer, had arranged to pay the ransom before his son was released.

Three Parties Nominate Batista for Presidency

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 10.—Col. Fulgencio Batista, former chief of staff of the Cuban army, was nominated for the presidency today by the National Democrats, Nationalistas, and Liberals at their respective conventions. These parties, together with the communists and Realists, will form a group of five parties to be known as the Socialist Democratic.

GENERAL STAFF DISPUTE DELAYS ARMY'S BUDGET

Modernization Plan Too Indefinite, Is Charge.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—A heated internal row in the army general staff over the adequacy of army organization and materiel, it was learned today, is holding up the record 2¼ billion dollar peace time national defense program which President Roosevelt will present to congress about Jan. 5.

The President's budget message will call for an increase of about 500 million dollars in the outlay for national defense in the next fiscal year. The military budget for the present year is 1 billion 760 millions. Most of the increase will go to the army, which is far behind the navy in equipment and organization.

Program Taxes Shipyards.

The navy budget, unlike that of the army, already has been sent up to a congressional subcommittee for examination. The subcommittee is keeping details secret until the budget message releases departmental estimates, but it is understood the navy's outlay will reflect the smaller share of the 500 million dollar increase, which is being requested because of the European war.

The navy's rebuilding program at present is taxing American shipyards, particularly those which turn out capital ships. The navy's share of the increase, therefore, will go largely toward maintaining world war vessels which have been recommissioned to maintain the neutrality patrol, and to provide for authorized personnel increases.

The general staff dispute, which has delayed the army's budget making, developed over the inadequacy of army organization and over the matter of the efficiency of army materiel, particularly its artillery.

Believes Army Should Wait.

One set of officers is insistent that the army should not go ahead with its expansion program until it has modernized its organization so that the high command can have a better picture of its needs. At present the army is just beginning organization of its streamlined divisions. Corps and field army organizations are in the paper stage.

[A corps is a combat organization consisting of two or more divisions with component corps troops and organizations. A field army includes two or more corps with army troops and organizations. Both corps and field armies control larger caliber (nondivisional) artillery.]

Until corps and field army organization is perfected, some officers argue, any expansion program is a hit and miss proposition. They cite the fact that the streamlined division was tested for two years before it reached its present perfected form. In those two years wide changes were made, after faults were discovered by the trial and error method.

Fear Funds Will Be Wasted.

If the general staff proceeds with present corps and field army organization on paper, it is said to be quite possible that some of the amounts spent now may be wasted or spent injudiciously. These officers contend that the army should have a well rounded, orderly program to present to the people.

In essentially the same group of officers, serious questions of the wisdom of the artillery program now under way have been raised. The attack is made principally on the new, improved 75 mm. field gun and the three inch antiaircraft gun.

Since the world war artillery has profited more than any other arm by the scientific progress which has resulted in increasing the effectiveness of projectiles, range, and rapidity of fire. In every large army of the world, except that of the United States of America, progress is apparent.

America is far behind other nations not only in the number of weapons but in the type and performance of its weapons.

French Weapons Superior.

The huge American 16 inch coast defense guns have a range of 30 miles—the longest of American artillery. Similar French weapons have greater ranges, some of the lighter French guns making 40 miles. The newly developed 155 millimeter gun—approximately 6 inches—shoots only 15 miles. The newly developed American 105 millimeter gun shoots approximately seven miles. The French 105 millimeter gun shoots about twice as far.

Under the American organization program now being carried out the principal divisional artillery is the 75 millimeter guns. The gun in use is a modification of the world war weapon, which has a greater range and a wider area of fire.

In other modern armies the 75 millimeter gun has been thrust out of the picture by the 105 millimeter gun, which is superior in performance in every respect. The American army has only a few experimental models of the weapon.

Despite the demonstration of the value of the 105s given in the present war, the American army's general staff has continued its program of modernizing the wartime 75s.

Another American gun under fire is the 155 millimeter gun. Doubts have been raised over its width and weight.

MOST DEGREES ARE VALUELESS, EDUCATOR SAYS

Devised for Early Days, Carnegie Head Avers.

New York, Dec. 10 [Special].—Most of the academic degrees awarded by universities were devised to meet the needs of medieval life and may mean nothing nowadays. Teaching positions and other vacancies throughout the country are being filled by degrees—not by men and women.

F. P. Keppel.

These comments on the value of scholastic awards were made in the annual report of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, presented today by its president, Frederick P. Keppel.

They supplemented the announcement that the corporation had made grants totaling $4,846,126 during the fiscal year of 1938-'39 to organizations in the United States and in the British dominions and colonies.

Demands on Education.

"Society's demands upon education," the report stated, "never very clear or constant, shift with such changes in our community life as the disappearance of the 'backyard, of farm chores, of the old relations between the master and the apprentice, and with the changing place of the church in society.

"Education needs money and those responsible for providing it are faced with actual want in many places and with uncertainty everywhere. Meanwhile, the new knowledge is piling up more rapidly than education can analyze it, digest it, and revise its curricula accordingly.

"The prevailing confusion is revealed when one turns to the most conspicuous of the outward and visible signs of educational achievement.

Little Change for Centuries.

"Academic degrees for the bachelor, master, and doctor were devised to meet the needs of medieval life in theology, law, medicine, and the arts. For centuries there was little or no change. In the 19th century the general pattern was broadened to make provision for such new branches as engineering.

"Since then the creation of academic degrees has increased to a preposterous point in the United States. Only in a few strong professions, notably medicine and law, and the older branches of engineering, can it be said that the possession of a degree today necessarily means anything.

"Elsewhere, all too often, a degree as such may mean literally nothing. All over the country teaching and other vacancies are being filled by degrees, not by men and women, the appointing bodies accepting the diplomas as a substitute for the tiresome process of really finding out something as to the professional and personal qualifications of individual human beings."

Million Given to Arts.

Of the nearly $5,000,000 disbursed by the foundation in the last year, $1,157,325 was given for the arts, $1,253,650 for research, studies, and publications; $697,200 for library interests, $204,921 for adult education, and $1,533,030 for the general program of the corporation.

The largest single grant of the year was $250,000 to complete the sum necessary to establish joint academic library services for Vanderbilt university, Peabody college, and Scarritt college at Nashville, Tenn.

Commenting on this grant, the report said it might well provide an example for the other communities having a group of educational institutions.

Grants of $500,436 were made for the British dominions and colonies. In Canada grants have been made primarily to continue research programs in colleges and universities.

HEALANI CARROLL.

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Dec. 10.—Something new under the sun is the Pineapple bowl, where pageantry and football will be combined in a New Year's spectacle. Oregon State college will play the University of Hawaii, and Healani Carroll, pretty Hawaiian co-ed, will be queen of the pageant.

CITY EDUCATORS DISPUTE REPORT HITTING DEGREES

Admit College Work Needs Modernization.

A number of Chicago educational leaders last night branded as an overstatement the report of the Carnegie Corporation of New York charging that most academic degrees are meaningless and that teaching positions and other vacancies are being filled by degrees and not by men and women.

"It is true," commented Dr. Ernest O. Melby, dean of the school of education of Northwestern university, "that degrees are required for most positions of the higher sort, but a degree is only the first requirement for such a position. I believe personality is being stressed more than ever, especially in filling teaching posts.

Need for Change Cited.

"But there is some truth in the statement that academic degrees were designed for medieval needs. We do need to change many of our courses to bring them into line with modern times. More important, we need to change the teaching methods themselves."

Dr. John Dale Russell, secretary of the department of education of the University of Chicago, said:

"To some extent the Carnegie corporation is right. A college degree is required, but it is only a first requisite.

"Then begins the task of selecting the man or woman with the right personality for the job, with the right mental attitude, and other necessary qualifications. I think perhaps the writers of the report were attempting to be a little sensational."

Chicago Methods Told.

Degrees alone are not the basis for filling positions in the Chicago schools, said Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent.

He asserted that in the trade and vocational schools teachers were selected from among men and women who have proved their ability in the vocations, regardless of educational attainments.

"But," Dr. Johnson added, "changes should be made in the colleges and universities. Courses and teaching methods should be modernized, brought up to the tempo of the modern world."

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER.

The body of an unidentified man about 50 years old was taken from the Calumet river at 100th street yesterday by a coast guard crew. The name "Jack" was tatooed on the man's right arm.

INTERIOR DECORATION AND FINE FURNITURE

Mr. A. W. Crawford,
John A. Colby & Sons,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Mr. Crawford:

I am sorry not to have written sooner giving you the list of the antiques we expect to ship. I promised Frank Sheridan I would do this as soon as possible and also would send information as to history, description, etc. Unfortunately I have been so buried that I have not been able to get the histories together as yet.

However the factory has written up a memorandum order with prices and which acknowledgment has been sent you. There are I believe five additional pieces from Grand Rapids not listed as yet but this original list will give you something to work on.

These prices are not over 40% of the actual cost of these pieces, but I felt that if these were of any value to you or if the pieces were to be sold, we should make the price attractive.

I will try to write you Monday again in more detail. With kindest regards,

Sincerely,

GOOD GROOMING PAYS DIVIDENDS IN JOB HUNTING

Employers Put Emphasis on Appearance.

Why are girls hired or fired? This is the ninth of a series of articles intended as a guide for the young girl seeking work.

BY MARCIA WINN.

In a girl, it is cleanliness. In a man, it is aggressiveness. These are the deciding factors in employment, according to Fred J. Winslow, district governor of the National Employment board.

The employment board is the official organization of private employment agencies. Winslow, a genial white haired man who operates the Engineering agency at 53 West Jackson boulevard, spoke not only from his own experience of 36 years, he said, but from that of other employment agencies.

Appearance the Big Thing.

"Appearance," he said emphatically, "is the big thing. You have one job and ten men or women of equal ability. You take the one who is the cleanest, the one with the best personality."

"Now, here," he said, displaying two letters from directors of other agencies. "I asked them what they thought. Listen to this:

"'I consider that personality and a neat, attractive appearance are the first requisites to success in securing a job. No matter how efficient one may be, if he or she is a slattern, there is absolutely no opportunity in a well organized office.

"'The alert business man rightly figures that the work of such an individual will be as inaccurate as his appearance indicates.'"

Self-Confidence Stressed.

The second letter stressed in more detail the importance of meticulous grooming and dress, of self-confidence, of punctuality for the first interview, and of natural, straightforward answers to questions. Appearance also was rated most important.

"Let's take for granted," the second director wrote, "that the applicant has the educational qualifications and experience to fill the position. Will he be the one selected, if he does not have the appearance and personality? In most cases no, if a glib-tongued, nattily attired person comes along and sells his limited knowledge and experience to the employer, as often happens, leaving the experienced one out."

Explains Agency's Job.

Here is where the employment agency steps in, Winslow says. It cleans up the applicant, makes suggestions about his clothes, gives him polish for his shoes; in short, Winslow says, "it's a kind of polishing a diamond in the rough."

Winslow believes extremity in dress is unfortunate in both men and women, but a man occasionally gets a job in spite of it. A woman, he says, never does.

"You know," he said, "when a girl comes down in one of those peek-a-boo waists every one can look at and into, that she isn't a particularly fine girl. You don't want her."

[The final article in the series on girls and their job hunting will appear in an early issue.]

COUNTY PRESSES $1,100,000 TAX CLAIM ON HOTELS

Federal Master to Hear Suit Over Injunction.

The county's claim to nearly $1,100,000 in delinquent real estate taxes and penalties on three large north side hotels will be considered at a hearing this afternoon before Charles A. McDonald, master in chancery of the federal court.

The hotels are the Webster, 2150 Lincoln Park West; the Belden Stratford, 2300 Lincoln Park West, and the Parkway, 2100 Lincoln Park West. They are controled by Lott Hotels, Inc. Assistant State's Attorney Francis Clamitz described them yesterday as forming one of the biggest tax delinquent groups in the city.

"The taxes are due for the years 1928 to 1938 inclusive," Clamitz said. "In that period, only about $60,000 in taxes has been paid. Yet while the hotels were in state receivership during part of that time, $400,000 was paid out in receiver's, attorneys', and auditors' fees, and in the federal courts another $199,292 for such fees has been allowed, and about $11,000 of that amount has been paid.

"The county contends that these properties should be taken from the jurisdiction of the federal court and returned to the state courts. We believe that no one should be allowed to interfere with the county's collection of tax revenues."

Delinquencies Summarized.

The taxes owed, as summarized by Clamitz, are the Belden Stratford, $355,902; the Webster, $256,230, and the Parkway, $126,280. Added to these figures are penalties of $360,344, making a total of $1,098,756.

The receivership in the Circuit court began in April, 1928, when the hotels' tax delinquency totaled only $48,000. John J. Fox was appointed receiver and has been in possession ever since, now being a trustee appointed by the federal court.

Injunction Is Issued.

In 1934 the state's attorney's office filed suit under the Skarda act, which would have permitted the county treasurer to act as receiver to collect the taxes.

While this action was pending, Lott Hotels, Inc., in January, 1937, filed a petition in federal court for reorganization under section 77-B of the bankruptcy laws. A few days later Federal Judge Philip Sullivan issued an injunction restraining the county from proceeding under the Skarda act.

This injunction is still in force and the county is seeking to dissolve it before Master McDonald, to whom the case was referred by Judge Sullivan. Attorneys for Lott Hotels, Inc., the bondholders' committee, and Fox, the trustee, are opposing any dissolution of the injunction and also ask a reduction in the taxes due. They contend that the taxes were based on excessive valuations of the properties.

Relief Payments in October 4% Above September Total

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10 (AP).—The Social Security board announced today that persons employed on federal work projects and those receiving public assistance were paid a total of $268,505,000 in October. This was an increase of 4 per cent over September, but a decrease of 16 per cent as compared with October, 1938.

TWO RADIO TALKS TO OUTLINE WORK OF GOOD FELLOWS

Dr. Singer to Speak on W-G-N Today.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Two talks over W-G-N in behalf of the Good Fellow work being carried on by several thousand men, women, and children in Chicago and suburbs will feature this Christmas activity this week. Dr. Jacob Singer, rabbi of Temple Mizpah, will speak at 12:35 p. m. today on Dr. John Dickson's midday service. Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of the Conference of Club President and Program Chairmen, will speak at 9:45 a. m. tomorrow on the June Baker home management program.

Good Fellow Button.

Thruout the city folks are busy planning the Good Fellow baskets of food, toys, and candy which they will take to deserving families at Christmas time. Names of these investigated families are being obtained from the Good Fellow bureau, in the Tribune's Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street. The Good Fellow headquarters' phone is Superior 0100.

Junior List Growing.

The Junior Good Fellow list is growing. Several days ago it was announced that for 25 cents one could become a Junior Good Fellow. The seniors are enrolled at $1 per person and both the juniors and seniors are being sent attractive Good Fellow buttons which they are asked to wear from now until Christmas. Among those who have become Junior Good Fellows are Jay Fiala, Paul F. Jahn Jr., Marjorie R. Stewart, and Gloria Jenisch.

Plans for the annual Phi Kappa Psi Good Fellow luncheon Wednesday noon, Dec. 20, in the Red room in the La Salle hotel will be completed at noon today at the weekly luncheon held by alumni of this group at the interfraternity club in the La Salle. Edward Twerdahl Jr., acting chairman of the event, will announce the name of the headliner, a stage star, who will speak at the luncheon.

Honor Original Good Fellow.

The Phi Psis, together with scores of members of other college fraternities, hold this annual affair in honor of their brother, the late Edward C. Fitch, who was the original Mr. Good Fellow. Reservations for the luncheon may be made by calling the Interfraternity club, phone Franklin 6540.

A Good Fellow coupon accompanies this story. One may participate in one of three plans operative this year by filling in the coupon and sending it to the headquarters.

ADD MORE DON'TS TO ONE ABOUT LIGHTS ON TREE

Every one knows that lighted candles are a dangerous fire hazard on Christmas trees. Yesterday George C. Traver, manager of the Greater Chicago Safety council, issued a supplementary list of DON'TS for greater holiday safety. They are:

DON'T purchase cheap substandard electric devices. DON'T permit children to operate electrical toys until they are properly instructed. DON'T fail to inspect all electrical cords and wiring for defects, and DON'T place trees, trimmings, or gift packages near open fireplaces.

WORKERS TO SINK SUBWAY TUBES IN RIVER THIS WEEK

The huge twin tube section thru which the State street subway will run under the Chicago river will be sunk and placed in position on Wednesday, construction engineers said yesterday. The sealed tubes have been anchored in the river while workmen dredged a channel across the river bottom.

WPA WORKER HANGS SELF.

SEEK TO BREAK NEWEST TRANSIT DEADLOCK TODAY

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today will seek to break the newest deadlock in the negotiations for a unified transportation ordinance for Chicago. Representatives of securities holders of the transit lines differ with the position taken by Mayor Kelly that the granting of a new franchise by the city should be conditional to agreement on certain fundamental points.

Today, coincidentally, is Judge Wilkerson's 70th birthday. He has been on the bench since 1922 and under federal law is now eligible to retire at full pay—$10,000 a year. But such retirement is optional, and the judge has indicated that he will remain on the bench, at least until the transit negotiations appear to be proceeding toward a satisfactory conclusion.

Four Points at Issue.

Mayor Kelly, in a report made last month, wanted the following four points to be covered in an ordinance:

1. The street car lines fare should remain at 7 cents for at least three years, and an increase at the end of that period should be considered only if insufficient earnings by the new transit commission justify it.
2. The amount of cash compensation to be paid to the city for use of its streets should be determined.
3. A pension plan should be established for the company's employés.
4. The company should use $20,000,000 in cash, now held by the surface lines, for an improvement program.

Seek 8 Cent Fare.

The securities holders want an 8 cent street car fare, and at hearings last week before Walter A. Shaw, special master and adviser to the judge in the transit matter, they asserted none of these points properly comes within the scope of an ordinance.

URGES REDUCTION IN COST OF STATE INSURANCE DEPT.

Lund Believes Budget Can Be Cut 50 Pct.

A reduction of more than 50 per cent in the biennial appropriation of the state department of insurance was suggested yesterday by Representative Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside], who has proposed total savings of almost 60 million dollars in the cost of operating the government of Illinois.

Lund believes that $675,000 could be lopped off the department's appropriation of $1,154,480 without crippling it. He compared the 1939-'41 biennial figure with that of 10 years ago, which totaled only $747,450.

"The number of stenographers, examiners, assistant examiners and clerks in this department has nearly doubled in the last decade despite the fact that the work entailed has diminished," Lund asserted.

Says Work Hasn't Increased.

"The number of insurance companies has not increased proportionately to justify any increase, and hence there is no valid reason to take the position that the department is encumbered with more details.

"There are now 182 employés in this department, of which 138 are in the general office. The general office is divided into 10 divisions and there is no real necessity for it. A chief examiner, chief supervisor, or actuary, heads each division despite the fact that there is not sufficient work for any of them.

"The divisions should be consolidated. If the state does not now enjoy the services of a competent chief supervisor or actuary, it could easily hire one and eliminate practically every existing division head."

Suggests Big Wage Cut.

Lund proposed that a total of $540,000 could be taken from the "salary and wages" item of the insurance appropriation—$400,000 from the department itself and $140,000 from its subsidiary division of fire prevention.

Travel expense, for which $180,000 was allotted by the appropriation bills, could be cut to $75,000, he recommended, pointing to the fact that it had grown from $126,000 10 years ago. The rest of the proposed reductions would slice the items for office expense, operation, and contingencies.

Workman Applies for Job 5 Years After It's Finished

Morgan City, La., Dec. 10 (AP).—Just five years too late was the Kolin, La., man who wrote to the bureau of information here. In his letter he asked for a job on the Atchafalaya river bridge, and inquired when construction work would start. The bridge was completed five years ago.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Do women prefer to receive luxury gifts or practical items?

Where Asked.

Near north side.

The Answers.

Hobart McNeill, 1456 Edgewater avenue, credit investigator: I think women prefer luxury gifts because they want to be given something they can't afford to buy for themselves. Then, too, they like to show off to their girl friends what their boy friends bought them.

Miss Helen Skriver, 211 East Delaware place, bookkeeper: Luxury gifts. You can get the practical gifts yourself. I prefer things like perfume, lingerie, and articles which you don't actually need. They do something for you. I usually am given about half practical and half luxury.

Miss Mary Hippie, Davenport, Ia., student: I think they prefer luxury gifts since they usually buy the other kind for their own use. I enjoy getting what I wouldn't think of buying. There's something exciting about getting things you don't have to have.

Dr. J. L. Smith, New Orleans, La., dentist: I think they would rather have practical items. Most women I know like things they can make use of over and over rather than something that is perhaps used once and afterward is only thrown away.

Miss Cleone Vandermeer, 6165 North Winthrop avenue, secretary: I think women prefer practical gifts. I prefer them because luxury gifts are something you don't need. There are so many things that a girl wants and can't buy that it's nice to have one less to get.

ARSONISTS COW WATCHMAN; SET FIRE TO GARAGE

Two arsonists, one armed, started a fire early today in the garage at 3954 Broadway, owned by Frank O'Brien, 1569 Sherman avenue, Evanston. Damage of $6,500 was done.

According to Edward Robinson, 3335 Giles avenue, the colored watchman, the two men forced him to one side at the point of a gun. Then they sprayed gasoline from a five gallon can over two expensive automobiles, and applied matches. They ran out a rear door.

Six out of eight cars in the garage were burned. Marshal James Cowey of the third division, said that the damage to cars amounted to $5,000 and to the building, $1,500.

PROBE UNCOVERS A SECOND CRIME TRAIL IN 6 DEATHS

Points to 3 Bandits in One Chippewa Falls Killing.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Dec. 10 (AP).—New leads turned up tonight in police investigations of the violent deaths of six persons here and near Eau Claire, 15 miles apart, early Saturday, causing detectives to conclude they were investigating two separate crimes.

Authorities are convinced that Donald Cameron, 35 year old salesman, whose private life is shrouded in mystery, shot and killed—then burned—his wife, Louise; their 2 years old son, David; Mrs. Cameron's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wilk of Minneapolis, and then killed himself between 1 and 2 a. m. Saturday.

In the other mystery Detective Burger Thompson of Eau Claire said he had no doubt that two and possibly three men shot and killed Marshall T. Brenden, 39, Eau Claire business man, described as an acquaintance of Cameron.

"We have some information we are not talking about," said Thompson.

Speculate on Accomplice.

Conrad Thronson, undersheriff here, said Cameron may have had an accomplice. "We are not sure enough to do anything yet," he added.

A seventh victim, Earl Redard, 28, service station attendant here, was said by hospital attendants to be in a critical condition tonight from an abdominal shotgun wound, which police said Cameron inflicted in a $20 holdup prior to the family killing.

The theory of two separate crimes stemmed from the fact that a pistol recovered from the ashes of the Cameron home, where the family was killed and burned, did not match a bullet taken from Brenden's body.

Detective Thompson said it appeared that Brenden left his service station about 9:30 o'clock Friday night. "When his body was found in his car near a cemetery about 1 a.m. Saturday, the motor of his car was still warm and hot air was still coming from the heater," said Thompson.

May Have Recognized Assailants.

"We found a shell from a pistol in the back seat, one bullet hole in the back of Brenden's head and another thru the left temple. This leads us to surmise that Brenden was held up by two or three men. They took about $100 he had with him."

Cameron was pursued to his Lake Wissota cottage home by police, after the Redard station holdup in which two others also were wounded. The cottage containing the four family members began burning shortly after Cameron ran into the garage and shot himself.

Police found a ransom note addressed to "Mr. Linton" in Cameron's pocket. Demanding $40,000 and warning that "marked money mean death your boy," it was believed to have been intended for Arthur Linton, head of the Eau Claire Citizens Loan and Investment company. Linton has an 11 year old grandson, Donald.

TWO FLYERS DIE IN CRASH OF U. S. COMBAT PLANE

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 10 [Special].—Lieut. Col. Kenneth Decker and Lieut. Theodore J. Steiner, United States air corps reserve, were killed today when they crashed a combat plane into the ground to prevent hitting several houses in La Crescenta.

The flyers were several thousand feet above Verduga mountain when their engine began to miss and they lost altitude rapidly. The pilot glided toward a wide street, apparently with the intention of landing, but could not land on its narrow pavements.

The pilot then gunned his engine and gained a little altitude, but not enough to permit a long glide to a safe landing. The plane hit a pergola attached to a bungalow.

COUGHERS—

WHY BE AN OUTCAST—

HERE'S RELIEF!

Is coughing robbing you of life's comfort? Do friends shun you—fail to invite you to social gatherings? Are you glared at in public places because of your frequent coughing, so annoying to others?

If your cough is due to a cold, try Pertussin. You will be delighted with its quicker, throat-soothing effect. Pertussin helps moisture glands in your throat to function naturally after a cold has retarded normal secretions.

Many physicians have prescribed Pertussin, a safe and pleasant herbal syrup, for over 30 years. For generous FREE bottle, write to Pertussin, Dept. —J—, 440 Washington Street, New York City.

STICK TO FARMS SEIZED FOR DAM; FACE CONTEMPT

20 Are Cited to Appear in U. S. Court Today.

Benton, Ill., Dec. 10 [Special].—Twenty Williamson county landowners whose property has been seized by the federal government for incorporation in the Crab Orchard lake project have been summoned to appear before Federal District Judge Fred L. Wham here tomorrow on contempt citations.

The farmers were cited because they refused to vacate their property on the grounds that the government was not paying an adequate price and because they could not find suitable homes elsewhere. Discovery of oil in the district two weeks ago has further complicated the situation.

Since Nov. 15 the farmers have been willful trespassers on their own land, according to letters sent to them by the government. When they still refused to move the contempt citations resulted.

Lack Money to Move.

Many of the land owners complain that they cannot move to new homes because they lack sufficient money. They say the government has not made any move to pay even the low prices offered for their farms and until they get the money they are helpless.

The farmers also are angry over the tactics of federal appraisers and agents for the Crab Orchard lake project. Many report that agents told them they either would have to sell at the price offered or the government would seize their homes.

One farmer who complained about what he would lose if forced to sell at the government's price was told by an agent that he should not think about himself or his family, but should think of his sacrifice as a benefit to the nation.

Fail to See Benefits.

Farmers thruout the 25,000 acre area to be taken for the Crab Orchard lake project have been asking what benefit the nation or anybody else will get out of Crab Orchard lake.

The lake is a $5,500,000 project awarded to Congressman Kent E. Keller, 25th district, who has been one of President Roosevelt's most faithful New Deal supporters. The lake will flood 7,000 acres of land and will be formed by a dam 35 feet high and 3,000 feet long.

Shot Three Times When He Leaves Home to Buy Paper

Michael Amoroso, 28 years old, was shot three times early today in an apparent attempted assassination in front of his home at 745 South Bell avenue. He was taken in a serious condition to the County hospital. Police said he was shot by an unidentified man, who speeded away in a car, as he left his home to buy a newspaper. They described Amoroso as a former handbook employé. He refused to say who shot him or why. He is married and has two small children.

Walter Ludwig, 347 North Clark street, is still alive today because three boys decided to walk yesterday from Field museum to the Navy pier.

Ludwig, who is 57 years old, slipped and fell into the lake as he strolled at the foot of Jackson street. The boys—Harry Huddleston, 15, of 2109 Le Moyne avenue, and George and John Funk, 12, twins, of 1424 North Hoyne avenue—saw him and heard his shouts for help. Immediately they sprang into action.

Harry climbed up a nearby stand and grabbed a life preserver. Then he and George threw it to Ludwig while John held the rope. When Ludwig clutched it the boys tied the rope to a rock. Harry and George then ran for help. John stayed behind, one foot planted on the rope to keep it from slipping. And luck was again with Ludwig. The boys stopped a passing squad car and Lieut. Michael Doyle and Sergt. George Otlewis of the park police, with the boys, pulled Ludwig to safety.

BOSS IN SHOOTING FACES QUIZ TODAY ON UNION'S WORK

John Martin, president of the Scrap Iron and Junk Handlers' union, who is being held for the shooting of Attorney Leon R. Cooke, will be questioned in the state's attorney's office today about activities of the union. He told Capt. Daniel Gilbert and Lieut. Thomas Kelly of that office that he was quitting his post and wanted nothing more to do with the union.

Lieut. Kelly told him: "This office will see that the union does not operate. It is nothing but a racket organization."

The union, organized two and a half years ago, has approximately 500 members, earning between $15 and $22.50 a week, who are assessed dues of $2 a month. Lieut. Kelly said it paid no sick or death benefits.

Cooke, a former organizer, was shot Friday in the union's offices at 3159 Roosevelt road. He said Martin shot him during a quarrel over union affairs. Martin said Cooke struck him on the head with a revolver and that the gun was discharged while they were scuffling.

COUNTY HOSPITAL REINSTATED FOR INTERN TRAINING

Medical Association Acts After Shift of Officials.

Cook County hospital was reinstated yesterday by the American Medical association, acting thru its council on education and hospitals, as a training center for interns.

Dr. W. D. Cutter.

The council's action in approving the hospital was announced by Dr. William D. Cutter, secretary, after a lengthy meeting in the Palmer House. Dr. Cutter said the approval was for a period of one year and that the hospital would be reinvestigated some time prior to December, 1940.

Yesterday's action followed by only a few weeks the appointment by the county board of Dr. Marshall Davison as the hospital's new medical director, to succeed Dr. Karl A. Meyer. Dr. Meyer was named medical superintendent of all county institutions. Such a reorganization had been recommended last winter by a citizen's committee appointed to study the needs and deficiencies of the hospital.

First Removed in 1935.

Medical college graduates are admitted to internship in the county hospital thru civil service examinations.

The hospital was first removed from A. M. A.'s approved list for internship in 1935. That action was believed caused by the fact that Dr. Meyer was allowing graduates from the Chicago Medical college, which was on the A. M. A. blacklist, to take the internship examinations. The hospital was temporarily restored to the approved list in September, 1937, but was not replaced on the list at the end of the 1937 training year.

Approval for Nurse Training.

The hospital has remained on the A. M. A. approved list for training of nurses and for residencies. It is expected that the American College of Surgeons will restore the hospital to its approved list at its next meeting in October, 1940.

A dozen or more states require medically trained men seeking to pass state medical examinations to have done their intern work in hospitals approved by the A. M. A. Dr. Cutter explained that the various state boards may set up their own approved lists, but that they usually accept A. M. A. approval.

Other reasons he gave why interns prefer to take their training in an approved hospital are that they are more likely to be considered for desirable residencies in other hospitals and are not barred from joining specialized medical societies.

Among those at yesterday's meeting were Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, chairman of the A. M. A. council, and Dr. Olin West, secretary of the A. M. A.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL

Those Who Know Us Best

Our aims in the conduct of the Illinois Central System have been stated in detail in this series of messages during the past year.

To sum them up here, they are to produce adequate, dependable, pleasant, progressive transportation; to sell it at fair, remunerative, business-stimulating prices; to assure employes proper wages and working conditions and good tools to do good work; to meet our financial obligations with an eye to future needs.

By living up to these aims we hope to deserve the confidence and good will of our friends and neighbors — those who know us best.

That is our pattern for the conduct of our railroad. We realize that deeds count more than words, and we expect to do our best.

It was Hit or Miss in Grandfather's Day

When your grandfather needed tobacco he probably went to the tobacconist in his community and had a lot of fun blending different types of tobacco together and trying out the different mixtures.

HE MAY HAVE FINALLY HIT on a combination of tobaccos that was pretty much to his fancy . . . that tasted all right to him and wasn't too strong. So the tobacconist, with an eye to future business, would make up this private blend and keep some of it on hand for him.

THIS HIT OR MISS METHOD of tobacco blending was never very satisfactory. But it proved one thing to both smokers and manufacturers, that you must have a blend of tobaccos to get better smoking results, because no one tobacco by itself has all the qualities necessary to a good smoke.

THE CHESTERFIELD tobacco buyers select and bid in at the auction sales the tobacco types that best fit the Chesterfield blend, which is the right combination of exactly the right amounts of Maryland, Burley and Bright with just enough Turkish. These tobaccos and the Chesterfield way of blending them make Chesterfield different from any other cigarette.

THAT IS WHY there are millions of enthusiastic Chesterfield smokers clear across the country. They find Chesterfield COOLER, BETTER-TASTING and DEFINITELY MILDER . . . just what they want for real smoking pleasure. You can't buy a better cigarette.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

WE REASSERT OUR INDEPENDENCE.

Ambassador Kennedy, returning home for a Christmas visit, said that the British government has no expectations that the United States will enter the war, altho the English were trying to estimate just what we mean by expressing sympathy and at the same time remaining neutral. He also said that he had some confidential information for Mr. Roosevelt which he refrained from putting on the cables. That remark roused some curiosity. The cables from England are controled and protected. A communication from Mr. Kennedy to his government might be delayed because it was postponable but need not be held back because it was too hot.

Mr. Kennedy has seen Mr. Roosevelt, and the White House disclosures are not sensational. A comment in London on Mr. Kennedy's remarks that the United States is not expected to enter the war does not bear out the ambassador's impression. On the contrary, there is a renewed insistence that America will fall in a duty to civilization if it does not get in pretty soon. It is probably true that the average Englishman has been taught by this time that it is America's duty to come across with men and money and that our policy of selling war materials is profiteering.

Americans who thought the matter over before the repeal of the arms embargo conceded that these reproaches would be forthcoming and they are prepared to resist the influences which would make the repeal a step in the direction of intervention. They reject utterly the idea that the present sympathetic and helpful position taken by the American government in the interest of Great Britain and France commits the country morally or otherwise to any part in this European conflict.

We cannot expect that the British and French will cease their efforts to gain more American aid than they have now. Any countries at war would do all they could to get all the help they could from another powerful nation. That is to be expected, and it is also to be expected that the United States, if it is to safeguard its own interests, will resist all such influences and will maintain its present position.

The defense of America is our business. To reproaches and to arguments we will offer the words of Washington, at the head of this column, and stand by them. We concede the frailty of some of our own people who in the enthusiasm of their overseas loyalties have given occasion for some of the remarks rebuking the United States as a nation which fails in its duty to civilization. We disown these divided loyalties and we reject the arguments of others who think that it is in the interest of America to save Europe from periodic disturbances of its peace and from recurring dangers to what is regarded as its best civilization.

It is a strange thing that the sympathetic and benevolent neutrality of a nation should be converted into a reproach to it by the countries which thereby benefit. Nations at war have often been gratified by such a friendly attitude and have been satisfied with it, grateful to have won so much good will. Gratitude apparently has changed its spirit and its manner of expression. It now requires that a friendly nation become subservient.

The present war raises anew the question of American independence. The United States cannot be independent under the assumption that it is permanently tied to certain elements in European life and must support them in every controversy and difficulty in which their diplomacy involves them. America must disown that idea and assert the truth—that it is independent, that it is not morally involved in Europe, that there is no spiritual coercion to which it must yield, and that it preserves the inalienable right to conduct itself in international affairs according to its own best judgment and its regard for its own welfare.

VARIOUS TRADE WARS.

Dispatches from Buenos Aires tell of the efforts of the British government to hold its South American markets against competition from this country. Our government has been trying to negotiate a new trade treaty with the Argentine, but so far has been unsuccessful because of British pressure. Much the same situation is said to exist in Uruguay.

Nobody can blame the British for trying to promote their own interest. Americans may wish for less strenuous competition in South America, but have no right to complain of conditions as they are. The situation in Asia is of a different sort. There is much evidence to indicate that British influence in Washington is seeking to embroil this country in a trade war with Japan. The same persons in our country who are most amenable to British suggestions and seem most eager to place America at England's disposal in Europe are promoting the embargo against Japan; and, of course, the colonial minded Americans, the social climbers, and the rest of the sycophants in and out of the state department are doing what they can to further the movement.

We have nothing to gain from bad relations with Japan, for the Japanese are among our best customers; but if America and Japan fall out, Britain may benefit. Japan has been pushing the British around in China; the British navy, busy in European waters, has been powerless to protect British interests in the far east, and English troops are being withdrawn from China. If bad feeling can be bred between America and Japan perhaps America will step in to protect British interests against the Japanese. In any event, with America's enmity to be feared, Japan may be less inclined to badger the British in China.

From the British viewpoint these considerations may justify the attempt to increase the ill feeling between us and Japan. From the American viewpoint the effort to embroil us should be resisted. Our foreign policy should be formed with a view to our own welfare rather than that of another nation.

ILLINOIS' OIL PROBLEM.

After a lapse of nearly 30 years Illinois has again become one of the major oil producing states of the union. During that period the industry has undergone vital changes, the most important of which, aside from technological progress, has been the vast extension of public regulation, often at the instance of the oil producers themselves. Before the end of the next legislative session Illinois citizens will become much more familiar with such terms as proration and unitization than most of them are today.

The oil industry got off to a bad start in the courts in its infancy, when Pennsylvania judges applied the rule of capture to it. They regarded oil as lying in pools or rivers underground, which any man might tap by drilling them, just as he might shoot the wild beasts that came on his land.

Actually, oil pools are not underground lakes of oil. They are layers of rock, normally sandstone, impregnated with a mixture of oil and gas. The gas is important. It forces the oil to the surface when a well taps the oil bearing area, and also renders the petroleum more fluid.

When property owners engage in a race to see who can draw off the oil beneath both his own land and that of his neighbors most quickly, gas is dissipated. Much of the oil thickens and is not recovered. Water, which commonly lies beneath or alongside the oil deposits, may invade the wells and ruin them.

Proration is an attempt to prevent these ruinous activities, to regulate oil withdrawals so that the energy of gas pressure is not wasted and a maximum amount of oil is recovered from the field, and also to prevent the useless and costly multiplication of wells. It is most useful when surface title rests in small parcels, such as town lots. When the same producer controls large acreage it is less important, since he can regulate his flow without fear of his neighbors beating him to withdrawal of the oil.

Proration only limits the amount of oil that can be drawn from each well. Each producer gets only what comes from his own well. Unitization goes a step further. Landowners over a known or suspected oil pool agree to share the expense of drilling and the production of the wells, regardless of whose land they are drilled on. Since oil drilling is a gamble, unitization agreements usually have to precede the development of a field. The owner of a mutuel ticket doesn't sell shares in it after the horse has won.

If economy and conservation were the only results of proration, it could be recommended unreservedly. But since it involves limiting production, it can be and is transformed with the greatest ease into a scheme in which production limitation, as an agent of price fixing, becomes the end instead of the means.

Kansas and Oklahoma producers, for instance, have been howling for Illinois to adopt proration. They don't give a whoop for conserving Illinois oil. On the contrary, the more of it is wasted the better they would be pleased. What hurts them is that the Illinois field, because of its proximity to consuming areas, is taking their market away from them. They want Illinois to produce less oil so they can sell more.

One thing should be kept in mind in connection with any Illinois oil legislation. Such laws offer a rich illustration of what is sometimes called the friction of democratic processes, or, in plainer language, the shakedown. The interests of all classes of oil producers are not the same, nor is the interest of the oil industry always that of consumers.

There undoubtedly will be attempts to see that the oil at Centralia produces a little oil at Springfield, too. If the oil men will squawk instead of paying they will probably end up with better laws and cheaper ones, too.

The board of education's decision to keep the schools open for the rest of 1939 saved Cleveland from sharing the evil plight of Toledo, where public education is in a state of physical and financial collapse.

Cleveland schools are without operating funds for the rest of 1939. The result is hardship for school employés, whose pay for the last six weeks of the current year must be "deferred," no one can tell for how long. Meanwhile, Cleveland is in the undignified situation of running its schools on the cuff.

The blow to the schools' staff is the harder because they had hoped that the era of deep salary cuts was over. During the depth of depression the teachers suffered more heavily than most other public servants, taking cuts which at one time reached 48 per cent.

It was just that these cuts be restored as speedily as possible. The board had hearty public support in seeking a 100 per cent pay schedule. But it made a serious mistake early this year in ordering such a restoration when it did not have the resources to support it. It ignored the warning of its own financial statements and the advice of friends of the schools.

After Jan. 1 the situation will be better, but 1940 financial operation will not be easy, in view of this continuing obligation of six weeks' deferred salary. This is an obligation which must be met. The board cannot go back on its promise to its employés, even if that pledge was imprudent.

MORE ABOUT OPIE READ.

If a biographer should descend upon Chicago, bent upon producing a "life and works" of the late Opie Read, we doubt if he could find a complete collection of first editions in any of our large and admirable libraries. Or a complete collection of Opie's writings in any form, whether bound "firsts" or paperback reprints. And yet this man lived among us for 40 years, and became an almost legendary character in the city's life.

In this generation of Chicagoans the only man who had read all of Opie's books and who wrote about them with enthusiasm has been Vincent Starrett. See his "Buried Cæsars," in which he calls attention to Read as a great, neglected writer.

See also an article by Burton Rascoe, a New York loyalist to the Chicago literary tradition, in the Saturday Review of Literature of Nov. 11. Rascoe says:

"Read was of the line of Mark Twain. . . . He had his literary ancestry in Benjamin Franklin, Petroleum V. Nasby, Artemus Ward, 'Uncle Remus,' and 'Sut Lovingood.' . . . He was an articulator of the robust spirit of democratic individualism which permeated the people who settled and built the river towns of the Mississippi valley. . . .

"It will come as another surprise to a generation in which 'the Hemingway style' has become a cliché, that Opie Read wrote pages and pages of pure Hemingway 20 years before Hemingway was born."

SONNETS TO SUPERMEN—IV.

[John Keats, 1795-1821.]

At golden youth into the public square
He came with harp unslung and sang at once
Like one who had on Beauty's templed stair
Heard and absorbed melodic utterance;
Or one at sea, reëchoing the sound
Of leafy distance, magically near—
Near in imagination, outward bound
To new enchantments far from tumult's ear.
And some were charmed and some derisive were,
As on he sang, while low his candle burned,
Those classic words with loveliness astir
That closed his dying eye with glory earned.
Bright candle, be the symbol of his fate

A Neighbor's View of the Duke.

Yes, they call me "Demon" [Nov. 25] because I love to work. Now for the lowdown on the laziest white man this side of the north and south pole. One Duke Bakrak. He claims his motto is "On the seventh day shall ye rest." I happen to know that it is "And seven days shall ye rest." When he mentions Bible I laugh—the only book I ever saw in his house was "The Bartender's Guide." It was lucky for him that I was cutting the grass at six o'clock last Sunday morning because he was having a heck of a time trying to get up his steps. When I finally got him there he tries to open the door with a beer bottle opener. Last week he wants to borrow some cockroach powder and then wants to know if Demon Jr. will squirt it around for him. The last date on which his jallopy was washed corresponds with his date of purchase.

When he took me for a ride the fenders flapped so much I didn't know if I were flying or riding. Once he tried to get an out-of-work neighbor to clean his basement, offered the guy a dollar, but the bird said he would only take it on a weekly basis—claims it would have taken three days to dig his way in and four days of shoveling out. I asked him yesterday when he was going to rake up his leaves and he tells me the morning paper said that there was a heavy north wind due.

Last week our plumbing went haywire and we sent our little girl Barbara over to find out if she could take her bath in their house and the Duke tells her she could. Then he hollers up to the Duchess and wants to know if the tub is on the first or second floor. I will never forget the day a poor fellow came to Duke's door with his hat in his hand begging for a dime. He not only didn't get the dime, but it took him two days to get his hat back.

Demon.

A STEPMOTHER SAYS:

Small one, I shan't think
To fill her place . . .
Last night, when I came home
And saw your face,
I knew right then that you had cried
(One little tear—too late to hide.)

Small one, I don't ask
That you forget,
Or call me mother; we'll
Be friends, and yet,
When you can love me, buddy lad,
I'll be so glad, so very glad!

Small one, he was hurt
And lonesome, too . . .
He asked if I'd take care
Of both of you;
(O, small one, could there sometime be
A spot within your heart for me?)

When Culture Came to the Middle West.

Speaking of "Hamlet" on the old American frontier: The first performance in Chicago was exactly 100 years ago, but St. Louis had seen the drama 12 years before. On July 8, 1827, a Mr. Caldwell gave a performance in "The Old Salt House." In announcing his venture to the town of 6,000 inhabitants he stated that if he was not supported at the box office "Will it not go abroad that there is no taste in St. Louis for dramatic representations?" [Research by Elmer Kenyon, press representative for Maurice Evans' "Hamlet."]

WHEEZING ALONG.

WHENEVER we encounter one who whistles and squeaks when he breathes or who on slight exertion puffs and blows like a porpoise, we should think of emphysema. As a rule—in these patients—the chest is shallow beneath the collar bones, flaring out bell-like at the diaphragm. All too frequently this disorder follows prolonged coughing seizures—chronic bronchitis. Increased pressure within the air sacs can scarcely fail to overstretch their delicate walls. There comes a time when their natural elasticity will fail to return them to normal, and they may remain permanently dilated and useless. Of course, there are other causes, such as retaining air within the lungs during heavy lifting or as an aftermath of certain occupations, such as glass blowing.

Regardless of the origin, the onset is usually insidious. No distress will be complained of for a long while, perhaps years. But gradually the lungs become less well ventilated and sooner or later labored respiration, accompanied by some cyanosis [blueness of the skin] will be noted. While at rest there may be no discomfort. Eventually the blood will find it harder to make its way thru the lungs with the result that the right side of the heart may be overstrained.

During this developing period there is usually a persistent cough which may become so bad that the least effort not only brings on wheezing but a paroxysm of hacking. In fact, it is ofttimes puzzling to differentiate between a long standing bronchitis and a permanent enlargement of the alveoli.

Exactly what happens? We should recall that every tiny air sac is surrounded by a thick network of minute blood vessels [capillaries]. Whenever the region becomes dilated the capillary web is thinned out and many channels are destroyed. Of course, some branches will attempt to join with others so that enough oxygen may be secured. If this is accomplished, well and good, but if unsuccessful a portion of the circulating fluid may return to the pumping organ less well saturated than it should be with this gas.

Another question should be considered—namely, that whenever the bronchi are constricted from any cause—swelling, or because of the accumulation of mucus—resistance is interposed to the entering air. In consequence, the resiliency of the pulmonary tissues is reduced considerably. Like a rubber band, it can be stretched to the point where it will not spring back into its normal position. Altho we should consider the negative pleural pressure as a vital factor from the standpoint of the cardiac apparatus, we must realize that as it becomes more and more difficult to force blood thru the lungs the greater will be the strain upon the right side of that organ. If this keeps up for more than a few months, or at most a few years, some embarrassment will be observed.

But much can be done if the condition is taken in time, if violent "barking" can be reduced to a minimum. The employment of a low, tight abdominal belt or corset will raise the diaphragm and thus push the lungs upward into the position that they would assume after air has been expelled. While this is not possible completely, the benefit is quick and marked. The victim will note that he can inhale and exhale easier and that his urge to cough is less.

No group of individuals should strive more earnestly to conserve their strength than these sufferers. If one finds that shortness of breath is on the upgrade, if coughing spasms are getting worse, the signal "you need rest" must be obeyed. Some cannot indulge in physical exercise without exhibiting symptoms. Every one with bronchitis should watch for early signs of the onset of this ancient enemy of comfort. It isn't heart disease that is bringing on the breathlessness. It is the ballooned air cells themselves. But the pump may be injured if we fail to sense what is going on and guard against it.

First look out for repeated colds and repel their attacks lest an infection become firmly established in the branches of the bronchial tree. Medicines are often helpful because they dilute the secretions and open up the airways—but they should not be depended upon forever and a day. Occasionally the breathing of oxygen [50 per cent air] for an hour will be of value following a strenuous bout of explosive coughing.

LEG ULCER.

N. M. writes: What can be done for a chronic bleeding ulcer on the leg?

REPLY.

The underlying causes must first be determined and removed—for example, varicose veins, circulatory disturbances, diabetes, syphilis, etc. If infection is present this should be eradicated. Elevation of the limb and dressing the wound with cod liver oil may be helpful. Air baths are also employed with success.

NO.

A. D. writes: If a person drinks two quarts of milk daily and omits food is it fattening?

REPLY.

Two quarts of whole milk contain approximately 1,280 calories. For most persons this amount is not adequate to maintain one's weight. A well balanced diet—restricted in amount—is preferred to the milk regimen.

FALLEN IN BATTLE.

M. C. B. writes: What is meant by "pus cells"?

REPLY.

Pus cells are white blood cells which have fallen in the war on some infectious disease.

MEN'S MORALE BROKEN.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—I am a landscape architect with a good training and 35 years of experience. Up to 1933 I operated one of the largest offices in this line in the country, employing many land architects, building architects, engineers of various kinds, draftsmen, etc. After the crash of that year my business went to smash, but I have been able personally to pull thru so far.

But my old crew has been on relief; that is, holding down semiadministrative jobs in the various relief departments of the government. They all want to come back with me, being heartily sick of their jobs. Recently a little work has shown up and I have tried several of my best men of the past. They are failures now. Six years with the government has caused them to lose their old-time initiative, respect for economy, and loyalty to the client for whom we expect to give our best. These men have lost their morale and self-respect. They are no longer fit for legitimate work.

This is a part of the great damage to our country that has been done by the New Deal.

M. H. W.

AN OHIOAN FOR BRICKER.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—I note that one of your readers suggests the name of Gov. John W. Bricker as a good bet for the Republican nominee for President. I am not surprised, as I lived in Cleveland before moving to Chicago, and I know something about this man's ability.

It was Bricker who smashed the New Deal three times in his state, and when he was elected governor, if my memory serves me, he beat Roosevelt by nearly half a million votes and defeated the state Democratic machine with all of its federal and state money and patronage.

Possibly Gov. Bricker will not choose to be a candidate, desiring to yield to Senator Taft of his state. However, some kind of a niche should be voted to John Bricker for breaking the New Deal strangle hold on Ohio.

A HOPEFUL REPUBLICAN.

SLAUGHTERING THE TREES.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—We have watched the destruction of catalpa, maple, cherry, mulberry, willow, cottonwood, and poplar trees, slaughtered to provide "work" destruction. Now the elms are to follow. Why should those beautiful ones near Superior and Mayfield be dug up? For what purpose, excepting for political nursery profit. Can it not be stopped? Get after them.

LIKED DEWEY SPEECH.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—What a feast of faith, hope, horse sense, and clarity [not charity] Tom Dewey gave us in his Minneapolis speech.

Truly an oasis after seven years of boot-strap fence jumping. Red inspired strikes and class hatred, plowing under, pig killing, leaf raking, and dirt shifting defeatism.

H. E. MERRICK.

A WHOLESOME QUOTATION.

Villa Park, Ill., Dec. 7.—The excerpt from Washington's farewell address on your editorial page is appropriate at this time. But it is suggested that you alternate that excerpt with the following quotation from the Monroe Doctrine, which has been our foreign policy for over 100 years and which is as good today as the day it was written:

"In the wars of European powers in matters relating to themselves we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy to do so. . . . Our policy in regard to Europe, adopted at an early stage of the wars which have so long agitated that quarter of the globe, nevertheless remains the same, which is, not to interfere in the internal concerns of any of its powers."

Both the present national administration and the senate carefully avoid any reference to this quotation because it would interfere with their fatal itch to meddle in European power politics; and in bringing it to the attention of the people you may be doing a great public service.

AMERICAN CITIZEN.

DOESN'T LOVE JOHN BULL.

Oak Park, Dec. 6.—It is apparent that John M. Thomson, latest British apologist to be heard in these columns, sees Napoleon and Hitler as murdering conquerors bent upon the subjugation of the world.

It is also apparent that Mr. Thomson has conveniently forgotten Britain's long career of conquest. He says nothing of the shameful treatment accorded Ireland and India under John Bull's heavy heel.

If Napoleon had been allowed to establish a United States of Europe there might not have been either world war I. or II. A motley group of small, jealous, poverty stricken nations has never made any contribution to continued peace.

THE TRIBUNE is to be congratulated upon its denunciation of the Anglophiles who seek to embroil this nation in the war.

ROBERT G. MURRAY.

A MAKE-WORK FALLACY.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 8.—Does your reader know what she is talking about when she suggests in a letter that customers of department stores insist on the delivery of their small packages? This is the old story of the "make-work" fallacy.

Does she realize that by insisting that her small packages be delivered she adds materially to the sales price of the articles? The package must be sent to the shipping room, there handled by at least one, if not more, persons and put on the truck for delivery.

I wouldn't be surprised if your reader would complain about paying an extra dime for delivery of her small packages.

CHEWING GUM DISPOSAL.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Something should be done to eliminate the nuisance of used chewing gum. People seem to throw it away anywhere on the street and especially in front of movie houses. Many have had the experience of getting chewing gum on their clothes or shoes. Disposal of gum is as important as chewing it.

T. G.

HERE HE IS: IDEAL BOSS.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—I wish to take issue with several who have contributed letters regarding employers. At present I am evidently working for the ideal employer. He has never done any of the things listed in those previous letters.

He has never rushed dictation; never asks for something to be compiled in a hurry.

He never "flies off the handle" always has a pleasant "good morning" and a funny anecdote to relate.

He never repeats his stories; always considerate.

He allows additional time off whenever needed for shopping, etc.; grants increases in salaries whenever and wherever he can; never expects the impossible.

He employs the most modern methods and equipment.

His employés give him a full day's work and feel that they would be willing to work longer and harder for him should he ever require it.

I am grateful for having been granted the privilege of working for such a man.

JUANITA B. McINTOSH.

BRITAIN AND THE FINNS.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—What is the British navy doing? It lies in Scapa Flow and at the Orkneys in hiding, fearing the Germans or what? A few ships of the 10,000 class cruisers loaned to the Finns in the arctic would do real good and pay England handsomely for the loan. If Russia [or even Germany] should gain a foothold in Sweden and Norway then England would be lost.

To stand idly by and let little Finland fight its own battle against the Russian hordes is the same as to let a little fellow be beaten to a pulp by a gang of local ruffians in a street holdup.

FIRE HAZARD.

Chicago, Dec. 8 [Legal Friend of the People].—My question is not only for information, but preservation of human life. A frame house occupied by three families, the owner of which lives in the basement. It is not divided off, but is one open space wherein a heating plant, a coal bin, toilet, laundry tubs, and where clothes are dried after washing by the three families in inclement weather, constituting a menace to health. Also there is but one door thereto and that opening into what might be termed a shaft, a perfect flume in case of fire. The upper floor occupied by tenant has but one door and that opens onto a porch which is inclosed only on sides and the open end extends from sidewalk to roof, thus constituting a fire trap. It certainly would require quick work to prevent loss of human life in case of fire. Is this in accord with building requirements? Surely is worth a ton of cure.

W. H. G.

The owner of the above mentioned premises has been notified to erect an additional stairway from grade to second floor. If this work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice, we will proceed according to law.

PETROGRAD.—The attack of the Austro-German army in Poland appears to have bogged down, with the exception of General Mackensen's army, which is reported to have advanced to within 15 miles of Warsaw.

LONDON.—Reports from the Belgian-Dutch frontier state that the allies are making advances of "tremendous significance" in that region. Sweeping along between the railheads running from Ypres to Handzaeme, and from Ypres to Roulers, the French and British are forcing the Germans to abandon Thourout and Thielt.

LONDON.—The sea battle of the Falkland islands, which left the German fleet four cruisers smaller than before, is reported to be a result of an attempt of Admiral von Spee, the commander of Kaiser Wilhelm's squadron, to get into the Atlantic and then separate his ships to make their capture less likely.

BERLIN.—The Kaiser's health is considerably improved, according to an official announcement. His catarrh is relaxing and his temperature is normal, but he is still in bed with a persistent cough.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

G. O. P. Candidate Sees Threat to Freedom.

Election judges and clerks who steal votes are collectively the Public Enemy No. 1 of democracy and should be dealt with accordingly, Dwight H. Green, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, declared. He made this assertion as County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki prepared to resume his hearings of election frauds today.

Nearly every known means of altering ballots has been disclosed before Judge Jarecki, who is head of all election machinery in Cook county. The October grand jury investigated the frauds generally and condemned them in its report.

See Threat to Freedom.

"This is not a political problem," Green said. "It is a civic problem. The guarantee that every American's vote will be honestly counted and accredited is just as important as the guarantee of free speech and free press.

"In fact, unless vote frauds are stopped, the rights of free speech and free press will be threatened, along with every other democratic institution.

"I believe the crime of vote stealing is so serious that we should term as Public Enemy No. 1 the men and women who tamper with ballot boxes or sell out their election trusts to a political machine.

"I believe the public must put a stop to the practice of having ward committeemen designate which policemen shall guard the polling places in their districts. All clerks and judges of elections should be selected only after the most careful examination. The possibility of placing them under civil service should be investigated."

Seeks State-wide Support.

Green said that in his continued tour of the state he will urge that organizations such as the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, the Illinois Manufacturers' association, church groups, and labor unions unite in state-wide drive to reform election practices.

"Punishment for election frauds should be more severe," Green declared. "I will sponsor any law for this purpose and if given the opportunity I will sign such a law."

Judge Jarecki said last week that the most important step toward eliminating vote frauds would be the strengthening of the Republican party. Testimony before him showed that some G. O. P. election officials took orders from the dominant Democrats.

CHARLES F. BENNEHOFF SR. DIES.

Rock Grove, Ill., Dec. 10 [Special].—Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the Evangelical church for Charles R. Bennehoff Sr., who died suddenly last night from a heart attack. A resident of this community nearly all his life, he leaves three sons, three daughters, 22 grandchildren, and a

MRS. HELEN TOMOSOFSKY.

Mrs. Helen Tomosofsky, 48 years old, of 1416 North Wood street, and her two sons, Edward and Leo, were viewed by crime victims at the detective bureau showup yesterday. They were arrested by Detectives James Lynch and Walter Till of the Shakespeare avenue police during the investigation of several burglaries.

Held with them are Walter Narucki, 1834 Dickens avenue, who served three years for larceny in the Pontiac reformatory, and Stanley Wientizak, 162 West Huron street.

Police said that four years ago an escaped convict from Joliet, one George White, was captured in Mrs. Tomosofsky's home. White was brought to her home by an acquaintance, she told police at the time. When arrested Saturday she had a stolen revolver hidden under her apron, the detectives reported.

HOWELL SEEKS CONGRESS SEAT IN 21ST DISTRICT

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 10 [Special].—Attorney Evan Howell, federal referee in bankruptcy and former president of the Young Republican Organization of Illinois, is an announced candidate for congress from the 21st district, which, local leaders believe, will return to its traditional Republicanism next year.

In his announcement Howell declared travels about the district convinced him "the people want to nominate and elect a representative to congress who believes in America, its system and its institutions, and who desires to represent all of the people fairly and completely."

Howell, who is 34, may be opposed, in the event of his nomination, by another young man, Milburn P. Akers, Gov. Henry Horner's chief publicity man, who, it is said, plans to seek the Democratic nomination. The district is now represented by Frank W. Fries [D., Carlinville].

HOUSE HEARINGS ON LABOR BOARD TO BEGIN TODAY

Dissenting Member to Be Heard First.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10 (AP).—After three months of preliminary inquiry, the house committee to investigate the National Labor Relations board will begin hearings tomorrow with indications that early attention will be directed to policy differences among board members.

William Leiserson.

William Leiserson, newest member of the board, who has dissented from some findings of his colleagues, is to be the first witness.

Differs with Colleagues.

Leiserson has differed with the other board members, Chairman J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith, chiefly on the question of determining units for collective bargaining. He has contended that the board should be bound by existing units established by the workers.

Under Leiserson's conception, for instance, the board would certify a small, long standing craft union in a plant as the bargaining agency for its members, even tho some other union represented a majority of the employés.

Will Avoid A. F. of L.-C. I. O. Fight.

On the other hand, Smith and Madden have held that it was not the law's intent that the board should take special cognizance of such groups.

Members of the investigating committee emphasized that they did not intend to go into the A. F. of L.-C. I. O. fight in any way in their hearings. The A. F. of L. has contended that the board is partial to the C. I. O.

MRS. MARGARET SEXTON DIES.

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 10 [Special].—Mrs. Margaret Sexton, 75, widow of Michael Sexton, a past president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, and for many years a leader in minor league circles, died last night in the Harms hotel apartment where she resided. Mr. Sexton died in January, 1937.

ABBOTT BEQUEST ENABLES OPENING OF NURSE SCHOOL

A bequest of $250,000 from the estate of Mrs. Clara A. Abbott will enable the Victory Memorial hospital, Waukegan, to reopen its nurses' school, closed during the depression, it was announced yesterday. Julian G. Hart, chairman of the hospital board, said further plans under the bequest will be made later.

The Evanston Hospital association, thru Attorney Robert T. Sherman, president, announced that it will use $85,000 of the $250,000 bequest it received to erect a clinical and research laboratory. The remainder of the Evanston gift is in land.

The gifts were announced Saturday by trustees for Mrs. Abbott's estate. She was the widow of Dr. Wallace C. Abbott, founder of the Abbott laboratories, North Chicago. Northwestern university, Knox college, Galesburg, and the University of Chicago also were beneficiaries.

FATHER TO FIGHT AGAINST RETURN TO CHAIN GANG

Frank Du Bose, 23 years old, who was discovered to be a fugitive from an Alabama chain gang after he was arrested for drinking last Wednesday night, will fight extradition, Charles A. Schreiber, his attorney, said yesterday. Since his escape Du Bose has worked steadily for a trucking concern, has married, and is the father of two children. A routine fingerprint inspection after his arrest revealed that he had escaped from the chain gang on Sept. 13, 1934, after serving part of a sentence for larceny and perjury.

INDIANA TO OPEN SUPERHIGHWAY SECTION IN 1940

Connects Terre Haute and Indianapolis—71 Miles.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Terre Haute Ind., Dec. 10.—U. S. 40 is to become a superhighway next year from here to Indianapolis, a distance of 71 miles. M. R. Keefe, chief engineer of the Indiana road commission, made the announcement today in response to a telephone inquiry.

The program of new work calls for 29 miles of four lane pavement divided by a central parkway ranging from 4 to 30 feet in width. The cost will be nearly $3,000,000. The remaining 42 miles between here and the state capital has been made into multiple lane pavement in the last few years. The newest section, between here and Brazil, Ind., was opened to traffic last week.

This city, near the Indiana-Illinois line, may become the western outpost of "deathproof" design on this transcontinental route, known in early American history as the Cumberland road and later as the National road. From Indianapolis east, U. S. 40 is being modernized progressively by sections, notably in Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

Repaids Are Bungled.

West of here, thru Effingham and Vandalia to East St. Louis, U. S. 40 is a killer, due in large measure not only to the obsolete design of much of its right of way, but also to bungled reconstruction of pavement.

In Illinois, outside cities of more than 1,000 population, there were 151 accidents on this road, each involving one or more deaths or personal injuries, during the first 10 months of 1939. Earlier this year a survey disclosed that U. S. 40 had the bloodiest record of any extensive pavement in Illinois, with an annual toll of 3.51 serious accidents per mile.

The requirements for "deathproof" highway construction west of here are recognized by authorities outside of official Springfield. The 170 miles from Terre Haute to St. Louis is part of 1,060 miles on five Illinois highways included in a national system of superhighways advocated by the United States bureau of public roads.

Special Survey Made.

The Tribune road car was driven here in a survey tour of these recommended Illinois superhighway routes. Observations of aggravating local characteristics along the route emphasized modernization requirements which are obvious enough from coroners' records and from surveys by the United States bureau of public roads.

Traffic volumes are reported in these surveys as being in excess of the maximum capacity for safe and convenient travel on an average two lane pavement. On the tour it was observed that these large traffic volumes are using roadways much worse than average.

Coroners' reports attribute most of the fatalities to driver errors or offenses. On the tour it was observed that mishaps were most frequent where the traffic environment was lethal in itself — where a slight mistake might result in a crash.

Center Parkway Missing.

In the East St. Louis areas the Illinois highway department in recent years has laid some four lane pavement on U. S. 40. The design fails to provide a physical separation of opposing streams of traffic.

In Bond county, immediately east of Madison county, the state has just completed 8.7 miles of two lane concrete. Bridges and culverts fail to provide for future parallel two lane slabs, as required by present traffic volumes, according to the federal study.

These evils are minor, compared with conditions on east to the Indiana line, covering most of the distance across Illinois. About 76 miles of this pavement was laid from 1919 to 1921. The surface is bumpy, cracked and crumbling. Widths are 16 and 18 feet, compared with the modern 22 foot dimension for a two lane slab.

Curves and grades are sharp, with short visible distances. Heavy culvert walls are close to the pavement edge. Shoulders are narrow and rutted by wheels that have left the slab or are reinforced with a makeshift bituminous material that bleeds onto the pavement, producing skids.

Emmerson Scandal Recalled.

There are about 32 miles of brick resurfacing with a width of 20 feet. When former Gov. Louis L. Emmerson laid 20 miles of this brick on U. S. 40, west from the Indiana line, it was a scandal. The cost was greater than the cost of a new road. The results were unsatisfactory. Gov. Henry Horner duplicated the performance in 1933 for a distance of 12 miles between Effingham and Altamont.

On the Effingham-Altamont stretch it was noted that the brick surface was reproducing the crack failures of its old concrete base. Many bricks were lose. Some were missing. A few were turned on edge or on end—a tire snag that wrecks cars. Signs read "slippery when wet."

The Illinois highway department has protested that it recognizes the need for modernizing U. S. 40. However, its idea of modernization doesn't fill the superhighway requirement prescribed for this location by the United States bureau of public roads.

The Springfield administration protests that its delay in replacing dangerously antiquated slab has been due to lack of funds. Critics reply that it has been spending millions for new routes, with no small mileage being inspired by political expediency, rather than traffic utility.

U. S. 40 is to be made a superhighway from Terre Haute to Indianapolis next year, it was announced yesterday.

Couple Killed When Truck and Car Collide on Curve

Paoli, Ind., Dec. 10 [Special].—Walter C. LaDuke, 37 years old, operator of a tavern on the outskirts of New Albany, and Mrs. Edna Cooley, 32, also of New Albany, were killed tonight when their car collided with a truck on a curve five miles east of French Lick.

DRIVER INJURED AS CAR STRIKES SIDE OF TRAIN

Accident Goes Unnoticed for Half Hour.

Reginald Mears, 20 years old, drove his automobile against the side of a southbound freight train of the North Western railroad early yesterday on the State Line road crossing in Russell, 13 miles northwest of Waukegan. The train went on, but when a second train passed the crossing half an hour later its crew saw the wreckage and stopped. Mears, who lives in Winthrop Harbor, was unconscious. He was taken to the St. Therese hospital, Waukegan.

Charles Roth, 64, of 4730 Malden street, died early today in Swedish Covenant hospital of injuries received shortly before midnight at Foster and Kenmore avenues, when he was hit by an automobile driven by Oscar Schilling, 25, of 4459 Irving Park road.

Woman Dies of Injuries.

Mrs. Marie Lobe, 78, of 7234 May street, died in Englewood hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when she was struck by an automobile as she crossed Racine avenue at 72d place. The driver, Erwin L. Dankers, 9217 Bishop street, took her to the hospital.

Victor Blachek, 44, of 1002 North 22d avenue, Melrose Park, a tin cutter, died in Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, of injuries incurred Dec. 2, when he was struck by an automobile at 33d avenue and Lake street. Herbert Reinke, 263 Ridgeland avenue, Elmhurst, a chauffeur, driver of the car, was charged with reckless driving and was released on $1,000 bond.

An unidentified man about 60 years old, was killed when he stepped in front of an automobile in Roosevelt road near Wolf road in Hillside. Emmet E. Flaherty, 5341 South McVicker avenue, was the driver.

Hit by Auto and Killed.

An unidentified man was killed when struck by an automobile and hurled in front of a taxi at Wellington and Cicero avenues. The driver of the car was Joseph Seesmith, 4356 Kamerling avenue. Cab company officials refused to name the driver, but said he would appear at the inquest.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 838 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 646 were killed in Chicago, where 21,098 were injured in the same period.

WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN VANISH.

Guy Schiola, 203 La Crosse avenue, a trucker, asked police last night to search for his wife, who disappeared Friday with two of their five children. Schiola said she had undergone an operation Thursday and he feared for her safety.

YOU CAN GET A LOAN OF $100

IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $6.43 A MONTH

Read how you can borrow promptly and without asking others for help—No credit inquiries of friends or relatives

YOU need money? You can borrow—quickly and in privacy—if you can make small regular payments on your loan. You can borrow for any worthy purpose—to clean up old debts, to meet an emergency, to pay doctor or dental bills, to take advantage of an opportunity.

Suppose you need $100 and can, for instance, conveniently repay $9.77 a month. Twelve installments of this amount will repay your loan in full. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.43 per month for 20 months will also repay a $100 loan. Whatever the amount you borrow you choose the payment plan most convenient for you.

Choose your own payments

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment you wish to make. Note that you may make very small payments if you prefer. Or you may pay larger installments and pay up sooner. See how little your loan costs if you repay in a short time. A loan of $100 repaid in four months costs only $6.44.

Simple to borrow

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is tell us your needs. We ask for no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. Loans are made on furniture, car or note. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives. You don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly.

One rate to everyone

Household has only one price —the same rate to all, whether new customers or former borrowers.

In cases of sickness or unemployment Household shows the borrower every consideration. Last year Household foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 10,000 loans—an action taken then only as protection against fraud.

Get details—no obligation

Why don't you phone or visit us today? There's no obligation if you decide not to borrow.

Chauncey McCormicks to Give Gay Christmas Party for Niece

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONE of the gay parties during the Christmas holidays will be a luncheon the Chauncey McCormicks will give on Wednesday, Dec. 27, at the Casino. They are giving it for their debutante niece, Miss Marion Danielson, who arrives the day before from her home in Boston to spend four days with the aunt for whom she is named. The McCormicks' three sons, Deering, who works in New York, and Brooks and Roger, who are at Yale, all will be here for the luncheon. Perhaps Brooks McCormick's fiancée, Miss Hope Baldwin of New York, will be here then, too, for the McCormicks are expecting her for a brief visit some time during the holiday season.

Miss Danielson made her debut last Friday night at a ball at the Ritz Carlton hotel in Boston. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick did not go east for the debut.

It will be disappointing news to the many friends of another Boston debutante, Miss Sally Reed, who used to live in Chicago, to learn that she and her brother, Sam, have decided not to come west for a holiday visit. Miss Sally, whose name really is Sarah, has four other brothers, Loring, Billy, Howard, and Nat. All were ushers at the ball Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Reed gave recently to introduce their daughter to Boston society at the Brookline Country club.

New England Niece to Visit Alan C. Dixons.

The Alan C. Dixons are looking forward to a visit from their niece, Miss Judith Miller, who is arriving from Milton, Mass., on the Wednesday after Christmas. If her fiancé, Arthur Willis Jr. of Brookline, is able to come west at that time, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon will give a cocktail party for them. Immediately after New Year's Mrs. Dixon and Miss Miller will leave for Guaymas, Mexico, for two or three weeks of fishing and riding. Mr. Dixon may join them for a week.

Dr. and Mrs. Frode Jensen [Deborah Leonard] are expected on Dec. 23 to stay over New Year's with her father, John R. Leonard, in Winnetka. Dr. and Mrs. Jensen are living in Syracuse, N. Y. Mrs. Jensen's sister and her husband, the William Turpins, and their little son are living with Mr. Leonard. The family is not planning its usual at home on New Year's day this year. Mr. Leonard broke the chain of annual parties last year for the first time in many years.

Daughter and Family to Visit John S. Stones.

Other Christmas time visitors will be Mr. and Mrs. Eliot P. Goss and their children, Mary Dana and Porter, who will arrive Dec. 19 to spend 10 days with Mrs. Goss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sheppard Stone. The Stones and their son, Dana Stone, will give a party for the visitors on the afternoon of Dec. 22. Mr. and Mrs. Goss live in Waterbury, Conn.

Mrs. Harry L. Street of Winnetka, who for the last month has been visiting her daughter and son-in-law, the James Reid Shannons in Denver, Colo., was among the first to greet her new grandson, who was born Saturday morning at the St. Joseph's hospital in Denver. The baby has been named James R. Shannon Jr., but will be called Reid.

He has another grandmother, Mrs. Edward L. Shannon of Denver, and two great-grandmothers, Mrs. John A. Wakefield of Winnetka and Mrs. Charles A. Street of Chicago.

Petit Lundi Postponed; Mrs. Nelson Morris Ill.

The sudden illness of Mrs. Nelson Morris, who was to have played the rôle of L'Aiglon in this afternoon's Petit Lundi, has forced the postponement of the performance. The program, composed of scenes from Rostand's famous play, was to be presented by Mrs. Herbert Samuels, Louis Rousseau, Jean St. Anne, and Georges Cauuet, for the benefit of the Société Française de Bienfaisance de l'Illinois.

Mrs. Morris, who was Blanche Bilbao before her marriage, was a well known figure of the Parisian theater. Her interpretation of the part of the duke of Reichstadt will mark her first appearance on the stage after an absence of ten years.

William E. Clow Jr. to Wed Mrs. Traer Dec. 30.

Mrs. Nadyne McNeill Traer of Minneapolis, Minn., and William E. Clow Jr., of Lake Forest, will be married Saturday, Dec. 30, at 2:30 o'clock in a ceremony held in the home of a relative of the bride near Danville, Ill. Mr. Clow and his bride will then leave for a two months' stay in Florida. Only members of the immediate family and a few girlhood friends of Mrs. Traer will be present.

Added to the many teas that follow every Friday's concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra will be a reception Mrs. Albert F. Madlener and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Madlener Jr., will give this week for another daughter-in-law, Mrs. Otto Madlener. The party will be given at the home of the senior Mrs. Madlener. Mrs. Otto Madlener was Miss Elaine Wetmore of New York until she and one of the twin sons of the Madleners were married last July.

Another Friday tea is one Mrs. Wil-

Square Dance in the Ozarks.

Take your lady by the wrist,
Then round the lady
With the grapevine twist . . .

We heard the hoarse, throaty voice of the caller and the rhythmic thump of the dancers' feet as we drove up the lane and parked the car. We recognized the tune, "Walk Along, John," and rightly guessed that it was being played by a violin and two "gittars." Opening the door, we were fairly smothered by the sound and heat that poured out. We were at a hill country square dance, and a good time was being had by all.

It was a typical mountain home . . . with two rooms at the front and two at the rear. The room we entered was the family living room, filled at the moment with neatly dressed women and girls milling about the glowing heating stove and whispering or chatting as they sat on benches along the wall. One woman nursed a baby. In the room beyond, small fry played on a bed piled high with wraps, and a half dozen middle-aged men in overalls sat about a big round table playing pitch with grim tenseness.

Round the gent in the same old way,
Circle four . . .

The room was small, with hot, pink walls, pink curtains, and a sky blue ceiling and utterly bare of furniture. Two beds, I was told, had been moved out to make room for the dance. The dancers seemed veiled in mist as their dancing feet beat dust from the old wood floor, and a kerosene lamp on the floor in the far corner set hugely magnified shadows whirling over the pink walls as the dancers circled and promenaded.

Circle eight
On the floor,
First man breaks his neck . . .

Ralph Bellows, in a blue shirt and new overalls, was heavily and dancing lightly. Two other young dancers were in overalls and caps, such as oil station attendants wear. The fourth young chap, tall, dark, and handsome, wore a wide studded belt with his dark trousers and white shirt, and topped off his costume with a wide brimmed sombrero. The girls wore clean, starched print dresses. All were surprisingly neat hoofers, and one girl, with straight, blonde hair and a Petty-girl figure, was a dancing star. She was, I learned, Margaret Markham, 13 years old.

The set ended and another came on the floor. The calling began again:

First couple
Out by the right,
In by the wrong.
Cut a little dido
Two foot long.

This time there were two white-haired men in the set dancing the intricate figures smoothly and gracefully. I was introduced to many about me . . . Tom Yarborough, Tommy Blankenship, Gail Dean, Janet Jackson, Eldon Colter, Gene Day . . . the names might have come from one of Dickens' novels. I counted noses and found there were 66 in the tiny house.

N. Y. 'Diamond Horseshoe' May Let Public In

New York, Dec. 10 (AP).—The world famous "diamond horseshoe" is going to lose some of its genuine luster.

You may see more costume jewelry than the real stuff among the choicest perches at the sacrosanct Metropolitan Opera house. Rosie O'Grady and the boy friend may sparkle in the show place of genuinely bejeweled dowagers and debbies.

All this was indicated today when five "first families"—all holders of boxes—said they were willing to sell their interests to the Metropolitan Opera association, the management corporation. They signified their agreement in a letter sent to all the membership of the Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate company.

Signers of the letter included J. P. Morgan, Mrs. William Bayard Cutting, Myron C. Taylor, Mrs. G. Beekman Hoppin, and Cornelius N. Bliss. The final decision will be made Friday at a stockholders' meeting.

Should the famous horseshoe be thrown open to the public on a first come, first served basis, it could be done only if two-thirds of the 105,000 shares of stock of the Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate company are voted in support of the plan.

As much as $300,000 has been paid for a diamond horseshoe box and the social distinction that went with it. If the new plan is agreed upon, the box owners would give up their individually owned boxes for $14,000 cash plus a $25,000 mortgage on the opera property.

Each box carried with it an assessment of $4,500 a year—paid cheerfully in the past by such dowagers as the late Mrs. William Waldorf Astor and the late Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish. But recent years have involved estates, as the original owners died, and trusts and banks represented interests of the dead owners. Some refused to pay.

The new plan, the Taylor-Morgan letter said, "will prevent discontinuance of opera in New York City, will meet the difficulties of many box holders, particularly of estates, in respect to the assessments levied upon them."

The opera association is to buy the building and warehouses for $1,970,000, subject to a first mortgage of $470,000. Payment of $500,000 would be made in cash, and the remaining $1,000,000 underwritten in bonds, payable in 25 years.

Theodore Roosevelt III. Weds Louisville Junior Leaguer Feb. 3

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 10 (AP).—The engagement of Miss Anne Babcock of Louisville to Theodore Roosevelt III., grandson of President Theodore Roosevelt, was announced today by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wheeler Babcock. The wedding is to take place Feb. 3.

A graduate of Groton school and Harvard university, Roosevelt has been employed here for the last year by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. of Wilmington, Del. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. of Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Miss Babcock, a noted horsewoman and member of the Louisville Junior league, attended Miss Madeira's school, Fairfax, Va., and passed a year abroad with Miss Stout's Finishing School of Travel.

Singers and Ballet Brilliant in 'Halka,' First Polish Opera

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Moniuszko's "Halka," the first Polish opera, was brilliantly presented at the Civic Opera house last night by the Chicago City Opera company.

In the first place, the cast was brilliant. Heading it were Renee Treer, a bright voiced Polish soprano new to Chicago, and Jan Kiepura, the widely admired Polish tenor. The leads were supported by such Poles by birth or descent as George Czapilcki, Valerie Glowacki, Valentine Figniak, Edward Grabinski, and Carl Kosinski. Mark Love, a Pole for the evening only, completed the cast. Settings and costumes glowed with color.

The Littlefield ballet added its bit to the evening's brilliance by contributing three Polish dances. The Filarecl-Dudziarz chorus was used effectively in the large scenes, contributing three Polish dances. Jerzy Bojanowski, the conductor, moved things along at a smart pace.

The Chicago Business Men's orchestra, a unique organization of 115 men drawn from professions and trades other than music, gave the first concert of its season at the Goodman theater last night. George Dasch conducted.

The program's main items were the Mozart G Minor symphony [played in memory of George Lytton, who founded the orchestra in 1921], and the Brahms D Major [second] symphony. This latter piece, as exacting as anything the orchestra has ever presented, had a sonority, a dignity, and a flow which did credit to the orchestra's enthusiasm and to the skill of the conductor.

For instance, the opening movement of the Beethoven "Moonlight" sonata was very slow and portentous, the Scarlatti Capriccio was so fast as to leave the piano smoking with the speed of its passing. The Chopin "Revolutionary" Etude was apparently an exception, for it was tossed off with no attempt at bigness. However, understatement often is as theatrical as over.

Mr. Boguslawski is a pianist of the intense type. His phrases are usually highly personalized. Yet he stops short of destroying the flow of the music.

Marya McAuliff, resident pianist, revealed in her Studebaker theater recital of yesterday afternoon a nice, fluent technique and an excellent feeling for the more piquant types of rhythm. This latter was intoxicatingly in evidence in the march from "The Love for Three Oranges."

But even in the little march [and much more noticesbly in big things such as the Chopin G-minor Ballade and the Dohnanyi's transcription of the "Nalla" waltzes] Miss McAuliff's playing lacked the proper projective force. The likeliest reasons for this were to be found in the sameness of her tone colorings, in the absence of a luminous melody line in the right hand, and in her distrust of unmistakable accents and genuine climaxes.

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his sick friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. He picks up two strange companions, Mrs. Sebastian, who owns a Mexican roadhouse, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a line jumper. In a lonely spot they come upon the pay car of the Golconda mine—all occupants murdered, and three bold-up men still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road and stops their pursuit. He recognizes one bandit as the mine's paymaster. Paul Collins, a crooked local assayer, tests Dillon's ore and gives him a false report. He enlists the aid of another rascal, Kent, to cheat Dillon. Dillon breaks the sad news to Pat, an orphaned girl who owns an old hotel and who had staked him, then goes off to collect his tools. At Pat's hotel Leonard sees the girl slip out in the night with a gun. Distrusting Kent, Collins sends two hirelings to follow Dillon and locate his claim. Kent, suspicious, puts Papago, an old watchman, on the trail. Taylor, the Golconda paymaster, arranges with Kent to have Leonard blamed for his crime. In Collins' office Pat finds the correct report on Dillon's ore, but Kent and Collins discover her there. Kent kidnaps the girl in his car—her old Chinese servant clings to the spare tire. Leonard goes to see Mrs. Sebastian and walks into a trap set to capture him. Mestres is hobnobbing with one of the bandits and Mrs. Sebastian pretends not to know him. Leonard escapes only to accept a lift from Kent and be turned over to the Mexican police, but Mestres rescues him. Mestres gets a trusted guide, Plutarcho, to sneak Leonard across the line. As they pass the building where Kent had placed Pat they are hailed by the Chinese servant. It is a marijuana den, run by an outlawed doctor and his wife. Fearing exposure they plan to kill the girl. Leonard and his companions break into the building just in time to save her. Leonard and Pat set out to find Dillon. Kent also sets out on Dillon's trail.

INSTALMENT XXV.

A TRAGIC ATMOSPHERE.

Ever since Kent had learned that this new partner of his was sending those two men to follow Dillon to the claims he had realized that if he hoped to reap any profit from the alliance he must get complete control of the situation at once.

"And the minute that crook gets word where those claims are," he reflected, "he'll locate them for himself. Then he'll either squeeze me down to a quarter interest or ditch me altogether." Which conclusion, it may be remarked in passing, was justified by the history of more than one noteworthy mining deal.

"All he wants out of me," he muttered, "is money enough to do his development work, and when I've put up the cash I'll find myself owning a lawsuit."

The righteous indignation which is never so strong as in those whose understanding of sharp practice is based on first hand knowledge was growing hot within him as he drew near the spot where the wheel tracks from the Old Stone House mine joined the main road. He turned out the lights and brought the car to a stop. He shut off the ignition and the motor ceased humming.

The headlights of an approaching car were hidden behind a low rise, but the orange glow was clearly visible. It flickered as the car changed direction, it vanished, reappeared, and then the twin specks of light shot into the night. Evidently Papago had done a thorough job with the distributor. Dillon's shadowers had been delayed a long time before they found the trouble. Kent gazed after the red tail lamp as it receded in the direction of Golconda.

"Now I wonder," he asked himself, "if they found his trail to the mine."

And if they did? Well then, the chances were Collins would be setting forth early tomorrow morning.

Kent sat there thinking it over for some time. He had small knowledge of the desert, and he did not like it. Moreover, he had paid one visit to the canyon where the tanks lay. Some misguided enthusiasts had driven him to the spot on a Sunday outing, and they had picnicked under the ironwood tree. The memory of the hours he had spent drinking luke warm beer and shifting his position every so often to keep within the scanty patch of shade while the ravens croaked in the branches overhead and the sun glared down on the little crosses of stones never failed to arouse a shudder.

When he conjured up a vision of what the place would be like at night the distaste grew even stronger. He was not superstitious, but there was a savageness in that bit of landscape, there was a completeness in its atmosphere of tragedy which made the idea of a nocturnal visit a little fearsome. And he was not prepared. He had neither canteen nor food; the only particle of equipment which he possessed was a flashlight.

Yet the idea persisted. He remembered the huge boulders in the bed of the side canyon that led up to the tanks. A man could conceal himself among those rocks without the least difficulty. It was only a matter of a few hours before daylight, and the night was warm. His discomfort would be slight compared to the reward——

High grade ore. It meant millions, perhaps. All he had to do was to wait until Dillon had returned from the old Mexican mine and driven away. Then follow the trail. It would not be more than a few miles' climb. If he did not take advantage of this opportunity Collins would come out in the morning and set his monument.

He was, like those gunmen whom he had characterized that afternoon, as unsuited to the desert as a canary bird. When he set his foot on the self-starter he had something of the same feeling that a timid man suffers taking his first flight in an open cockpit airplane. The road was a mere pair of tracks, but as he went on his assurance grew strong, the unpleasant memories of the steep walled gorge, of the Little Mesa of the Dead with its two rows of bleak graves and the ironwood tree in whose branches the ravens roosted vanished. He was thinking of high grade ore.

He was drawing near the mouth of the canyon when he recalled the fact that it would be wise to hide his car. Once inside the gorge there would be no chance for him to find a hidden parking place. He lost some time searching the broken terrain which his headlights revealed before he discovered a granite fragment as large as an ordinary cottage which had been broken from the mountainside. He drove the sedan behind this shelter. From that point he walked on.

In such previous ventures as he had made to the detriment of other men's bank accounts he had always remained in the background, the guiding spirit by whose instructions criminals of smaller calibre had done the actual work. This was the first time he had embarked into action, his first experience where there was the slightest possibility of physical risk. And, like most men whose imaginations serve them, he was to find the time when the servant assumed the mastery.

That moment came when he entered the mouth of the gorge. He saw a hundred things which were not visible, he heard a hundred sounds which did not exist. He drank deeply from the cup of cowardice, and his limbs were weak, the sweat stood out in big drops on his forehead.

When the faint beam of the flashlight revealed the crosses of stones on the dry earth of the Little Mesa of the Dead he halted. And as he stood there gazing at the open space the raven croaked in the branches of the ironwood tree. He felt the shaking of his knees and swore at himself. Then he went on.

It was not so bad after he had turned into the side gulch, but there was an unpleasant moment when his foot slipped on one of the rocks and he caught himself just in time to keep from falling. He picked out a niche between two granite fragments, which would give him a view of the forks of the canyon after the moon rose. Then he settled down to wait.

The night was growing a little cooler, but the huge rocks still held some of the heat which they had been absorbing during the hours of daylight. It was comparatively comfortable here. He shifted the automatic pistol which he always carried into his coat pocket, where its pressure would not bother him. He smoked several cigarets.

It had been a long day, and it had been eventful. He reviewed its various occurrences: The bad news concerning the witness who had seen the robbery, the discovery of that girl in Collins' office. And there was talk which had come to him during the afternoon of an investigation on the part of the Mexican federal authorities concerning some of the unlawful activities in San Ilario.

It occurred to him that his scope of operations here was growing too wide. He was becoming entangled with too many other people, any one of whom would not hesitate to betray a confederate higher up in order to save himself. Well, that need not be much longer. If this deal came thru according to his new plans he could let the others slide—get out from under.

The thought was comforting. It brought to him a feeling of relaxation. His head rested against the warm rock. His eyes closed.

He had been sleeping for some time when he began to dream. And the dream was a strange one. He was walking down a crowded street and all the men about him were quarreling among themselves. Their voices were raised in dispute. They grew sharper, they were vibrant with hatred. Then the dream changed and he felt the coldness of deadly fear creeping over his body.

He did not know what it was that he was dreading, but it was something close by. It was something which hovered over him. It was invisible, but it was pressing down upon him. He awoke with his mouth wide open. He was breathing hoarsely, trying to cry out for help, unable to utter anything louder than a whisper.

The moon had risen over the eastern rim of the canyon, and its light was flowing down upon the Little Mesa of the Dead. A few yards away from the spot where he was sitting the little graves stood out like the stones which children arrange sometimes at play. The ironwood tree was as black as ink within the lake of brightness. There was something moving just beyond the place where the light ceased and the shadows of the upper canyon began.

He saw two men step out of the blackness. He saw one slip behind the other, a prospector's pick in his upraised hand. Its sharp point glittered in the moonlight as it descended. The thud of the blow reached his ears.

GASOLINE ALLEY—JUST A REMINDER

Must You Stay Fat? Then Be Very Charming

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"If you're going to reduce DO IT. Don't annoy your friends by talking about it. If, after having tried various means, the bulges and spare tires remain insistently in place, take it from one who has tried everything, you will be a lot happier and a lot easier to live with if you just make up your mind to be fat and like it!"

To Katherine Flynn, writing in a monthly magazine devoted to desirable living, we are indebted for the foregoing bit of advice.

Miss Flynn says, of course, that if your health suffers from your overweight you should do something about it. It's to those whose health is sound and the adipose seems to be the same that she suggests keeping up a sense of humor and living in a great big pleasant way, as Kate Smith would say.

It's a not-too-easy rôle, Miss Flynn admits, to be a fat girl in a streamlined era, but she's all against the plump ones giving way to fits of depression or embarrassment over hints about being an "outsizer." The woman who can laugh off the embarrassments and learn to laugh at herself instead of apologizing or being self-conscious, may be a thumping success, as witness, she says, the aforementioned and dearly beloved Kate Smith and Elsa Maxwell, among others.

A fine suggestion stemming from the same source, if the fat won't move regardless of diet and exercise, is to focus all efforts on acquiring a gracious, charming personality. An infectious smile, quick wit, and interesting conversation are perfect defense weapons aside from being potent charm ingredients. Doing something well is another ally commended so that there is no chance of becoming mentally lazy.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Having your photograph taken so that you can present it to your true love for Christmas? Then you should be reminded again of a few beauty rules that apply especially to photography.

Don't go straight to the photographer's from the beauty shop. Hair that is freshly set [especially if waves and ringlets are the important feature of your hairdress] looks much too stiff in a photograph. Your hair should be shining clean, but shouldn't look lacquered. Have it "done" the day before.

If this is to be an important portrait, one that you fondly hope will be treasured for years to come, be photographed without a hat. Hats become dated much too quickly.

For your picture wear the kind of clothes in which you're completely at ease. If you feel awkward or self-conscious in fluffy evening dress that ill-at-ease air will be caught by the camera. Better a sweater and skirt which become your type perfectly than the most elaborate dress you can beg, borrow, or steal if the latter just isn't your kind of a costume.

Go easy on the makeup. The average photographer has strong ideas about this, and it's best to do exactly what he commands in this detail. If he doesn't offer suggestions you might remember: That rouge is best left off for black and white photography; that a little sheen is preferable to a heavily powdered skin; that lips should be deftly rouged and moistened just before the camera clicks. Eye shadow and mascara are all to the good. Have your brows groomed the day before you go to the studio.

And—most important of all, probably—get a good night's sleep before the big day. If you're rested you'll be relaxed and radiant—and that's the ideal state for the ordeal of picture taking. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Glazed fruits and fruit candies are popular at only one season of the year—Christmas. Then fruit confections are nibbled and exclaimed over at many a holiday tea or bridge party. Fruit candies are, almost without exception, very rich and sweet. A little of them will go a long way, but no Christmas box of homemade candies is complete without a few fruity pieces.

The fruit candy recipes I'm going to suggest for Christmas boxes and parties are simple to make, attractive to look upon, and ever so delicious to eat.

COATED STUFFED FRUITS.

Stuffed dates, steamed prunes, and apricots with nut meats. Dip one at a time in dipping chocolate melted in the top of a double boiler over warm, not hot, water. Place on wax paper to harden.

Or dip one end or the whole stuffed fruit in fondant melted over hot water and place on wax paper. Fondant may be tinted or not. Fruits may be fondant dipped and then coated with chocolate, if desired.

Tomorrow's column will contain recipes for fondant which may be used thus for coating. Or see our booklet, "Simple Homemade Candies," for fondant and many other recipes for holiday candies.

Glazed Fruits and Nuts.

2 cups sugar
1 cup water
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
Nut meats, pieces of canned pineapple, grapes, dates, cherries, orange sections

Boil sugar, water, and cream of tartar rapidly without stirring to the hard crack stage, 290 degrees by the candy thermometer. Remove pan from heat immediately and place for a few seconds in a pan of cold water to stop the cooking. Then place over hot water to keep the sirup from hardening while dipping takes place. Dip nuts and pieces of fruit quickly and dry on a cookie sheet or wax paper. Unlike candied fruits, glazed fruits will not keep well.

PEACH STRIPS.

Rinse dried peaches, steam them for 15 minutes over hot water, and remove skins. Press between folds of a towel to flatten and remove excess moisture. Slice in very thin strips and roll in granulated sugar.

MIXED FRUIT SLICES.

Grind one cup pitted, plumped prunes, one cup figs, and one cup raisins with one-half cup nuts. Mix thoroly and shape into long, slender rolls. Roll in coconut or finely chopped nuts, wrap in wax paper, and chill. Slice off pieces as desired.

Kneaded Jam Fudge.

[Two pounds.]
3 cups sugar
½ cup cream
½ cup water
½ cup fruit jam
2 tablespoons butter

Combine sugar, cream, and water. Boil to 230 degrees by the candy thermometer. Add jam and butter and boil to 238 degrees, or to a medium soft ball. Remove at once from heat, wipe crystals away from the side of the pan with a damp cloth, and pour into a shallow pan. Cool undisturbed to lukewarm. Stir with a wooden spoon or paddle until the candy has a cheesy texture. Then knead with the hands until soft and plastic. Turn into a wax paper lined pan, pat the surface smooth and set aside to harden. Cut into pieces.

THE STAGE

The midweek matinée of "My Dear Children" at the Selwyn theater will be changed to Thursday this week to enable John Barrymore to see his daughter, Diana Barrymore, in "Outward Bound" at the Harris theater's Wednesday matinée. On Thursday afternoon Miss Barrymore will attend her father's play for the first time.

Aprons Smartly Fashioned

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRONS.

Aprons make welcome party gifts and prizes, and remembrances for the brides-to-be among your friends. Such items are inexpensive and easy to make, and this pattern facilitates your work. Sketched at the top is a "bib" model trimmed with rickrack, easy to use and decorative. Centered on the bodice and on the pocket may be applique motifs made with pattern No. E-700.

The other model is styled along princess lines and has only bias binding and buttons for trimming. Both versions make up beautifully in all the printed and plain cottons.

Style No. 3108 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 2¼ yards of 35 inch material for bib style, with 3 yards of braid; 2¾ yards with 2 yards of binding for princess style.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

1. Can the setting trick probably be taken immediately?
2. Can the setting trick be established for future use?
3. Did the opening lead denote the possession of a high card, or did it look like the "top of nothing?"
4. If it is certain, or fairly certain, that declarer can control the suit opened, would returning that suit permit him to take immediate discards on some other established suit in dummy?
5. Will the return of partner's suit, or the shift to another specific suit, remove an entry in dummy that may be invaluable to the declarer either for [a] the establishment of a side suit, or [b] for a possible squeeze position?

Other and more subtle considerations sometimes enter the picture. But if the defender strives to answer the above questions, he will have gone a long way toward solving the problem of when to return partner's lead. In today's hand, for example, the proper answer to the last part of the fifth question would have saved East and his partner many points.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	3 no tramp	Pass
4 spades	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
5 spades	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West was hard pressed for an opening lead and finally selected his fourth highest club. Declarer must have been somewhat disappointed at the sight of the dummy, but, naturally, did not "give up." The opening lead was ducked in the dummy and East's king won. Now, with only one trick home, East was in a terrific hurry to grab a second trick, and felt that the best chance would be to find his partner with the ace or king of diamonds. Hence, he shifted to the diamond ten. Declarer, after carefully considering the chances of a finesse, decided that they were entirely too slim considering East's lead of the ten spot up to dummy's jack. East hardly would have led a diamond if he had held the king. On that judgment, declarer put up the diamond ace, cashed the heart ace, and then ran every trump. West followed to two rounds of trumps, and then let go one heart, one diamond, and one club. But when declarer played his next to last trump, West could no longer find a card to let go in safety. Obviously, he had to hold the guarded heart queen, the diamond king, and the Q-10 of clubs to protect corresponding cards held by the enemy. But with the necessity of reducing to four cards, this was palpably impossible. On the basis that East might have the club jack, West let go his own ten spot, but his relief was short lived. Declarer led the last trump, then a club to the ace, discarded the diamond queen on the heart king, and claimed the last trick with the established club jack.

If East had not been so optimistic about his chance to grab an immediate diamond trick, he could have defeated the slam by returning a club and knocking out dummy's only entry. Naturally, East could not tell that declarer had the blank heart ace, but one thing was certain, and that was that an ace hardly could be expected in West's hand, considering South's opening two bid. Any lesser card than the ace held by West scarcely could be cashed immediately, hence East should have confined himself to the attempt to knock out dummy's club entry. On an immediate club return, declarer would have been helpless.

Ballet's Fairy Show Delights Crowded House

BY CECIL SMITH.

An audience of 1,400 children and 2,100 adults filled the Civic Opera house to the gunwales yesterday afternoon for the last program of the season by the Littlefield ballet. A light, cheerful holiday mood prevailed thruout the afternoon, and every one had a happy time of it.

Catherine Littlefield, who devises the choreography for her ballet, offered to the Chicago public for the first time a Christmas pantomime, "Snow Queen." Based on a Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale, the piece is designed in terms of simple, understandable narrative. A narrator, seated in an armchair at the left of the stage with a child by his side, reads bits of the story when the plot might otherwise become unclear to a young audience.

The familiar tale tells how Kay, having got a splinter into his eye from the broken mirror of the wicked goblins, is spirited off to the icy palace of the snow queen, to remain there until loyal little Gerda finds a way to get him home again to "live happily ever after."

As the story unfolded on the stage, unhampered by any aspiration to become a serious work of art, "Snow Queen" possessed great charm and effectiveness. The various leading parts were mimed with satisfactory realism and humor by Dorothie Littlefield, Joan McCracken, Dorothy Swain, Alma Wertley, Carl Cleighton, and others. An identical ice ballet presented various cliches of classical ballet palatably.

Murray Cutter's music, well conducted by Henri Elkan, shows that the composer has absorbed Stravinsky's "Petrouchka" well. Yet even tho the score has no striking originality, it is intelligently conceived to serve its purpose.

The rest of the program included "Viennese Waltz," danced to music of Johann Strauss, and "Aurora's Wedding," in which Catherine Littlefield's solo adagio was conceived and projected with impeccable style.

Ernest Moeller, playing in Kimball hall yesterday, demonstrated that blindness need not be a severe handicap to a pianist of outstanding talent. His musicianship is deep-rooted and genuine, his agility is unblemished by so much as a single false note, and his tone ranges from a luminous lyric simplicity to a bold fortissimo that always remains sonorous instead of bangy. His performance of Chopin's B minor sonata deserved a larger audience than it had.

In its first public concert of the season at Mandel hall last evening the University of Chicago Symphony orchestra, Siegmund Lovarie, conductor, presented the first Chicago performance of Bach's monumental "The Art of Fugue," in a transcription for orchestra by Wolfgang Gräser.

Child Held Closer if Mother Gives Him Physical Care

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

(Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

Any one who turns her baby or her children over to a nurse or a nursery school for their entire physical care misses something that she can never recapture. The mind and the emotions of a baby and a child are all tied up with their physical needs and the way these are met.

You can't feel the same toward a nice, fresh fed, rested, clean baby, put into your arms every day by a nurse after you've bathed and groomed yourself, as you feel toward the baby you've watched over and "changed" and mopped up cereal from, and toward the toddler you've trailed around after and presented carrots to in your most engaging manner, while you hope to goodness you won't be too tired to take a bath tonight as you were last night!

You can't feel the same toward your very young school-going son or daughter if you don't keep an eye on their bathing hour; and help them over the "scrunchy" feeling that comes with nail cutting; and cast a wary eye on the ears; if you don't have a comforting word for that stomach ache, as well as a remedy; if you don't feel pride that you've managed them so they eat everything.

AN EASY CHRISTMAS PLAY based upon a carol by Arthur Guiterman has been prepared in booklet form by Mrs. Bevans. Ideal for church, home or school presentations. Complete directions are given for staging and costuming. You can get a copy of this booklet at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, or in Tribune Tower, 435 North Michigan avenue. Price, 5 cents by postpaid mail, 7 cents.

Rehearsal and Luncheon at Opera House Today.

About 40 women and 5 men will take time out today from the many preholiday activities to attend a special rehearsal and luncheon at the Civic Opera house. Jason F. Whitney, president of the Chicago City Opera company, and the women's committee of the Opera Foundation fund are giving the party, which is one of a series of affairs planned in connection with the current campaign. The rehearsal will start at 11:30 and luncheon will be served an hour later.

Longmeadow Hunters Give Landowners Party Tonight.

Besides the fact that they are privileged twice a week to watch the picturesque Longmeadow fox hunters ride over their property, the landowners in the vicinity of Northbrook have a yearly recompense in the form of a landowners' party.

At 6:30 o'clock this evening a buffet dinner will be served at the Shawnee Country club. Some 375 guests have received personal invitations from Denison B. Hull, Clifford Templeton, and Ernest S. Ballard.

Mrs. Carl E. Miller and Hill Blackett have been in charge of the entertainment, which will include strolling singers and square dancing. On the reception committee will be Mrs. Ballard, Mrs. Blackett, Mrs. Frederic Burnham, and Mrs. David A. Crawford. Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson Jr., Mrs. Hull, Mrs. Stewart Boal, and Mrs. Nathaniel Duval have planned the decorations. Most of their husbands have been working on the committee, which is headed by Freeman J. Wood.

Architects Promise Giddier Party Jan. 12.

Having come to a final decision on plans for the next Architects' ball, the committee has put proclamations into the mail addressed to a few of its members' friends that on the night of Jan. 12 in the Trianon ballroom the architects will "Call Out the Gods." The gods and goddesses are invited to spend all night with the gods, at which time the Delphic oracle, just rediscovered by the architects, will speak. The oracle asks that guests "wear the garb of your personal myth," and in return for observing the spirit—and the costume—of the myth, the oracle promises "to answer the most absurd questions ever put to any oracle."

Contrary to the custom of the past, the tickets will not be on sale to the general public. Instead, the architects are inviting 100 of their friends to be sponsors, each of whom has the privilege of inviting 20 guests. These 2,000 will make merry in a setting mentioned on the proclamations as "acropolis erected overnight on a ballroom floor, within hail of the sacred groves and haunts of Bacchanalia." If these fabulous promises are fulfilled, "Call Out the Gods" promises to be gayer and giddier than the other two parties the committee has given, the Latin Quarter Fête in 1932 and last year's Movie ball. The proceeds will be used to create an endowment fund for architectural education and architectural scholarships. Nathaniel A. Owings is chairman of the party, assisted by a large group of architects and the wives of some of them.

WEDDING

Invitations are out for the marriage on Saturday of Miss Joanne Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hill, to Hascy Tarbox, son of Frederic H. Tarbox of Minneapolis. The ceremony will be performed at 8:30 o'clock at the Todd school in Woodstock, Ill.

The bridal party will be distinctly collegiate. Miss Catherine Embree of Chicago, who is attending Swarthmore, will be maid of honor. The matron of honor will be Mrs. Alexander Smith, the bride's sister, who went to Barnard. Miss Katherine Hedman of Winnetka, who is attending the National College of Education, will be a bridesmaid with Mrs. Clarence Murphy of Woodstock. Dwight Whitney, who is at the University of California, and John Cutler of Wilmette, who is at Dartmouth, will attend Mr. Tarbox.

After a two weeks' trip to the Gulf of Mexico Mr. Tarbox and his bride will be at home in the Marshall Field Garden apartments.

Comfort for the Invalid

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

The invalid with faulty circulation will welcome this delightfully warm and comfortable crocheted bed sock. It is a perfect fit and suitable for any sized foot. From this same pattern, with a change of hooks and wool, one may make an ideal bootee for the infant. It is seldom that one finds such a perfect bed sock, which may be made in half an hour. One pair in an hour, think of how many such gifts may be made in one day.

For instructions in crocheting the bed sock and infant's bootee, No. X-402, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Looking at Hollywood

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 10. — Did George Raft go on to New York to make divorce arrangements with his wife, so that Norma Shearer can become Mrs. Raft? . . . Artie Shaw will be back on the bandstand in February. . . . The Wayne Morris' papoose is scheduled for a Jan. 1 landing. . . . Lana Turner and Greg Bautzer still very much in love. . . . Binnie Barnes rated a seat in the press box at the U. S. C.-U. C. L. A. titanic, because her boy friend, Mike Frankovich, was broadcasting. . . . All-American Granny Lansdell is nutty about Priscilla Lane, which is perfectly understandable. . . . At the Beverly-Wilshire hotel the photographers warily snap the Lew Ayres-Greer Garson tête-à-tête. . . . The engagement of Deanna Durbin and Vaughn Paul will be announced on Christmas day, according to family plans.

The Jack Benny-Fred Allen picture, itemed as a scoopee here, goes before the cameras between July 15 and Aug. 1. The deal is all set, and both of them are very happ-p-y. . . . Judy Garland's real interest is one of the violinists in Ray Noble's band. . . . Warner's probably will bankroll the next Clifford Odets play and use it as a stage vehicle for John Garfield. . . . Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, who have scored a tremendous success in Los Angeles with "Taming of the Shrew," haven't entered at all into the Hollywood social life because he has been working despite an influenza temperature. Hollywood likes best that phase of the show in which audience late-comers are heckled from a stage box. The movie colony thought Alfred and Lynn had inserted it purposely to tease the cinema stars; as a matter of fact, it is part of the show.

This promises to be a big week out here. On the press preview list are "Gone with the Wind," "Balalaika," "Gulliver's Travels," "Hunchback of Notre Dame," and the most recent of the Hardy series. . . . Good Morning!

Calling all citizens! Calling all citizens! To keep their eyes peeled for foreign agents who would campaign for sabotage in this great, rich—and neutral—nation of ours!

It is the voice of "Espionage Agent" calling.

This is the story of a brilliant young man in the American foreign service who falls in love with and marries a girl who, for reasons the picture shall show you, has been made cat's-paw of a spy ring. . . . The manner in which the ring members operate and that in which Brenda and Barry outwit them provide the picture's action.

As a whole the film is adult and interesting, but it ends abruptly with a sort of unsatisfactory—bump! One moment the hero and heroine are in wild danger. . . . The next they're back home with the bacon, and, judging from Barry's last sally—a little Barry in the offing.

The picture is well acted thruout and offers some interesting glimpses into the activities of the foreign service department both in Washington and abroad.

Brenda Marshall is a new star of great promise. She is charming to look at, has a delightful manner and smile, and wears clothes with an air. Joel McCrea and she make a decidedly pleasing team, and Joel's rôle is the sort he knows how to carry off with éclat.

Our people's temper toward gnawers at our bulwarks is not a kindly one—as is demonstrated by audience applause when the spies got theirs—and Barry comes thru.

See you tomorrow.

On the House

Speaking of making shelves bloom where none ever bloomed before—there are any number of ways of helping yourself to the luxury of shelf space galore. . . . Sometimes a double window with a radiator beneath it can have its radiator inclosed and shelves at each end of the radiator for books. You can place attractive glass shelves between the windows.

Then, too, where a window is a trifle queerly shaped or placed, and nothing much can be done about it, try putting up glass shelves, for flowers and plants, and beneath it, a small glass and metal stand. . . . Then you have a colorful and entirely informal conservatory-nook!

PACKERS WIN PRO TITLE; WHIP GIANTS, 27-0

VICTORS START THINKING ABOUT THE ALL-STARS

1940 Game Is Their Next Goal.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 10.—"We finally got it."

These were the first words of Curley Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers, as the field judge's gun ended today's battle and ratified the victory over the New York Giants that gave the Packers the professional football championship of the world.

While thousands rushed on the field, eager to tell the Packers individually just how great they were this afternoon in their overwhelming triumph over the Giants, Lambeau and his able assistant, Red Smith, solemnly shook hands.

Gantenbein Exults.

"We needed two years," Milt said, thinking of the bitter disappointment last year in the Polo grounds, New York, when the Giants won the title game, 23 to 17, "but we certainly showed 'em today which is the better team. What a licking they took."

All-Stars Next Goal.

"Now we'll be seeing those All-Stars in Soldiers' field in August, won't we, Red? That's another goal of ours. We paid off the Giants this afternoon and we hope to settle our score with the All-Americans."

By this afternoon's victory Green Bay has qualified to represent the National Football league in the seventh annual All-Star game in Soldiers' field next summer.

In August, 1937—Green Bay won the 1936 professional title—the Packers were defeated by the All-Stars in the game sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and associated newspapers and radio stations, 6 to 0. The Packers now make a second appearance in the series begun in 1934.

Joannes Wants Revenge.

"We are doubly gratified that Green Bay won the championship, for it permits our club again to participate in football's greatest spectacle, the All-Star game. We have the finest football team in our history. Green Bay and the fans of Wisconsin will back this team to show the All-Stars of 1940 how football is really played."

We spent the last few minutes of the game on the sidelines with Don Hutson and Cecil Isbell, both of whom were members of the All-Star teams. Isbell won the most valuable player trophy in the 1938 All-Star game before joining the Packers.

Easy Victory Surprises Hutson.

"We expected a terrific fight with the Giants," Hutson said earnestly. "After losing to them twice last year and failing to score a touchdown in the first game, I still can't believe we have 27 points and New York hasn't any. We broke their hearts in the third period this afternoon when we scored 10 points against the wind. The wind had stopped the Giants without a first down in the opening quarter and they must have figured we couldn't score with that handicap."

Isbell praised the Packer linemen. "Our boys gave the Giants the best going over they ever have taken, I'll bet," he said. "New York's running attack couldn't gain at all. Our victory was won up there in the front line."

Many $4.40 Seats Useless.

By the end of the game thousands of spectators were jammed around the sides of the gridiron. Probably no crowd at any sports event of this magnitude was given less consideration. Yet it was an orderly throng, altho long before the end of the first half the patrons in the $4.40 sections of chairs on the running track had been forced to climb on their seats or jam into the ramps and stairways of the amphitheater to get a glimpse now and then of the players.

Chairs finally were stacked to afford an occasional spectator a chance to see. Undoubtedly there were some in these sections on the ground who never saw the game at all. Around the gridiron the more audacious defied the few police to kneel or lie on the ground.

Squads of small boys, many of whom had slipped into the Fair Grounds inclosure, played tag with the officers. Spectators in the bleachers at the north and south ends and those in the first few rows of the grandstand stood thruout the game.

Packers Have Fine Season.

The Packers finished the season with a record of 10 victories and one defeat. They scored 223 points to their opponents' 84. Their only defeat was by the Detroit Lions, 7 to 0, on Nov. 5.

Packers Get Big Hand.

The Packers received a big hand when they were introduced to the crowd before the game. Each player was announced and stepped out of the group of players on the field to receive the applause of the crowd.

Packers Get Cheers.

Cheers greeted the Packers when they were announced as the winners of the Western division championship. The Packers received their trophy from Commissioner Elmer Layden.

Giants Get Cheers.

The Giants received a big hand when they were introduced to the crowd before the game. Each player was announced and stepped out of the group of players on the field to receive the applause of the crowd.

Cheers for Coaches.

CHICAGO GETS THOMAS FAKE FIGHTS INQUIRY

Illinois Board Will Go Over Evidence Today.

Investigation into the biggest sports scandal in two decades, the details of which were uncovered by Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, shifts now from New York to Chicago. This morning at 10 o'clock the Illinois Athletic commission will meet to go over evidence and testimony of the fights Harry Thomas said were faked.

Chairman Joe Triner and associate commissioners, Sheldon Clark and J. R. Fitzpatrick, have asked all persons involved in the Thomas-Max Schmeling fight in New York and the Thomas-Tony Galento fight in Philadelphia to appear. Last night, however, Chairman Triner was certain only that Sol Straus, attorney for Mike Jacobs, New York fight promoter, would attend this morning's meeting.

Ward Will Appear Tomorrow.

Because of a speaking engagement tonight in Ohio, Ward has arranged to appear tomorrow afternoon before the commissioners. Joe Jacobs, manager of Galento and one time associate manager for Schmeling; Galento, Thomas, Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter; Babe Herman, professional second and trainer; Nate Lewis, Thomas' manager; Arthur Donovan, referee of the Thomas-Schmeling bout in New York; Kid McPartland, only surviving judge of that bout, and the referee and judges of the Galento-Thomas match in Philadelphia have been requested by the Illinois commission to attend the hearings.

In the exposé printed in THE TRIBUNE, Thomas confessed he had entered into an agreement with Lewis and Joe Jacobs to lay down to Schmeling after a conference with them in a Chicago hotel. Thomas was supposed to quit in the fourth round and advised friends not to bet on him, among them Jack Newlander and Lee Carroll of Chicago, both of whom have been asked to appear before the Illinois commissioners.

Transfer Case to Dewey Offices.

The New York commission closed its investigation last Friday after hearing Ward's account of how the story of the faked fights was obtained. Thomas declined to tell his story to the New York commission unless he was granted immunity and since the commission was powerless to do this, the case was transferred to the offices of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey. It is a criminal offense to throw a fight in New York.

New York was concerned only with the Schmeling-Thomas fight held in that state. The Philadelphia commission has announced that it will investigate the Galento-Thomas fight held in Philadelphia. The Illinois investigation is concerned with the charges that the agreement to fake a fight was reached in Chicago, and the outcome of the commission hearing also is expected to determine what action will be taken should any of the principals request a license in Illinois.

BLACKHAWKS TRIUMPH OVER CANADIENS, 3-2

But Have to Survive Wild Free-for-All.

The 15,208 paying guests didn't have to wait long to get their lungs into real action, for the Hawks scored one minute and three seconds after the game began. They had to wait till the end for the rowdy features. At this juncture Doug Bentley, the Hawks' half pint rookie flash, slanted one home. Thoms passed to Mush March in center ice. Mush took it just over the right end of the blue line, then passed forward and diagonally to a point several feet in front of Bentley, who was coming in from his left boards a mile a minute. Tiny Doug picked up the rubber faultlessly and blinded Goalie Claude Bourque with a bias shot from eight feet out.

Blake Ties It Up.

The Canadiens tied the score in 11:01 of the second period in a gang-up, while Art Wiebe and March were locked up and the visitors were at full force. MacKenzie, Des Smith and Johnny Gottselig had stood off the Canadien ring-around-rosie maneuvers until the moment Wiebe was stepping out of the penalty box. Before Art could glide to the rescue Blake counted after shoves from Haynes and Trudell.

The Hawks ended the deadlock and made it 3 to 1 in a span of less than a minute in the second period.

With both teams at full strength Allen took the puck off his left boards inside the blue line and passed laterally to Demarco. Demarco, who had called for the puck vociferously, fed it in front of the cage for Bill Carse, who swooped across in front of Goalie Bourque with perfect timing to bat home Hawk goal No. 2. The time was 16:17. In 17:10 March scored a spectacular goal from the right end of the blue line after taking an across the rink lateral from Bentley. Thoms also got an assist on the play.

That was all until the rollicking final three minutes.

Rangers Whip Bruins, 3 to 2; Bauers Hurt

New York, Dec. 10 (AP).—The New York Rangers gave the Boston Bruins a 3 to 2 beating in a National Hockey league game tonight before 15,641 fans. Bryan Hextall scored the winning goal midway thru the last period. In the second meeting of the season between the finalists for the Stanley cup last season, the Rangers spotted the champions an early goal, tied the game in the first period and never went behind again. The teams played a 2 to 2 tie in their first game at Boston. The Bruins were weakened early in the first period when Bobby Bauer suffered a concussion colliding into the end boards. Lineups:

Ode to a Pumpkin Pie.

Inviting pumpkin pie,
A noble work of art indeed,
Appealing to the eye.

But when its spicy odor smites
The eager, sniffing nose,
It rouses more emotions than
The fragrance of the rose.

All hail the apex of the feast—
Dessert that has no peer,
No more we ask for here.

De Paul to Test Purdue Five Tonight

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 10 [Special].—Purdue's unproven basketball squad will make its second start of the season here tomorrow night as it meets the dangerous combination from De Paul of Chicago in a continuation of the outstanding home schedule that will be climaxed by five intersectional engagements during the Christmas vacation period.

Altho the Boilermakers had little difficulty in turning back the Western Illinois State Teachers' quintet in the opener last Thursday night, Coach Ward Lambert is still far from satisfied with the performance of his rebuilt combination.

TONY WILLMAN IS EASY WINNER IN 40 LAP RACE

Tony Willman of Milwaukee led from start to finish to win the 40 lap main event auto race last night in the 124th Field Artillery armory. His time was 8 minutes and 57 seconds.

Duke Nalon of Chicago finished second, a quarter of a lap behind. Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis was third, Ray Richards of Chicago was fourth, and Ted Duncan of Chicago was fifth.

ARMSTRONG AND HOSTAK DEFEND TITLES TONIGHT

New York, Dec. 10 (AP).—Henry Armstrong and Al Hostak, welterweight and middleweight champions, respectively, both defend their titles in Cleveland tomorrow night. Armstrong takes on Jimmy Garrison of Kansas City, whom he whipped in October. The bout is a 10-rounder. Hostak, recognized by the National Boxing association as middleweight champion, meets Eric Seeling of Germany for 15 rounds or less.

The nation's boxing program also features Al Davis of New York and Tippy Larkin of Garfield, N. J., in a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night. They headline a card which also brings into action Heavyweight Pat Comiskey against the veteran Steve Dudas, and a lightweight encounter between Lew Jenkins of Sweetwater, Tex., and Billy Marquart of Canada.

Swedes Defeat Olympia, 3 to 1, to Stay Unbeaten

The Swedish-Americans, amateur league soccer champions, defeated Olympia, 3 to 1, yesterday in Olympia stadium to remain undefeated.

The Manhattan Brewers, who were eliminated from the National cup last week by Sparta, experimented with several new players as they beat the strong Forest Park team of the International league, 1 to 0, in Parichy stadium. Billy Gonsalves made the opening for Hans Klaber to score the only goal. It came in the first period. Sparta kept on edge for the coming National cup games by dealing Hansa a 4 to 0 defeat in Sparta stadium, and Slovaka went down before Slavia, 3 to 2, for its first defeat of the season. Other scores:

Eagles Reserve, 2; Schwabens Seconds, 1.
Northside Juniors, 1; Southside Juniors, 0.
American Nicksleids, 3; Sparta Seconds, 1.

SCHLITZ WIN 3; ADD TO LEAD IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

The Schlitz team added two more games to its lead in the Sunday division of the Classic league last night at the Chicago Recreation by sweeping the series with the Michelobs while the second place Pabst were losing two to the Ambrosias. Last year's champion Monarchs took three games from Pragers and the Koenig Braus won two from Power House. Bill Lenzen of the Monarchs led the individuals with 718. Scores:

clock, but in so doing were penalized five yards for too many times out. On the next play Danowski's pass was intercepted on the 10 yard line and run back to the 23 by Charles Brock, a rookie from Nebraska, who was the fans' choice as starting center on the Tribune's All-Star team last August. Two plays later the period ended.

Brock also squelched a New York threat in the third quarter, intercepting another pass by Danowski after the Giants recovered the ball at the 16 yard line following John Dell Isola's blocking of Clark Hinkle's punt. A fifteen yard holding penalty had shoved the Packers back to the 10 when Hinkle attempted to kick.

Futile Last Minute Threat.

In the final minutes of the game, Eddie Miller, a pint size minor league shortstop, came in at left half back for the Giants, and led an aerial bombardment against Packer reserves that carried to the Packers' 2 yard line. But the gun ending the game exploded in Willie Walls' ear as he picked himself up from where he landed with Miller's last pass, a seventeen yard effort.

It was impossible to single out a Packer star. Unlike their other games, when individual brilliance flares up in one killing thrust, the Packers played a steady, sound, aggressive game of football, hacking away at the line with spinners and reverses to set up favorite plays.

New York opened the game with supreme confidence. The Packers chose to defend the north goal in order to have a 25 mile gale at their backs. Hinkle's first punt was blocked by End Jim Poole, and for an instant, it appeared that this playoff would be an exact duplicate of last year's when Poole and Jim Lee Howell got in on Hinkle's first two punts, giving the Giants a 10 point lead in two minutes.

Undaunted by Blocked Punt.

But today breaks of this nature only served to intensify the Packers' defiance. They beat back this threat and took the ball on their own 20 yard line, when Cuff's first field goal attempt from the 42 yard line bounced into the end zone for a touchback. An exchange of punts followed, and in a twinkling the Packers were victory bound.

Isbell ran wide to pick up one yard on a reverse. Herber lunged up to the line to throw a jump pass, but when his receivers were covered he charged up the middle for eight yards. Frank Cope, the Giants' left tackle, was offside on the next play, and the five yard penalty gave the Packers a first down on the Giants' 33 yard line.

Hutson added four yards on an end around play, then Larry Craig, one of the league's outstanding rookies, loped out from his blocking back position and took Herber's spot pass for five yards. Isbell got only a yard on a reverse, but Hinkle hit center for three and a first down on the 21 yard line.

Score on Deceptive Pass.

The Giants rallied momentarily to hold Isbell to no gain at center, but then Herber passed to Hutson, who twisted out of the arms of Danowski and Dell Isola for a 15 yard gain. Isbell lost a yard on an end run, and Herber again was called upon to pass.

The Giants were duped by an old Packer strategem and Green Bay went ahead. Herber faked a pass to Hutson, who had gone into the flat zone at the left, taking two men with him. Wheeling indifferently into the face of two charging linemen, Herber whipped the ball over their heads into the arms of Gantenbein. It was executed so efficiently that it appeared easy. Engebretsen's placement added the extra point.

The complacence and confidence that one might have expected to see in the Packers when they came back in the third quarter, still ahead, 7 to 6, in a game they seemed to have under complete control, was conspicuously absent. They hurled themselves at the Giants with renewed fury, and on the eleventh play of the quarter went ahead, 10 to 0.

Laws Gains 13 Yards.

Laws returned Danowski's punt fifteen yards to the Packers' 45 yard line. Isbell, who had spun repeatedly thru the center of the Giant line with only indifferent success thruout the first half, spun inside left tackle for eight yards. Hinkle repeated at the same hole for three, also on a spinner. Isbell got two over center, then Laws shot into the secondary thru a hole at right tackle and went thirteen yards to the Giants' 27 yard line before Danowski succeeded in bringing him down.

Hinkle hit the same hole for eight yards, Buckets Goldenberg nearly blocking Mel Hein, the backer-up, into the stands. Hinkle's fumble slowed up the drive, so Engebretsen was sent back to the 29 yard line to place kick. It was successful.

The Giants now were definitely beaten. Eight more plays netted the Packers seven more points. Danowski, rushed in an attempt to pass on third down, threw wildly into the arms of Gantenbein, who bullied his way back eight yards to the 33 yard line. Hein stopped Laws on a spinner, and Hinkle was able to get only two yards on a wide reverse. But on third down the Packers duped their struggling adversaries.

More Aerial Deception.

Isbell took the ball from center and spun as he had been spinning all afternoon in his drives into the line. But as Hinkle charged by him to drive into the pile, Isbell sneaked back five yards, reared up and sent a high, lazy pass wobbling thru the air over the heads of Leemans and Danowski, who were amazed to see Laws waiting impatiently on the 9 yard line for the ball to descend. It finally plunked into his arms and he loped over the goal for a thirty-one yard gain and a touchdown. Engebretsen again added the extra point and the Packers led, 17 to 0.

Late in the fourth period Bud Svendsen, who relieved Brock at center after the former Nebraskan had intercepted two passes, pulled one of Leemans' tosses out of the air and lugged it back fifteen yards to the Giants' 15 yard line. Uram moved the ball three yards nearer on a buck and Jankowski failed to gain at center, but on third down the Packers executed a double reverse that ended in an end around with Harry Jacunski, a rookie, slicing off the Giants' left tackle for eleven yards. Jankowski then went over from the 1 yard line and Ernie Smith kicked the extra point.

	G.B.	Giants
Total first down	10	9

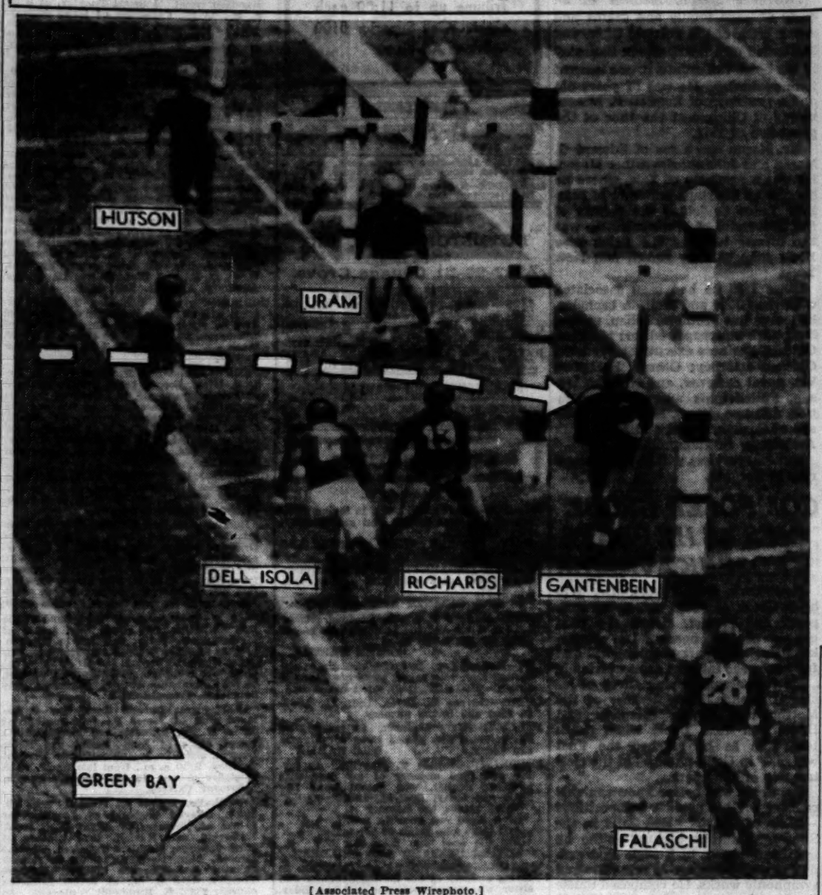
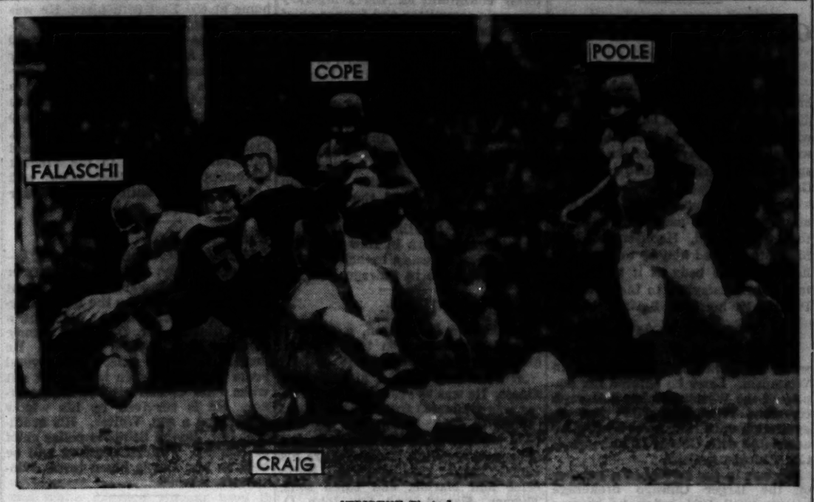
PACKERS PROVE TO BE THE CITY SLICKERS IN PRO TITLE GAME



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

A perfect example of how professional football champions get that way. It is Green Bay Packers' first touchdown against the New York Giants in yesterday's playoff game for the world championship in Milwaukee. Milt Gantenbein, Packer right end, has just caught Arnold Herber's pass under the goal posts. Note that there are three eligible Packer pass receivers over the goal line. Don Hutson is covered by Ward Cuff (hidden behind goal posts) and Johnny Dell Isola and Kink Richards had also kept their eyes on Hutson until they discovered, too late, that Gantenbein was the villain of the piece. Andy Uram is the other eligible Packer receiver. The Packers won the game, 27 to 0.



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

There was a wild scramble for this blocked punt early in the game, but Nello Falaschi, Giant full back, won, and it was the Giants' ball on the Packer 44 yard line. Jim Poole, the Giants' left end, blocked Clark Hinkle's punt and Falaschi, coming in from the other side, beat Larry Craig to the ball. In last year's playoff game in New York between the same teams the Giants scored 10 points in the first two minutes by blocking and recovering Packer punts, but they were unable to capitalize on such breaks yesterday.

[Tribune-Associated Press Wirephoto.]

A swarm of New York tacklers close in on Andy Uram (42) of the Packers in the second quarter and Andy's good intentions go for naught. Leland Shaffer (20) is about to wind his arms around Uram, with two other burly Giants on hand to help gang up on the ball carrier. Uram did a lot of ground gaining for the Packers during the afternoon.

LUCKMAN'S PASS WINS GAME FOR NEWARK, 13 TO 6

Newark, N. J., Dec. 10 [Special].—With Sid Luckman throwing the deciding pass in the closing minutes, the Newark Bears today defeated the Wilmington Clippers, 13 to 6. The victory earned the Bears the right to meet the Paterson Panthers in the playoff game of the American Professional Football association here next Sunday.

Luckman, sent here for the day by the Chicago Bears, tossed the scoring pass to Dick Schweidler, after Rudy Choborda had plunged eighteen yards in three plays to the Wilmington 16 yard line.

RIGGS RALLIES TO BEAT EVERT IN INDOOR FINAL

Bobby Riggs, top ranking amateur tennis player in the United States, added the Chicago City Indoor championship to his list by winning a hard fought five set final match last night in the 108th Engineers' armory.

Riggs dropped the first two sets to his young opponent, Jimmy Evert, 6-8, 5-7, and then rallied to capture the next three, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2. Evert had a chance to win the match in the third set when he led 3 games to 0, but Bobby braced and with a mixture of shots moved up to take the next three games. From this point on Riggs took command with a base line and net attack and quickly ran out the match.

In the men's doubles final Marvin Wachman and Frank Froehling upset Riggs and John Shostrom, 6-3, 7-5, 3-6, 4-6, 6-2.

WRIGHT FIVE WINS.

3 METHODS USED MOVING PHOTOS OF GRID BATTLE

Tribune photographers made a test yesterday of old, relatively new, and the most modern methods of getting pictures into their office. The photographers took pictures of the professional championship football game between the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants in Milwaukee, Wis., 90 miles away.

Some plates, or negatives, were dispatched to Chicago by train, some by chartered airplane, and some by portable wirephoto.

Train transport of negatives has been customary for years, and has been augmented by speedy motor cars. Plane transport, while relatively new and much faster than trains, was inaugurated by THE TRIBUNE as long ago as 1921 to bring the Dempsey-Carpentier fight pictures in from Jersey City, N. J. Wirephoto is the latest method.

First Sent by Wirephoto.

The first batch of negatives was taken to a Milwaukee photographic studio at about 2:35 p. m. In the studio, ready for use, was a portable wirephoto sending machine, manufactured in the Associated Press laboratories. With this apparatus pictures can be sent directly to THE TRIBUNE from any part of the country where telephone service is available.

The photographer developed his plates in the Milwaukee studio, and made enlarged prints. At 3:40 p. m. he began transmitting the first print over the portable sending set via telephone wires to a stationary wirephoto receiving machine in THE TRIBUNE photo studio. The transmission was completed in 10 minutes. A print was made from the negative thus received, and laid on the picture editor's desk at 4:05 p. m.

Others Put Aboard Plane.

Other negatives were sent by automobile to the Milwaukee county airport, 15 miles from the football field, and placed aboard a chartered plane at 2:40 p. m.

The plane landed at the Chicago airport 45 minutes later, and the plates were brought by automobile to Tribune Tower, arriving there at 4:05 p. m. At 4:20 p. m. the first print was laid on the picture editor's desk.

Still other negatives were placed aboard a North Shore electric line train in Milwaukee shortly before 4 p. m. The train arrived at 6:05. At 6:10 p. m. the plates were in the photo studio and at 6:25 p. m. the first print was laid on the picture editor's desk.

Part of Transmission Study.

The three-fold test was made as a part of studies being conducted by THE TRIBUNE photographic department on the relative effectiveness of the various forms of picture transport or transmission.

It is believed that Wirephoto will enable Tribune photographers to increase greatly the speed with which they can send photographic material into their office.

Tiger-Athletic Trade Awaits O. K. of Landis

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 10 (AP).—Rumors that a number of Detroit Tiger players would be declared free agents were revived today by an announcement from a high official of the club that the deal with the Philadelphia Athletics last week awaits the approval of Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Benny McCoy, young infielder and Tiger farm product, was traded along with Pitcher George Coffman to Philadelphia for Outfielder Wally Moses. Rumors say McCoy may be made a free agent. Landis, however, has been silent.

It has been rumored for months that Landis will punish the Tigers for alleged violations of the minor league rules in connection with the handling of their farm system. Some reports say that even veteran Tiger players such as Catcher Rudy York will be given their freedom.

Vice President Walter O. Briggs Jr. of the Tigers made the statement that the deal with Philadelphia awaits Landis' approval.

"NO COMMENT."—LANDIS.

A crisp "No comment" was the reply made last night by Commissioner Landis when asked about rumors in Detroit that he would grant free agency to several Detroit Tigers.

Asked if he might have a statement within a few days, the commissioner said:

"When there is anything to report it will be promptly passed on to you. Good-by!"

GREEN BAY TO GIVE PACKERS WILD GREETING

Flares, Band, Whistles to Herald Arrival.

Green Bay, Wis., Dec. 10 [Special].—Whatever ill feeling was harbored by Green Bay fans over the championship game being transferred to Milwaukee must have melted here this afternoon as they listened by radio to the Packers overwhelm the New York Giants. Surprise at the complete domination of the game by the Packers swept thru all listeners.

Plans were underway today for a huge reception to be held tomorrow evening when the victors return to Green Bay on the Milwaukee road's Chippewa at 4:47 o'clock with their wives and some with brides-to-be. It is expected that more than 10,000 persons will greet the Packers, champions for the fifth time. The special car in which the Packer team travels will be shunted to the old Milwaukee road depot at Washington street and the Mason street bridge, where players will disembark.

Plan General Reception.

In a walk down the long elevated platform the players will be introduced individually. They will then get into buses and will be taken to the Northland and Beaumont hotels, where a general reception will be held. Mayor Alex Biemert will extend an official greeting.

Thursday night a banquet will be given for the Packer team in the Columbus club here. Lavvie Dilweg, former Packer star, is in charge of arrangements. The Green Bay Lions club, of which Dilweg is a member, is sponsoring the banquet. Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be one of the speakers. There is little doubt that the auditorium will be filled with 1,500 diners and 600 spectators.

Will Light Tracks with Flares.

Arrangements for tomorrow night's celebration are being made by the Association of Commerce. The Packer lumberjack band, which was present at the game in Milwaukee, resplendent in bright red lumberjack coats and green hunting caps, will be on hand to play the Packer song, "Go You Packers." Red flares will light the tracks for several miles between DePere and Green Bay, and when the car reaches the old depot platform, sirens, whistles, and bells will break into a scream heralding the arrival of one of the greatest teams in Packer history.

Due for special attention will be Don Hutson and Arnie Herber, but those who heard the game have been talking of Larry Craig, Bill Lee, Buckets Goldenberg, Charley Brock, Clark Hinkle, and Bud Svendson as well.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream—It's Not a Soap, Needs No Brush!

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed GLIDER—a special cream for daily shavers. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Off comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

FREE—Tube of Glider. Send name, address today. The J. B. Williams Co., Dept. CT-66, Glastonbury, Conn.

FARMING LEADERS WILL CONFER ON MANY PROBLEMS

They'll Meet with Illinois G. O. P. Officials.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 10 [Special].—Agricultural leaders of Illinois will meet here next Friday and Saturday with a subcommittee of the Republican special agricultural study committee to discuss farm problems of the day.

Leo A. Allen.

The meeting is one in a series of agricultural conferences held in cities thruout the country. Similar studies have been made by the subcommittee in Salt Lake City, Utah; Denver, Colo.; Dallas, Tex., and Hutchinson, Kas.

Topics for Discussion.

The conferees, who will meet at the Abraham Lincoln hotel, will discuss problems concerning the reciprocal trade agreements and the production of corn, hogs, live stock, poultry, dairy products, soy beans, broomcorn, and grain.

Representative Leo E. Allen of Galena is arranging details of the conference and will preside. All of the Republican congressmen from Illinois are expected to sit with the subcommittee. Representative Clifford R. Hope of Kansas, chairman of the study committee, also will attend the hearing, as he has all previous conferences.

The Illinois G. O. P. representatives, in addition to Congressman Allen, are Ralph E. Church of Evanston, Chauncey W. Reed of West Chicago, Noah M. Mason of Oglesby, Anton J. Johnson of Macomb, Robert B. Chiperfield of Canton, Everett M. Kirksen of Pekin, Leslie C. Arends of Melvin, Miss Jessie Sumner of Milford, and William H. Wheat of Rantoul.

Reports Big Response.

"The response," said Representative Allen, "on the part of agriculturists to the invitation to meet with the study committee was so great at both Salt Lake City and Denver, which conferences I attended, as to convince all of us that this series of hearings is the most constructive approach possible to the determination of a solution for the various problems which confront agriculture.

"We anticipate a tremendous response at the Springfield meeting. The nonpolitical character of the conferences has been one reason for the excellent results achieved, and this will be the case at Springfield.

"The findings of the committee on the various subjects to be discussed will be reported back by this subcommittee to the main committee. They will, in turn, be routed by Chairman Hope to the special subcommittees which will be named later to study the specific subject.

"I believe this is the most constructive effort to meet agricultural problems that has been made in the last 10 years.

"The series of meetings that will be held in every section of the United States between now and the end of the next session of congress will be productive of a tremendous amount of information that will be helpful in the efforts of congress to formulate a constructive farm program for the future."

Special Committee Named.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10 (AP).—A special Republican committee of house members was appointed today to study the effect of reciprocal trade treaties on industry, agriculture, and labor.

Appointment of the committee, accepted generally as a further indication that Republicans intended to make the treaties a 1940 campaign issue, was announced by Representative Martin of Massachusetts, the house Republican leader.

He named to it the 10 Republican members of the house ways and means committee. Findings of the special committee, Martin said, will supplement a similar study made by Republican members of congress in 1937, which resulted in a minority report of Republican members of the house ways and means committee.

The Group's Members.

The members of the special committee:

Treadway [Mass.], chairman; Crowther [N. Y.] and Knutson [Minn.], vice chairmen; Reed [N. Y.], Woodruff [Mich.], Jenkins [O.], McLean [N. J.], Gearhart [Cal.], Carlson [Kas.], and Jarrett [Pa.].

The trade act expires June 12 and the administration is expected to ask its reenactment at the coming session of congress.

The trade group is the fifth special committee appointed by Martin. An agriculture committee, previously appointed, has been holding hearings in the middle west and giving particular attention to the effect of trade treaties on agriculture. This group, headed by Representative Hope [R., Kas.], will open hearings on Friday in Springfield, Ill.

ORSON C. WELLS, RETIRED BROKER, DIES IN FLORIDA

Once a Partner of 'Bet a Million' Gates.

Orson Collins Wells, retired Chicago broker, clubman, and world traveler, died yesterday in his home at Clearwater, Fla. He was 80 years old. Wells was a one time partner of the famous speculator Charles G. [Bet a Million] Gates.

He was born at Neenah, Wis., and accompanied his parents as a child to Lafayette, Ind. He often told how his mother lifted him up to see Abraham Lincoln's body as it was being taken thru Lafayette to the civil war President's home in Springfield, Ill.

Goes to Work at Age of 14.

At the age of 14 Wells went to work as a railroad telegrapher in Wisconsin. Later he entered the employ of the Western Union Telegraph company, remaining with that organization until 1885, when he became associated with George C. Eldridge & Co., Chicago brokers.

He was in the service of a number of the larger Chicago brokerage houses until 1904, when he became a member of the firm of Charles G. Gates & Co., broker in stocks, grains, and other commodities. When the firm was dissolved in 1907, Wells retired.

Actor Named for Him.

He never married, and for more than 40 years resided at the Chicago Athletic association. Among his close friends were Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, John T. McCutcheon, and George Ade, the writer. Wells spent considerable time at Ade's Hazelden farm at Brook, Ind., and he and Ade traveled around the world together.

While they were on a cruise to the West Indies, they met Richard Welles and his wife, Beatrice Ives Welles of Racine, Wis. At the close of the cruise Mrs. Welles confided to her shipboard friends that she expected a child. She asked permission, if it was a boy, to name the child for Ade and Wells. Her child, George Orson Welles, is the celebrated young actor.

In recent years Wells had spent his winters at Belleair, Fla., but purchased the home in Clearwater a year ago. The body is to be cremated there Wednesday.

CEREMONY OPENS WRIGHTWOOD AV. RAIL UNDERPASS

Northwest side residents gathered yesterday at Wrightwood and Kostner avenues to celebrate the formal opening of a $250,000 Wrightwood avenue underpass beneath tracks of the Milwaukee railroad. The ceremonies opened with a parade sponsored by the northwest area council of the Chicago Motor club. Speakers included Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th] and other civic leaders. A memorial service for Marjorie Swanson, 15 years old, a Kelvyn High school student who was killed three years ago while crossing the tracks, was conducted in the school after the dedication.

Clybourn Subway Station Bids to Be Opened Thursday

Government engineers said yesterday bids for construction of a station on the Clybourn avenue section of the subway will be opened Thursday. New bids will be received Jan. 4 for construction of two North State street stations. The first bids were rejected because they were considered too high. Engineers said construction on the subway tubes north and west of the river should be completed in two months.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Toronto.

COMPOSER GROSZ DIES AS HE PLAYS ROSENKAVALIER

New York, Dec. 10 (AP).—Dr. Wilhelm Grosz, 45 years old, noted composer and pianist, struck the final chords of the opera "Der Rosenkavalier" just after midnight and fell backward into the arms of friends.

He was accompanying three of his closest friends, Irene Jessner of the Metropolitan Opera company and Hansi and Rosi Book, when death took him as he reached the final words—"in God's name"—of the closing trio of the opera.

Dr. Grosz was better known in this country for his popular compositions —"Isle of Capri," "Red Sails in the Sunset," "Harbor Lights"—altho he had been known in Europe as a conductor and composer of dramatic and symphonic works. He composed music for foreign motion pictures and had signed a contract only a few days ago with Warner Brothers.

Born in Vienna, Dr. Grosz was graduated from the University of Vienna and was a pupil of the Viennese composer Frank Schrecker. He became conductor of the Vienna opera. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth; two children, and his mother.

LAST STREET CAR LINE OF 3 CITIES GIVES WAY TO BUS

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 10 [Special].—The Tri-City Railway company has announced that some time within the next three months it will substitute buses for the green bridge line street cars operating over the Rock Island government bridge between Rock Island and Davenport.

This will mark the end of street car service in the tricities of Rock Island and Moline, Ill., and Davenport, Ia. When the last car returns to the barns it will complete a 50 year cycle for electrically operated street cars in the three cities. The first street cars in the tricities, also one of the first in the middle west, operated in Moline Oct. 17, 1889. Horse cars preceded the electric cars in the tricities from 1868 to 1889. Consent for the change to buses has been given by the cities of Rock Island and Davenport, and by the Rock Island arsenal authorities.

It also was announced that the Tri-City Railway company will take over the passenger and mail service between Clinton and Muscatine, Ia., thru Davenport. Interurban rail operation will be abandoned and new large buses will be put in service.

FINANCE LEADERS WILL TESTIFY AT MONOPOLY PROBE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10 (AP).—The securities commission announced today that 29 leaders in financing would be called to testify during the monopoly committee's hearing on the concentration of control in the investment banking industry, which opens Tuesday.

Peter R. Nehemkis Jr. of the SEC staff will examine the witnesses on these phases of investment banking:

The efforts of leading investment banking firms to conform to provisions of the banking act of 1933

Toy Makers Prove Santa Has Moved to America

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10 (AP).—The commerce department reported today that 98 per cent of the toys bought in the United States this year will be American made.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

YEAR IS PROVING ONE OF BEST IN AIR LINE HISTORY

All Domestic Firms May Avoid Loss.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

It is estimated by competent authorities that the commercial air lines of the United States will have flown 880,000,000 passenger miles in 1939 when the year ends three weeks hence. They will have carried 26,800,000 pounds of air mail and 12,500,000 pounds of air express. And for the first time in aviation history every one of the domestic operators has a good chance of ending the year without loss.

All in all, the year has been one of the best in the 12 year life of the industry. A new all-time high safety record still is in the making. And passenger traffic that usually dwindled during the winter months when difficult weather conditions were encountered, has held almost at hitherto unapproached summer levels.

Full Service in Winter.

For the first time the major transcontinental operators are maintaining the same number of trips thruout the winter as during the summer. Usually the winter brought a reduction in frequency of service and meant a laying off of pilots and a period of steady losses for the air transportation companies.

Safety of flying operations during the last year, however, apparently has sold the American public on air travel. Of course, reductions in fares —the average fare is now about 5.5 cents a mile for both short and long trips—has been a potent factor also. But the major companies believe that safety is their chief sales argument and they have been concentrating upon it.

Taking a leaf from the histories of the railroads and the larger steamship lines, the air transportation operators formed their own trade association, the Air Transport Association of America, some years ago. They have endeavored thru this association to improve flight technique, safety regulations, and every aspect of operations.

Lines Aid Each Other.

Altho the sales representatives of the various lines conduct highly competitive campaigns, the operators understand that this competition must not be allowed to influence the dictates of safe flying. As evidence of this the industry points to the number of committees—comprising representatives of the operations departments of all the lines—that constantly are meeting.

For instance, there is Aeronautical Radio, Inc., an agency jointly owned by all the air lines. This corporation forms a clearing house for radio problems of all the operators. One line that finds an efficient type of radio tube, or is able to work out an exceptionally fine radio circuit, gives this information to Aeronautical Radio and it is immediately made available to all the lines.

Then there is the air line maintenance committee. This meets several times annually and discusses problems that arise in operating and maintaining the various types of air liners, engines, and accessories that are used today. Practices relating to overhaul, maintenance, etc., are standardized and facts learned by various operators are pooled for all.

Specify on Performance.

The maintenance committee also draws up its own specifications for the various aeronautical manufacturers and, speaking with the voice of all the air line operators, specifies the performance desired from motors, lubricants, fuels, and every component of an airplane.

The collaboration of the operators has brought about a virtual standardization in flight equipment. Most of the lines flying today operate either Douglas or Lockheed planes. The engines or either Wright or Pratt & Whitney air cooled radial types. And all the planes carrying passengers in the country are multiengine machines.

In every industry, however, there are struggles between individuals and corporations. In an industry as highly competitive as air transportation there are many business battles. This refusal to conform to any rigid supervision, and the ruggedly individualistic policy adopted by air line executives is chiefly responsible for the STANDARD BRANDS.

I would like some information about the business of Standard Brands and its recent earnings—H. C.

Answer: Standard Brands, Inc., is a major processor and distributor of food products. Its merchandising channels reach thousands of urban and rural communities in the United States and extend to important centers of the world.

The company is reported to produce about two-thirds of the yeast and white distilled vinegar used in this country. Other products are baking powder, coffee, tea, flavored gelatines and puddings, pickles, spices, salad dressings, and gin. They are sold to commercial bakeries, hotels, restaurants, public institutions, as well as grocers.

Standard Brands owns numerous domestic, South American, Canadian, and European subsidiaries. The firm was established in 1929 to consolidate the Fleischmann company, Royal Baking Powder company, E. W. Gillett company, Ltd., and Chase & Sanborn, Inc.

Operations of Standard Brands have been profitable every year. The highest level in net income was in 1930, when it reached $16,402,000, or $1.22 a common share. Consolidated net income in recent years, earnings a share, and dividends paid a common share follow:

1934 ...	*$13,889,000	$1.06	$1.00
1935 ...	*12,746,000	0.97	0.95
1936 ...	*14,707,000	1.12	1.05
1937 ...	9,865,000	0.73	0.80
1938 ...	8,721,000	0.62	0.62½

For the first three quarters of 1939 net income dropped to $5,102,861, or 35 cents a common share, from $6,190,054, or 44 cents a share, in the same period of 1938.

The company has paid 47½ cents a common share thus far this year. A dividend of 10 cents a share is payable Jan. 2, 1940, on stock of record Dec. 11. Almost the entire net profit remaining after payment of preferred dividends in recent years has been distributed to the common stockholders. In some years dividends paid on each common share exceeded the amount earned.

The company has outstanding 200,000 shares of $4.50 cumulative preferred stock and 12,648,108 shares of no par common stock. The consolidated balance sheet at the end of 1938 listed total assets of $78,188,000. Current assets of $48,049,401 exceeded current liabilities by $42,102,163.

STEEL INDUSTRY CATCHING UP ON ADVANCE ORDERS

The record tempo of the nation's steel industry, unchanged at 94 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity, is catching up with advance orders, the magazine Steel reported yesterday in its weekly review.

Moderation in forward buying has not affected present deliveries, the publication said, and order backlogs will maintain the present high production rate into the first quarter of 1940.

"Consumer inventories have been enlarged in the last 10 weeks to a level more commensurate with the higher rate of metal working operations," Steel said. "Consequently, future steel demand would be expected to be lighter even with sustained consumption."

ACCUSES TNEC OF SEEKING TO TERRIFY TRADE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10 [Special].—A special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce today submitted to a referendum vote of all member organizations a report accusing the temporary national economic committee [monopoly probe] of seeking to "terrify" business with threats of more drastic antitrust penalties.

The report also assailed the department of justice for its practice of seeking mass indictments against officers and corporations in specific industries in antitrust cases. The committee is headed by John A. Law of Spartanburg, S. C.

"Any proposals that have for their object the control of industries by governmental agencies are not in the public interest," the committee asserted. "The proposals of the economic committee that the rights of patentees in granting licenses should be curtailed should not prevail. The patent system should be maintained without impairment.

"The proposal of the economic committee that 'civil remedies' of a most extreme kind should be added to injunctions obtained under the antitrust laws should be opposed."

ANTITRUST DRIVE IS EXTENDED TO GLASS INDUSTRY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10 (AP).—The department of justice today extended its antitrust drive into the glassware industry. It announced that a civil suit would be filed in Toledo, O., tomorrow charging 13 corporations and 103 of their officers with conspiring to restrain trade and obtain a monopoly.

At the same time the department announced that a grand jury would be convened in New York soon to launch a general investigation of alleged abuses of patent rights.

The Owens-Illinois Glass company of Ohio, said by the department to be the largest producer of glassware in the United States, heads the list of concerns against which the complaint is scheduled to be filed tomorrow in federal District court for northern Ohio. The department said that the complaint would charge that the Owens-Illinois and the Hartford-Empire company, a Connecticut patent holding company, thru patent licensing agreements, controled 97 per cent of the $160,000,000 annual gross glass container business.

FISK RUBBER CO. OWNERS TO VOTE ON SALE DEC. 29

New York, Dec. 10 (AP).—Directors of the Fisk Rubber corporation announced today they had accepted an offer of the United States Rubber company to buy their firm at a price in excess of $11,000,000. The offer will be submitted to Fisks' 5,300 stockholders for decision on Dec. 29.

The announcement said the agreement provided for purchase of preferred stock at $110 a share and common stock at $6[illegible] cash plus one-fourth share of United States Rubber common. The common stock offer was equivalent to about $17 a share, based on United States Rubber's closing quotation yesterday of 41. Fisk's closing price on the New York Curb was 15⅝ per common share.

Motor Companies Ordered to Drop 6 Per Cent Plan

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10 (AP).—The federal trade commission announced today that it had ordered General Motors corporation and subsidiaries and the Ford Motor company to discontinue use of the words "6 per cent" in connection with the instalment payment plan of purchasing automobiles. The order said that the 6 per cent figure could not be used when the charges to be paid by a purchaser were in excess of a simple interest of 6 per cent calculated on the basis of the unpaid balance due after each instalment.

Larger Loans on Corn Crop Are Forecast

Farmers will pledge about 360 million bushels of corn to the government as security for loans this season, Nat C. Murray, statistician for Jackson & Curtis, estimated yesterday. A total of 257 million bushels was sealed for loans during the preceding season. Of the latter total about 138 million bushels have been resealed by farmers and are held off the market.

Production of corn for all purposes this year, as indicated by the department of agriculture's Nov. 1 report, was 2,591,000,000 bushels. An additional 561 million bushels were carried over from the preceding season, making a total supply of 3,152,000,000 bushels for 1939-'40. Murray's report indicates about 20 per cent of the supply will be held off the market.

Hog Prices Govern Sealing.

Farmers who were in Chicago last week attending the live stock show said that in some sections the amount of corn sealed for government loans would be determined to a large extent by the action of the hog market. If the market declines to any large extent, feeders will sell their hogs and seal the corn, it was said.

Wheat prices mounted 11¼ cents a bushel in 10 days before reacting to any extent. This was the largest continuous advance witnessed on the Chicago Board of Trade since the inflation bulge in May and June of 1934, which carried prices up about 30 cents in 30 days.

STOCKS ADVANCE DURING WEEK, BUT TRADING IS DULL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 10. — There was little in last week's stock market to distinguish it from the performances of the immediately preceding weeks, altho prices managed to improve. Gains on the average ran from fractions to more than a point.

However, in the majority of sessions the trading range was narrow and volume for the period little improved. Sales for the six days amounted to 3,849,635 shares, compared with 3,639,410 shares in the preceding week.

ILLINOIS BANKS REFUTE CHARGE OF NOT LENDING

Show Big Volume of Credit Extended.

The American Bankers' association yesterday made public the results of a survey in Illinois which it said refuted "assertions that banks are not lending."

All of Domestic Operators May Avoid Loss.

Fight for Traffic.

At this time two of the largest lines, American Airlines and United Air Lines, are at war over traffic to be gleaned on the Chicago-New York airway. Both lines fly three nonstop trips daily both east and west between these terminals. And currently the lines are operating their trips at exactly the same times, with departures from each end at 12 noon, 3 p. m., and 5 p. m.

It was this battle for patronage and schedule rights that the Air Line Pilots' association condemned on Thursday evening in convention here at the Congress hotel. The pilots said that the operation of planes from both companies with simultaneous departures and arrivals at destinations would lead to racing and competitive flying that they regard as detrimental to safety.

The pilots said that in the interests of reasonable operating policies there should be a time separation between planes and schedules should be staggered. Officers of the Civil Aeronautics authority have taken cognizance of the dispute and examined executives of both lines, but no further action is contemplated at this time.

Officials of both lines acknowledge the existence of the dispute. American Airlines has charged that a United pilot recently left New York without filing a flight plan contrary to federal regulations – merely in order to get out ahead of an America liner.

Arbitration Is Sought.

United's officers deny this statement, but report that twice recently American Airline planes that left New York after a United have arrived in Chicago ahead of it. This, they say, constitutes racing, because both lines are flying DC-3 air liners with motors of equivalent power and identical cruising speeds.

Efforts now are being made to get both the lines to arbitrate their differences thru a committee established by the Air Transport association. There are indications that this policy will be followed. Both lines, meanwhile, assert that they are not relaxing their rigid safety standards in any respect.

The Civil Aeronautics authority is interested in settling the matter only because the simultaneous departures and arrivals of the air liners tend to crowd the airways and make knotty traffic problems in conditions of low ceilings and poor visibility at the airports when these ships arrive at approximately the same time.

Thomas O. Hardin, chairman of the CAA's air safety board, recently said he believed that one of the great weaknesses of the air transportation industry at this time is its handling of air traffic jams.

Green Bay Wins Professional Football Title by Defeating Giants—Finns Push Back Russian Troops
